JFK Seeks $600-Mfor Projects

Outlines Program In House Letter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress today for a $600-million program to start public works projects at once in areas suffering from substantial unemployment.

Kennedy outlined his new program in a letter to the House Public Works Committee as the committee opened hearings on another administration public works plan—a standby $2-billion program for use in future recessions.

Asks Prompt Action

The President asked for prompt enactment of both an immediate and a standby program to provide jobs. The new program had been strongly urged by labor union leaders at a White House meeting with Kennedy two weeks ago.

The President said that, despite during the past year, there are nearly 1,000 communities—large cities, smaller cities, and rural areas — that are experiencing "serious problems of prolonged, economic distress."

Last week Kennedy reportedly endorsed a proposal by Sen. Joseph S. Clark Jr., D-Pa., and Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., that up to $500 million be made available for public works grants this year if the April unemployment figures don't show a dramatic drop.

PWC Gets Proposal

The latest figures, for February, show 5.6 per cent of the labor force out of work.

The $500 million could be spent only in areas of persistently high unemployment and would have to be matched dollar-for-dollar by state and local governments.

The administration's official view on the proposal will be given to the House Public Works Committee today by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff, Budget Director David E. Bell, Chairman Walter Heller of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and Kermit Gordon, a member of the council.

The committee will hold two weeks of hearings on Kennedy's request for the standby authority, which he outlined in a message to Congress last Feb. 19. He said it would be "an invaluable anti-recession tool."

Crime, Business, Labor Measures On Today's Slate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Controversial labor, crime and business legislation confronted the 1962 Legislature today as it entered its final week with leaders hoping for a rare event—an orderly adjournment.

Various issues expected to bring on prolonged debate were listed on calendars that also included a plan certain to receive overwhelming support from the election-minded lawmakers — Increase in state aid to education rising to $229 million a year over the next three years.

But, while the long-awaited school - aid plan was the chief legislation remaining in the session, scheduled to end Thursday, the closing days also held a promise of controversy.

Among measures posing the thorniest political problems were bills that would bar professional strike breakers and allow employes of non-profit institutions to organize for collective bargaining.

Each bill has the strong support of organized labor and each is opposed, on various grounds, by employer groups.

A measure to give state recognition to chiropractors by licensing them, which is opposed by the State Health Department, and another to bar sale of brand-name merchandise at discount prices also were among the issues that

Pressing for Vote In Poll Tax Fight

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another early session of the Senate was called today in an effort by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to inch along toward a vote in the anti-poll tax fight.

Mansfield was hopeful that at least a start on voting could be made within the next two or three days.

The purpose of the 9 a.m. starting hour was to increase the pressure on Southern senators waging an oratorical battle against a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

Motion Still Pending

Still pending is a motion Mansfield made March 14 to bring up a minor bill as a vehicle for getting the anti-poll tax amendment before the Senate for action.

Mansfield is aiming at a vote on this preliminary motion in the next day or two as Southern opponents exhaust the two times they are permitted under the rules to speak on the subject under consideration.

At Saturday's session, Sens. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Lister Hill, D-Ala., and A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., used up their second speeches

Alabama, Mississippi and Virginia are among the five states that still require voters to pay a poll tax. The other two are Arkansas and Texas.

The scrap over the poll tax has stymied consideration of other measures in the Senate and forced almost a complete shutdown in the work of committees.

JFK Wants $200 Million

However, the only major bill awaiting action is a controversial measure to authorize the United States to buy U.N. bonds to help finance peace-keeping operations in the Congo and Middle East.

President Kennedy has asked for authority to purchase half of a $200-million U.N. bond issue. A compromise bill approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would limit U.S. purchaes above $25 million to the amount other U.N. members buy up to an over-all total of $100 million.

Kennedy said last week he would go along with the substitute.

In the House, leaders planned action this week on a major tax revision bill and a $5,170,788,000 appropriation to finance the Labor and Welfare departments and related agencies in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Strikers Return

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—About 140 employes of the Lipe-Rollway Corp. were back at work today, after settlement of a 41 - day strike.

Local 14929 of the United Mine Workers Union and the company reached agreement Sunday on a two-year contract that provides for a wage increase, a modified union shop and other benefits.

Hourly workers were given a 5 per cent wage increase the first year and a 3 per cent hike the second year. Incentive workers were given a 2 per cent increase each year.

Long Neglect Is Blamed for Way Building Looks

Deterioration such as that at an East O'Reilly Street municipal building mentioned recently by Mayor John J. Schwenk, "has not just occurred," says Alderman Frank C. Sass (D), Seventh Ward, "it was a process that is natural after 25 years of neglect."

Mayor Schwenk, in a statement released Saturday, said he was "shocked and disgusted that such deterioration should be permitted to take place in one of Kingston's public buildings." He referred to a leaking roof and rotted ceiling in the offices of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health.

Sass, who is Common Council majority leader and building and supply committee chairman, said that since the mayor had issued a press release on the condition of the building, he felt a reply was in order.

The alderman said he was "shocked and surprised" that the mayor, 'after consulting with me on the condition of the building, and agreeing on the action to be taken, that he should issue a press release at all."

Condition of the building, he said, was no secret, and "late last year bids were secured from two local concerns to repair the roof and it was scheduled for repair this year."

Rehabilitation of all city buildings was started three years ago by his committee, he said, "with approval of Mayor Radel." It was his belief then, he said, that the most used buildings should be given priority.

"Extensive modernization of our heating plant,. . . refurbishing of the city hall, including our council chambers, the roof and exterior of the Municipal Auditorium he said are just some of the improvements accomplished in recent years. The deterioration the mayor speaks of has not just occurred, it is a process that is natural after 25 years. Up until Mayor Radel's term in office, it appeared that administration after administra-

R. I. Groups Says State Has Cut Welfare Rolls

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—The Rhode Island Public Expenditure Council says the Department of Social Welfare appears to be making progress in cutting down the number of relief recipients.

The council, a privately financed research organization, has been critical of state government operations.

The group referred today to Gov. John A. Notte's proposed public assistance budget for the coming year, which would represent the first decline in relief expenditures in Rhode Island in ten years. The council said:

"Unquestionably, much of this is due to such factors as broadened social security coverage, higher unemployment compensation benefits, and generally better economic conditions; but it is also likely that the state has been making progress in its efforts to get people back on a self-sustaining basis."

The budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 calls for state and federal relief expenditures of $20,859,300, or $748,000 less than estimated costs for the current year.

French See Capture Of Jouhaud Big Gain

General and Staff Taken at Oran in 10-Hour Battling

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — The French government today reported its biggest success to date in its war against the Secret Army Organization—the capture of former Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, one of the top leaders of the European underground in Algeria.

A French spokesman announced that Jouhaud and his staff were captured during a 10-hour battle that raged through the heart of Oran, Algeria's second city in western Algeria.

Commandos Driven Off

Secret army commandos tried to rescue Jouhaud, their commander in western Algeria, but were driven off.

Jouhaud and four others, including a woman, were flown to Paris today and locked up in Sante Prison. Jouhaud, along with ex-Gen. Raoul Salan and other fugitive leaders of the abortive general's revolt in Algiers last April, is under a death sentence for that defiance of President Charles de Gaulle's government.

A French spokesman in Algiers said Jouhaud and his staff were trapped in a building on the waterfront that had been under urveillance for some time.

The captives were transferred to a gendarmerie barracks. Minutes later a strong secret army commando group attacked the barracks. The French forces repelled the attack.

Big Prize

Officials said Jouhaud was arrested Sunday about 4 p.m. It was not until about 10:30 p.m. that the police realized how big a catch they had made and his identification verified.

In addition to false papers in the name of Gerberd, Jouhaud had a mustache and a false beard, and was wearing civilian clothes. At the moment of the arrest, Jouhaud was in a meeting with 16 other persons. About 10 of them were taken to the police headquarters. Five were flown to Paris.

During the search of the 17-story seafront building, personally led by the deputy prefect (chief) of police in Oran, a number of apartment doors were forced open with axe blows.

Aimed at Transmitter

Reports Sunday said that the operation was aimed at finding a secret army radio transmitter.

One of those arrested with him was identified as a former major named Gamelin. The others were reported to be of lesser importance.

A source close to secret army circles in Oran said that former Gen. Paul Gardey, once the commander of the Foreign Legion, would probably take over as commander of the Oran region for the secret army.

Jouhaud and Salan, the top commander of the secret army, had been fugitives in Algeria since the collapse of the generals' revolt last April. The other two leaders of the putsch attempt, Gen. Maurice Challe and Gen. Andre Zeller, surrendered and were sentenced to 15-year prison terms.

Argentina Tightens Security in Crisis

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi won a reprieve from the army today to continue his maneuvering to stay in office but military chiefs made clear any settlement of Argentina's nine-day crisis would be on their terms.

Guards at Government House donned battle dress, machine guns were mounted on the pink-hued building and security checks tightened in the area.

To Forestall Coup

The precautions were taken apparently to forestall a sudden coup by admirals and some army generals reported determined to get Frondizi out.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu, champion of democratic government and the country's military ruler after the ouster of dictator Juan Peron, enlisted the support of much of the army high command in stalling off a showdown after the navy publicly called on Frondizi to resign.

Aramburu, hero of the revolt that overthrew Peron in 1955, pleaded for more time to work out a peace after warning the 21 million Argentines in a radio-television broadcast "the republic is in danger" and "many fear all is lost."

Frondizi Won't Quit

Frondizi, 54, has vowed he will never quit but Aramburu emphasized that the armed forces could get rid of the president at will.

The Peronists, whose election victories drove Frondizi into a corner, appeared pushed into the background of the milling crisis.

When Aramburu was called from retirement to mediate the dispute last Friday, he spoke of needing 10 days to formulate a new policy for the government—with or without Frondizi.

Army Secretary Gen. Rosendo Fraga, in orders to his commanders in the interior, declared that Gen. Aramburu must be given an opportunity to carry out the job.

Fraga's message went out a few hours after the admirals called on Frondizi to quit. Some army generals reportedly were willing to give Frondizi only 24 hours to get out or be ousted.

Frondizi desperately waged an uphill fight to cling on to the presidency by hastily patching together a new Cabinet he presented as a coalition. The major opposition political parties boycotted his bids.

Four Motorists Face Charges of Unsteady Driving

Four motorists were charged with driving motor vehicles while intoxicated and two persons were injured as the result of a series of highway mishaps investigated during the weekend by Highland State Police.

Thomas Brennan, 48, of East Hartford, Conn., was charged with drunken driving by troopers at Highland, after his car struck a parked vehicle on Route 9W at Marlboro at 10 p. m. Saturday.

Hits Parked Car

The parked car was owned by Robert Cafferella, 51, of Overlook Place, Newburgh. Trooper Harry Foster said Brennan took a blood test. He was released in $250 bail pending a hearing Saturday, April 7 at 7 p. m.

Trooper Foster said Stephen Hertica, 58, of 33 Henry Street, was charged with drunken driving Sunday night after his car went out of control and crashed into shrubbery at the Highland traffic circle. Town of Lloyd Justice of the Peace Phillip Schunk fixed bail at $50 and adjourned hearing until April 9

Narayanan Is Called Dedicated

Speech Due 27th On Disarmament

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP)—The death of a United Nations official caused quick adjournment of today's session of the disarmament conference and delayed a final personal appeal by Secretary of State Dean Rusk for East-West agreement on limited arms accords.

Rusk had planned a final speech on disarmament before leaving for Washington Tuesday. But the session opened with the announcement of the death Sunday of T. G. Narayanan, 50, an Indian diplomat and U.N. representative at nuclear test ban talks.

Will Talk on Tuesday

Before the session adjourned, Rusk praised Narayanan as "an international civil servant of the highest dedication, a man of great character, a man of great talent."

U.S. officials said Rusk would deliver his disarmament speech Tuesday.

Rusk also arranged a meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in what was expected to be a final effort at Geneva to see whether any progress toward agreement on Berlin is possible.

Barring some new Soviet maneuver to break the Berlin or nuclear test deadlock, Rusk plans to leave Tuesday for Washington. He is expected to report to President Kennedy that in spite of the stalemates on major issues, the meetings of the foreign ministers in Geneva have registered some gains.

Rusk's View

Chief among these in Rusk's view has been the organization of the work of the disarmament conference as well as some clarification of Berlin issues resulting from his talks with Gromyko.

In the course of the talks Rusk reportedly emphasized repeatedly that the United States and its allies want a Berlin settlement but never at the cost of yielding their basic rights to maintain troops in the city and have access to it.

The United States and the Soviet Union opened the way for actual negotiations at the disarmament conference by agreeing on a system of committees to do the detailed bargaining. They also agreed that Soviet and Western proposals for disarmament would be given equal priority. Gromyko had first demanded top billing for the Soviet plan.

Written Off as Failure

Western and Soviet officials both wrote off as a complete failure their efforts thus far to reach some agreement on a nuclear weapon test ban which would put an end to the race in development of new atomic weapons.

Gromyko again refused to consider any control system providing for international detection and inspection teams operating within the Soviet Union. Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said that without such a system the world would have no assurance that the nuclear powers were living up to a no-test pledge.

The inspection issue which wrecked the nuclear test talks is also the central problem facing the disarmament conference. Western experts say that unless and until the Soviet position on inspection changes, they see no hope of agreement on a program

GFC to Study City's Bid To Locate Plant in Area

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce office today released part of the contents of a letter received from the General Foods Corporation in answer to their bid to have this company locate its new proposed plant in the Kingston area.

Robert A. Stringer, Operations Manager, of the Jell-o Division of the General Foods Corporation stated they are still in the process of developing specific needs, engineering plans and specifications. The letter stated in part, "When our needs are fully established, should we find your area fulfills our particular requisites, you can be sure we'll get in touch with you". It was also indicated that a large number of communities had contacted the General Foods Corporation.

The Chamber of Commerce spokesman stated that every lead, as far as any industrial prospect is concerned, is followed up promptly. It was also suggested that anyone who hears of any industrial prospect contact the Chamber of Commerce office in the Governor Clinton Hotel building.

The Chamber of Commerce is also in the process of establishing standing committees for the 1962-63 fiscal year and it was reported that the Industrial Development Committee is likely to be one of the first to be named. Chamber president, Sam Pepper, is now working on the appointment and will announce the names of the members as soon as all acceptances have been received.

County authorities today urged residents to use extreme caution in burning rubbish as the number of brush fires plaguing volunteer firemen during the weekend continued today to reached a total of 20 at Freeman press time.

Fire chiefs reporting from all parts of the county said most of the brush fires were caused by careless burning of rubbish. Strong winds during most of Sunday harassed volunteer firemen at work.

In addition to brush fires, volunteers responded to a house fire Saturday afternoon near Asbury Four Corners in the Town of Saugerties, and a blaze which destroyed a car involved in a traffic mishap at Saxton.

Four units of Asbury-Katsbaan and Saxton Fire Companies responded to a house fire Saturday afternoon near Asbury Four Corners.

Saxton Chief G. Fred Wind said the fire started in the kitchen of the two-story frame dwelling of Alfred Guarino of Asbury. Wind said someone was soldering in the kitchen with a propane torch and ignited the partition. The fire swept into the second floor bedroom. The alarm was sounded at about 2 p. m.

Pumpers of Saxton and Asbury-Katsbaan vols also responded to a car fire at 2 a. m. Sunday at the intersection of Route 32A and 32 in Saxton. Chief Wind said the car which was totally destroyed, threatened the nearby dwelling of Lawrence Hall.

Kingston state police reported John Finger, 19, of RD 1, Saugerties was uninjured when his car struck a utility pole.

Trooper John F. Salters said Finger was proceeding south on Route 32A and failed to negotiate a slight curve, lost control and struck the pole. The car was a 1956 sedan.

Saugerties Village volunteers responded to two brush fires Sunday, one threatened Empire Super Market and a number of homes near Main and West Bridge Streets.

C. A. LDynch and R. A. Snyder Fire Companies responded to an alarm at 11:30 a. m. where a rubbish fire ignited grass and scorched the back wall of a two-car garage at the rear of the unoccupied former Clum residence. Flames swept along the edge of the Empire Market parking lot

Argentina Tightens Security in Crisis

The precautions were taken apparently to forestall a sudden coup by admirals and some army generals reported determined to get Frondizi out.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu, champion of democratic government and the country's military ruler after the ouster of dictator Juan Peron, enlisted the support of much of the army high command in stalling off a showdown after the navy publicly called on Frondizi to resign.

Aramburu, hero of the revolt that overthrew Peron in 1955, pleaded for more time to work out a peace after warning the 21 million Argentines in a radio-television broadcast "the republic is in danger" and "many fear all is lost."

Frondizi Won't Quit

Frondizi, 54, has vowed he will never quit but Aramburu emphasized that the armed forces could get rid of the president at will.

The Peronists, whose election victories drove Frondizi into a corner, appeared pushed into the background of the milling crisis.

When Aramburu was called from retirement to mediate the dispute last Friday, he spoke of needing 10 days to formulate a new policy for the government—with or without Frondizi.

Army Secretary Gen. Rosendo Fraga, in orders to his commanders in the interior, declared that Gen. Aramburu must be given an opportunity to carry out the job.

Fraga's message went out a few hours after the admirals called on Frondizi to quit. Some army generals reportedly were willing to give Frondizi only 24 hours to get out or be ousted.

Frondizi desperately waged an uphill fight to cling on to the presidency by hastily patching together a new Cabinet he presented as a coalition. The major opposition political parties boycotted his bids.

Narayanan Is Called Dedicated

Speech Due 27th On Disarmament

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP)—The death of a United Nations official caused quick adjournment of today's session of the disarmament conference and delayed a final personal appeal by Secretary of State Dean Rusk for East-West agreement on limited arms accords.

Rusk had planned a final speech on disarmament before leaving for Washington Tuesday. But the session opened with the announcement of the death Sunday of T. G. Narayanan, 50, an Indian diplomat and U.N. representative at nuclear test ban talks.

Will Talk on Tuesday

Before the session adjourned, Rusk praised Narayanan as "an international civil servant of the highest dedication, a man of great character, a man of great talent."

U.S. officials said Rusk would deliver his disarmament speech Tuesday.

Rusk also arranged a meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in what was expected to be a final effort at Geneva to see whether any progress toward agreement on Berlin is possible.

Barring some new Soviet maneuver to break the Berlin or nuclear test deadlock, Rusk plans to leave Tuesday for Washington. He is expected to report to President Kennedy that in spite of the stalemates on major issues, the meetings of the foreign ministers in Geneva have registered some gains.

Rusk's View

Chief among these in Rusk's view has been the organization of the work of the disarmament conference as well as some clarification of Berlin issues resulting from his talks with Gromyko.

In the course of the talks Rusk reportedly emphasized repeatedly that the United States and its allies want a Berlin settlement but never at the cost of yielding their basic rights to maintain troops in the city and have access to it.

The United States and the Soviet Union opened the way for actual negotiations at the disarmament conference by agreeing on a system of committees to do the detailed bargaining. They also agreed that Soviet and Western proposals for disarmament would be given equal priority. Gromyko had first demanded top billing for the Soviet plan.

Written Off as Failure

Western and Soviet officials both wrote off as a complete failure their efforts thus far to reach some agreement on a nuclear weapon test ban which would put an end to the race in development of new atomic weapons.

Gromyko again refused to consider any control system providing for international detection and inspection teams operating within the Soviet Union. Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said that without such a system the world would have no assurance that the nuclear powers were living up to a no-test pledge.

The inspection issue which wrecked the nuclear test talks is also the central problem facing the disarmament conference. Western experts say that unless and until the Soviet position on inspection changes, they see no hope of agreement on a program

Crime, Business, Labor Measures On Today's Slate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Controversial labor, crime and business legislation confronted the 1962 Legislature today as it entered its final week with leaders hoping for a rare event—an orderly adjournment.

Various issues expected to bring on prolonged debate were listed on calendars that also included a plan certain to receive overwhelming support from the election-minded lawmakers — Increase in state aid to education rising to $229 million a year over the next three years.

But, while the long-awaited school - aid plan was the chief legislation remaining in the session, scheduled to end Thursday, the closing days also held a promise of controversy.

Among measures posing the thorniest political problems were bills that would bar professional strike breakers and allow employes of non-profit institutions to organize for collective bargaining.

Each bill has the strong support of organized labor and each is opposed, on various grounds, by employer groups.

A measure to give state recognition to chiropractors by licensing them, which is opposed by the State Health Department, and another to bar sale of brand-name merchandise at discount prices also were among the issues that

GFC to Study City's Bid To Locate Plant in Area

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce office today released part of the contents of a letter received from the General Foods Corporation in answer to their bid to have this company locate its new proposed plant in the Kingston area.

Robert A. Stringer, Operations Manager, of the Jell-o Division of the General Foods Corporation stated they are still in the process of developing specific needs, engineering plans and specifications. The letter stated in part, "When our needs are fully established, should we find your area fulfills our particular requisites, you can be sure we'll get in touch with you". It was also indicated that a large number of communities had contacted the General Foods Corporation.

The Chamber of Commerce spokesman stated that every lead, as far as any industrial prospect is concerned, is followed up promptly. It was also suggested that anyone who hears of any industrial prospect contact the Chamber of Commerce office in the Governor Clinton Hotel building.

The Chamber of Commerce is also in the process of establishing standing committees for the 1962-63 fiscal year and it was reported that the Industrial Development Committee is likely to be one of the first to be named. Chamber president, Sam Pepper, is now working on the appointment and will announce the names of the members as soon as all acceptances have been received.

County authorities today urged residents to use extreme caution in burning rubbish as the number of brush fires plaguing volunteer firemen during the weekend continued today to reached a total of 20 at Freeman press time.

Fire chiefs reporting from all parts of the county said most of the brush fires were caused by careless burning of rubbish. Strong winds during most of Sunday harassed volunteer firemen at work.

In addition to brush fires, volunteers responded to a house fire Saturday afternoon near Asbury Four Corners in the Town of Saugerties, and a blaze which destroyed a car involved in a traffic mishap at Saxton.

Four units of Asbury-Katsbaan and Saxton Fire Companies responded to a house fire Saturday afternoon near Asbury Four Corners.

Saxton Chief G. Fred Wind said the fire started in the kitchen of the two-story frame dwelling of Alfred Guarino of Asbury. Wind said someone was soldering in the kitchen with a propane torch and ignited the partition. The fire swept into the second floor bedroom. The alarm was sounded at about 2 p. m.

Pumpers of Saxton and Asbury-Katsbaan vols also responded to a car fire at 2 a. m. Sunday at the intersection of Route 32A and 32 in Saxton. Chief Wind said the car which was totally destroyed, threatened the nearby dwelling of Lawrence Hall.

Kingston state police reported John Finger, 19, of RD 1, Saugerties was uninjured when his car struck a utility pole.

Trooper John F. Salters said Finger was proceeding south on Route 32A and failed to negotiate a slight curve, lost control and struck the pole. The car was a 1956 sedan.

Saugerties Village volunteers responded to two brush fires Sunday, one threatened Empire Super Market and a number of homes near Main and West Bridge Streets.

C. A. LDynch and R. A. Snyder Fire Companies responded to an alarm at 11:30 a. m. where a rubbish fire ignited grass and scorched the back wall of a two-car garage at the rear of the unoccupied former Clum residence. Flames swept along the edge of the Empire Market parking lot

Lawyer Charges Rocky Failed to Fulfill Promise

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul B. Zuber, Negro lawyer active in school integration cases, says Gov. Rockefeller has "let down the Negro population of the state."

He says he will follow Rockefeller "wherever he goes" in his reelection campaign this year, to challenge any statement the governor might make about his civil rights record.

Zuber, who ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate in 1958 on the Republican ticket, said he is leaving the party.

He said Rockefeller has failed to fulfill the civil rights promises he made during his 1958 campaign for the governorship, creating a "deceitful situation."

Therefore the West is expected to emphasize in coming weeks the possibility of working out predisarmament agreements which would require little or no international inspection and yet would serve to reduce the danger of nuclear war.

Among such measures talked about in preliminary discussions here are a prohibition against the spread of nuclear weapons into the hands of non-nuclear countries, a pledge against using outer space for military purposes, and an East-West nonaggression pact.

Charge Unfair Control

Court Rules City Voters Are Entitled to Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today that city voters are entitled to a hearing in federal courts in their complaints of unfair representation in state legislatures.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., speaking for the high tribunal in a case from Tennessee, said a special federal court in Nashville should hear a complaint that a minority of rural voters in that state elect and control a majority of the state's legislators.

Rural Votes Control

The issue, however, extends far beyond single state interest. In numerous other states, there are situations which city voters contend are similar — a pattern of rural voters controlling the legislature's makeup.

The complaint in Tennessee was brought by metropolitan area voters who said they have been discriminated against by refusal of entrenched rural legislators to reapportion election districts in line with the boom in city population and dwindling farm population.

Brennan said it would not be necessary for the special court in Nashville to decide whether allegations by city voters of impairment of their votes by an apportionment in Tennessee "will ultimately entitle them to any relief, in order to hold that they have standing to seek it."

Complaints Dismissed

The special court in Nashville had dismissed urban voters' complaints with the explanation that earlier Supreme Court decisions barred federal intervention in such political matters.

The Supreme Court's vote was 6-2. Justices Felix Frankfurter and John M. Harlan each wrote dissenting opinions. Justice Charles Evans Whittaker took no part.

The group of Tennessee city voters pressing the case to the Supreme Court said similar rural domination situations exist in more than half the states.

In Tennessee and many other states, they said, rural districts are able to control taxes, spending and other legislation without proper regard for needs of growing urban populations.

Tennessee's constitution calls for reapportionment of the General Assembly every 10 years by counties or districts, according to the number of qualified voters. But the Tennessee Legislature has refused since 1901 to reapportion seats in that body.

Today's high court decision simply opens the way for the complaining city voters to pursue the matter in lower federal courts.

Two Children Injured

One of two children injured in city traffic mishaps Sunday was reported in fair condition at the Benedictine Hospital today. Peter Vasi, 5, of RD 2, Kingston, police said, who had been walking with his mother, ran into the road and came in contact with a car at Franklin Street and Broadway yesterday afternoon. Extent of his injuries was not reported. The car, police said, was driven by Donald Purdy of 28 Stuyvesant Street. A report at 11 a. m. said Patricia Gruber, 4, of 56 Chapel Street, who had been playing with another girl at Delaware and Third Avenues, suffered head and nose injuries, when she came in contact with a car driven by Harry Stahl, of Columbia Street, Town of Ulster.

ton turned their backs on this problem with the apparent hope that it would just go away by itself."

The laboratory, he said, "is being extensively painted, "and work on the municipal building, sewage disposal plant, Municipal Auditorium inside, are some of the other projects I hope to start this year. Only with a sustained program of rehabilitation can the deterioration be stopped. However, this costs money. One of the changes the mayor made in his budget was a cut of $3,000 for materials and a $2,400 cut for salaries in the building maintenance fund. These cuts I objected to and so informed the mayor. Now he claims he is shocked and surprised at the condition of one of the public buildings. He must have two tongues."

Asks About Streets

The mayor, he said, "has ordered Superintendent Charles Cole (of the public works department) to immediately repair the roof of the municipal building." This, he held "was not within the jurisdiction of Cole's department." It was he said "ordered publicly." Yet the mayor never once publicly "expressed his shock and dismay on the condition of our city streets, and to publicly order Superintendent Cole to take immediate emergency action. That is in an area of public works respossibility."

"Since we are fast approaching our road building season, which is limited to a few months," he said, "I'm wondering why the mayor has not sought Common Council recommendations on streets to be repaired. In years past a communication was usually sent to the council outlining the mayor's plan for a road-building program. Mayor Radel's program included at least one street in each of the 13 wards."

Two Saxton Fire Company pumpers and one from Asbury-Katsbaan of the same department fought another brush fire about 11:30 a. m. today on the High Falls Road, Asbury where about an acre of brush was burned off.

Aaron Van DeBogart of Wittenberg, district forest ranger, said today residents within the Catskill Park area and in the Towns of Woodstock, Shandaken and Olive must secure permits before they can ignite a rubbish or brush fire.

Ask for Assistance

Fire district officials throughout the county urged residents to use extreme caution. If the burning of grass or brush is necessary, seek the aid and advice of the fire company in the area before starting the fire. If it is necessary to burn off a large area, arrangements can be made to have a fire truck stand by in the event it gets out of control.

Van DeBogart said the danger of forest fire was at a minimum because snow covered the ground in most of the forest area. He reported that a brush fire was extinguished Saturday at the Woodstock dump on Glasco Turnpike.

Castro Stresses Brother Raul Is Political Heir

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has created a new government post to underline that his brother, Raul, is still his political heir.

Havana radio announced Sunday that the younger Castro has been named deputy prime minister—a new job—in addition to continuing as armed forces minister.

The Castro brothers are holding on to the top official jobs in the welding of Cuba into a Communist state despite some speculation Fidel is now just a front for the Reds.

Lawyer Charges Rocky Failed to Fulfill Promise

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul B. Zuber, Negro lawyer active in school integration cases, says Gov. Rockefeller has "let down the Negro population of the state."

He says he will follow Rockefeller "wherever he goes" in his reelection campaign this year, to challenge any statement the governor might make about his civil rights record.

Zuber, who ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate in 1958 on the Republican ticket, said he is leaving the party.

He said Rockefeller has failed to fulfill the civil rights promises he made during his 1958 campaign for the governorship, creating a "deceitful situation."

Oscar Cassell, 47, of 48 Lindsley Avenue, who was booked Sunday on a third degree assault charge, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail. His wife, Angelina was the complainant.

A report at 11:30 p. m. Sunday said Raymond DuBois, 31, of 13 Belvedere Street, was picked up here for Suffolk County police on a third degree assault charge.

Therefore the West is expected to emphasize in coming weeks the possibility of working out predisarmament agreements which would require little or no international inspection and yet would serve to reduce the danger of nuclear war.

Among such measures talked about in preliminary discussions here are a prohibition against the spread of nuclear weapons into the hands of non-nuclear countries, a pledge against using outer space for military purposes, and an East-West nonaggression pact.

Charge Unfair Control

Court Rules City Voters Are Entitled to Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decided today that city voters are entitled to a hearing in federal courts in their complaints of unfair representation in state legislatures.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr., speaking for the high tribunal in a case from Tennessee, said a special federal court in Nashville should hear a complaint that a minority of rural voters in that state elect and control a majority of the state's legislators.

Rural Votes Control

The issue, however, extends far beyond single state interest. In numerous other states, there are situations which city voters contend are similar — a pattern of rural voters controlling the legislature's makeup.

The complaint in Tennessee was brought by metropolitan area voters who said they have been discriminated against by refusal of entrenched rural legislators to reapportion election districts in line with the boom in city population and dwindling farm population.

Brennan said it would not be necessary for the special court in Nashville to decide whether allegations by city voters of impairment of their votes by an apportionment in Tennessee "will ultimately entitle them to any relief, in order to hold that they have standing to seek it."

Complaints Dismissed

The special court in Nashville had dismissed urban voters' complaints with the explanation that earlier Supreme Court decisions barred federal intervention in such political matters.

The Supreme Court's vote was 6-2. Justices Felix Frankfurter and John M. Harlan each wrote dissenting opinions. Justice Charles Evans Whittaker took no part.

The group of Tennessee city voters pressing the case to the Supreme Court said similar rural domination situations exist in more than half the states.

In Tennessee and many other states, they said, rural districts are able to control taxes, spending and other legislation without proper regard for needs of growing urban populations.

Tennessee's constitution calls for reapportionment of the General Assembly every 10 years by counties or districts, according to the number of qualified voters. But the Tennessee Legislature has refused since 1901 to reapportion seats in that body.

Today's high court decision simply opens the way for the complaining city voters to pursue the matter in lower federal courts.

Two Children Injured

One of two children injured in city traffic mishaps Sunday was reported in fair condition at the Benedictine Hospital today. Peter Vasi, 5, of RD 2, Kingston, police said, who had been walking with his mother, ran into the road and came in contact with a car at Franklin Street and Broadway yesterday afternoon. Extent of his injuries was not reported. The car, police said, was driven by Donald Purdy of 28 Stuyvesant Street. A report at 11 a. m. said Patricia Gruber, 4, of 56 Chapel Street, who had been playing with another girl at Delaware and Third Avenues, suffered head and nose injuries, when she came in contact with a car driven by Harry Stahl, of Columbia Street, Town of Ulster.

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Homer Williams Smith, 67, professor of physiology at New York University and winner of three awards for medical research, died Sunday of a cerebral hemorrhage. Smith, who also had written two novels, was born in Denver.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Angel de Rio, 62, senior professor of Columbia University's Spanish department and director of the Hispanic Institute of the United States, died Sunday after a short illness. Del Rio, who was born in Soria, Spain, began teaching at Columbia in 1919.

ton turned their backs on this problem with the apparent hope that it would just go away by iself."

The laboratory, he said, "is being extensively painted, "and work on the municipal building, sewage disposal plant, Municipal Auditorium inside, are some of the other projects I hope to start this year. Only with a sustained program of rehabilitation can the deterioration be stopped. However, this costs money. One of the changes the mayor made in his budget was a cut of $3,000 for materials and a $2,400 cut for salaries in the building maintenance fund. These cuts I objected to and so informed the mayor. Now he claims he is shocked and surprised at the condition of one of the public buildings. He must have two tongues."

Asks About Streets

The mayor, he said, "has ordered Superintendent Charles Cole (of the public works department) to immediately repair the roof of the municipal building." This, he held "was not within the jurisdiction of Cole's department." It was he said "ordered publicly." Yet the mayor never once publicly "expressed his shock and dismay on the condition of our city streets, and to publicly order Superintendent Cole to take immediate emergency action. That is in an area of public works respossibility."

"Since we are fast approaching our road building season, which is limited to a few months," he said, "I'm wondering why the mayor has not sought Common Council recommendations on streets to be repaired. In years past a communication was usually sent to the council outlining the mayor's plan for a road-building program. Mayor Radel's program included at least one street in each of the 13 wards."

Surgeon Arrives At Miami Sunday Then Disappears

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A New York plastic surgeon whose socialite bride died on their honeymoon in Haiti 12 days ago, slipped into Miami Sunday night and disappeared in the sprawling city.

Dr. Manfred von Linde, 38, a native of Birmingham, Ala., was believed en route to New York.

His wife, the former Lucille Rogers, 52, of New York and Kansas City, died at Cap Haitien March 14.

They were married by a justice of the peace in Wilton, Conn., March 1.

Von Linde was jailed five days while officials investigated the death. An autopsy revealed no foul play, officials said, but a second autopsy did not confirm the findings of the first that a heart attack was the cause of death.

Von Linde was released from jail without restrictions on his movements.

Saturday they extinguished a brush fire near the Ciccone Trailer Park, Lake Katrine. They also responded to a grass fire Sunday at 11:30 a. m. near the Mt. Marion School. Both units responded.

Held Outdoor Drill

However, Centerville firemen responded at 9:40 a. m. today to a brush fire at Millers Road, West Saugerties. Centerville vols responded to a second call shortly before 11 a. m. today where they battled a stubborn brush fire that threatened the Pinewoods House at West Saugerties.

Two Saxton Fire Company pumpers and one from Asbury-Katsbaan of the same department fought another brush fire about 11:30 a. m. today on the High Falls Road, Asbury where about an acre of brush was burned off.

Aaron Van DeBogart of Wittenberg, district forest ranger, said today residents within the Catskill Park area and in the Towns of Woodstock, Shandaken and Olive must secure permits before they can ignite a rubbish or brush fire.

Ask for Assistance

Fire district officials throughout the county urged residents to use extreme caution. If the burning of grass or brush is necessary, seek the aid and advice of the fire company in the area before starting the fire. If it is necessary to burn off a large area, arrangements can be made to have a fire truck stand by in the event it gets out of control.

Van DeBogart said the danger of forest fire was at a minimum because snow covered the ground in most of the forest area. He reported that a brush fire was extinguished Saturday at the Woodstock dump on Glasco Turnpike.

City Has Brush Fires

A grass and brush fire moved by wind swept over a large area of the Ups-and-Downs Sunday, and another off Catherine Street, caused less damage. Units from Cornell and Central stations, Rapids and Wicks companies answered a call at 1:49 p. m. The fire spread from Abeel Street to Montrepose Cemetery. Unify Districts Or Quit, Leader Tells Democrats

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Democrats "cannot waste the substance and strength of this party in defeating each other" in this gubernatorial election year, the Democratic State Chairman contends.

William H. McKeon told Democratic county leaders Saturday to unify their organizations or resign.

"Lead your county organizations effectively and with a minimum of friction, resolve your differences....if there be any chairman across the state who does not feel he can do this, then I invite him to resign while we still have time to replace him before the campaign gets underway," McKeon said.

Started This Month

McKeon took over as state chairman earlier this month from Michael H. Prendergast after Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City assumed control of the state party.

Wagner defeated Tammany Hall and other city Democratic organizations in a primary election last year and then spearheaded the drive to remove Prendergast.

Bitterness Left

McKeon discussed the situation in a speech at a dinner of the 17th ward Democratic Club in Syracuse.

McKeon said that when the state Democratic party pulled together it won elections.

The party, he said, has an obligation to the people "to clearly bring out the issues at stake in the coming campaign...if we fail, that political buccaneer, Nelson Rockefeller, bent on commandeering the presidency, will prevail."

Gov. Rockefeller, a Republican, has said he will seek re-election.

Says That Much Of Surgey Not Necessary in State

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Ray E. Trussell, city hospital commissioner, says a "substantial amount" of surgery performed in New York State is unneccessary.

He said Sunday that a Columbia University study, to be presented to the state superintendent of insurance in about four weeks, has found that at least seven of 13 Caesaren sections and one-third of 60 hysterectomies that were reviewed were unnecessary.

A Caesarean is the surgical removal of an infant from the womb. A hysterectomy is the removal of a part of the uterus.

The Columbia study was made for the State Insurance Department on the cost of Blue Cross Hospital insurance. Its purpose, Trussell said, was "to get the medical profession to establish enforceable standards as to who does major surgery in hospitals."

Clergyman Succumbs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Rev. Freeman S. Kline, former superintendent of the Albany District of the Methodist Church, died Saturday in a nursing home after a long illness.

The Rev. Mr. Kline practiced law in Amsterdam before entering the ministry in 1916. He was superintendent of the church's Albany District from 1931 to 1937.

He retired in 1953 after serving as pastor of the First Avenue Methodist Church in Watervliet.

State Denies Aid To Find Workers For NY Bus Lines

NEW YORK (AP)—State Industrial Commissioner Martin P. Catherwood has blocked a plan by Fifth Avenue Coach Lines to get help from the State Employment Service in finding bus drivers and mechanics to replace 1,000 strikers.

Catherwood sent this telegram to the company Sunday:

"It is long-established policy that the employment service does not make referrals to strikebound companies, and no exception will be made in the case of Fifth Avenue Coach Lines."

The telegram was sent after the company announced it would seek help from the employment service in restoring service on 10 Manhattan routes.

The 10 routes, for which the company holds permanent franchises, were not included in the city's seizure of 85 per cent of the company's franchises, buses, garages and other property last Wednesday night with permission by the State Supreme Court. The court later will set the amount the city must pay for the seized property.

A strike by the Transport Workers Union is continuing against the 10 routes.

The union struck the company March 1. About 5,500 of its members returned to work when a subsidiary of the Transit Authority started operating the 65 seized routes in Manhattan and The Bronx last Friday. Some of the buses run across the East River into Queens.

Despite the denial of help from the State Employment Service, the company announced it would go ahead with its previously announced plan to advertise for workers.

Michael J. Quill, president of the union, said any attempt by the company to use what he called "scab" drivers would be met "head-on."

Market Gunman Gets $7,000 in Haul at Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A hooded gunman, who threatened to kill the manager of a suburban supermarket and a clerk and escaped with more than $7,000 in cash and checks, was the target of a widespread police search today.

Police said the husky bandit appeared at the Star supermarket in West Albany just after closing time Saturday. A pillow case with eyeholes cut into it covered his face.

Store manager Joseph Lemme and clerk Robert C. Roehr Jr. were leaving the store when the hold-up man jumped from a tow truck. He brandished a pistol and said:

"Let me in there or I'll kill you."

EDUCATION FOR LIBERTY

Retired Brig. Gen. S.L.A. Marshall, one of the nation's most able writers on military subjects, has placed the recent charges of "softness" among servicemen in better perspective. Taking note of the great hullabaloo over Korean war prisoners "collaborating" with the enemy, Marshall suggested that there is no higher percentage of softness among today's soldiers than there has been in past times of crisis.

The point, made by General Marshall before the Senate subcommittee studying the alleged muzzling of military leaders, should be thoughtfully considered. It is the testimony of one man, certainly not to be taken as gospel, but it is valuable because it tends to reduce the problem from exaggerated proportions to its real size.

There is a problem. It appears to be, however, more a problem in education than in courage. There is reason to believe that American youths are as courageous as those of generations past. There also is reason to believe that, given a proper understanding of our fundamental cause — the preservation and strengthening of human freedom—they will respond as their forefathers responded.

We do ill to say that today's young men do not measure up to those of the past. We would do better to improve our educational system so that youths coming out of high school will understand and be devoted to the values of democratic freedom.

BIG RETRAINING JOB

The job retraining program authorized by Congress is an admirable step toward making the best use of manpower in a changing society, but it will not be a simple undertaking. The obstacles are by no means insurmountable, but neither can they be shugged off.

Fears already have been expressed in some quarters that the program will be training displaced workers for other jobs that do not exist—not, at any rate, in sufficient quantity to meet the need. This danger could be minimized through a careful and continuing survey of the employment field. Heaviest emphasis will have to be placed on training in electronics and other skills for which demand is sure to rise.

Another obstacle is the possibility that present union-employer apprentice training programs may be ignored or at least not given full weight as a contribution to the task. Enlightened cooperation between the government and those now carrying on such activities could give the manpower retraining program a boost, if only in terms of improving community acceptance.

A third obstacle is the simple one of illiteracy. This may appear to be a small problem, but it is not, as operation of the present Area Redevelopment Act has disclosed. Many unemployed workers' inability to understand, in some cases even to read, the course manuals has barred them from retraining. Getting over that hump will take time, and a lot of patient effort.

The retraining program is a promising means of dealing with some of the problems created by technological change. It is eminently worth carrying on. But there is no point in the pretense that the program will be easy sledding.

AIRPORT FOR SALE, CHEAP

It is estimated that perhaps 100,000 property owners all over the nation may try to sue airports, in the light of the Supreme Court's decision that airport authorities must compensate those whose property suffers from the noise and vibration of aircraft.

If this forecast is reasonable, massive entanglements may confront many communities with major airfields.

There is much more in this particular Pandora's box. When new houses spring up close to airfields now far from urban centers, will their owners be justified in claiming damage? And what hampering, uneconomic limits may be put on U. S. air traffic to avoid such costly claims?

With population spilling everywhere, with a supersonic plane and glass-shattering "sonic booms" coming by 1970, the high court has posed a serious puzzle for all those concerned with this country's commercial air transport. "Progress" could be very costly.

JACKIE'S TRIP

One task at which the United States has not been too successful has been world-wide propaganda. Until Khrushchev's boastings and blusterings shocked the world, the Russians had it much their own way and peoples in distress, even when aided by the United States, turned to the greener pastures of the Kremlin for hope and improvement. Soviet Russia, the most imperialist of nations, gives the impression of being the advocate of angelic peace, whereas the United States, which would not even blow up the Bay of Pigs, has become the votary of war.

It has been shocking to our people that we, who can make bubble-gum palatable and who can glorify cosmetics until the natural bloom of a woman's face or the beauty of her hair is lost under pounds of falsifiers, do not know how to tell the truth about ourselves effectively. As propagandists, our advertising agencies and our public relations counsels are flops.

The Indian trip of Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the President's wife, has proved something very important. It has established that all the world loves beauty, particularly in the natural flowering of a young woman, that good manners and gentleness and proper address are attractive wherever one sees it. It may or may not be useful to influence neutral governments, but it is always advantageous to be beloved by great masses of people. If we can afford to do anything, we can afford to send this particular President's wife, who speaks many languages and who is so flexible in her relations with strange people, to many countries.

We have been painted to all the world as crass materialists; yet we have here the best, or if that citation is given to La Scala, the second best, opera house in all the world; we have more and better museums; more and better symphonies; and so one goes on, but these accomplishments are hardly noted. Mrs. Kennedy is an artist and when she goes among artistic people she can hold her own and she does not give the impression of having lived a crude, materialistic life. In Europe and Asia, her cultural attainments strengthen the United States.

I have read the criticisms of her trip and they make two general points:

1. It costs money;
2. Why send the President's wife? Why not send someone from the State Department or from Congress?

As to the money, what this trip costs is peanuts compared to what we spend on propaganda for our country that hardly scratches the surface; the impression Jackie is making seems to cut deep, because she does what the people of India like to have their visitors do. And whatever she does, is done gracefully.

As to why the President's wife should be sent, the answer is that she fits the job. Lots of folks, including myself, often have had much to say about Eleanor Roosevelt because we did not like her politics, but in her day, she managed to win the good-will of a great mass abroad. This can be said with assurance, Jackie Kennedy is not likely to put her spoon in the boiling kettle of international relations. She will talk about art, furniture, dresses, architecture — subjects she knows as well as anyone. And she may have a good word to say about Caroline and mothers who bring children into the world. And it is this kind of thing that the younger intellectuals, who usually abuse this country, like to talk about.

Why send the President's wife and not Mrs. Joe Doakes? Obviously, Mrs. Doakes would not carry the day, but we could send a team of American artists from the Met, led by an American conductor, with an all-American orchestra. Or we could send those who came here as refugees from one country or another and who found the land of opportunity. Or we could send such members of Congress who can explain in European and Asiatic universities how our government works, because even the most educated do not understand our system of checks and balances, and the rights of the individual over the government.

We have a job to do and let's do it as perfectly as we can without cavil. Jackie Kennedy seems to be doing well at this job. Let her next go to Spanish-speaking countries where she can address the peoples in their own tongue.

Legion Are the Perils Which Menace Children

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

I'm sorry if I seem to sound too often like the voice of doom, but the rising incidence of childhood injuries and poisoning justifies warning parents to exercise caution.

Here is a sampling from recent issues of medical publications and daily newspapers:

Deaths from fires in America totalled 11,700 last year. Of these, 1,800 were children. In many instances, these children were asleep in unattended homes.

Over a six-year period, a single hospital treated 423 children who suffered injuries inflicted by motor-driven wash-wringers. In many instances, the injured child was house-bound and turned to the machine for lack of other interest.

Despite the efforts of manufacturers of paints, toys and home furnishings, hundreds of children suffer from lead poisoning that still carries a mortality rate of about 35 per cent. In most instances, the poisoned child has eaten flakes of outdoor paint.

In Holland, where it became fashionable to treat young children with tranquilizers for the relief of vomiting attacks, nervousness, epilepsy etc., many youngsters had to be admitted to hospitals because of jaundice, eruptions, blood conditions (some fatal) and a nervous disorder resembling shaking palsy (Parkinsonism). As a result, many physicians decided not to give tranquilizers to children under the age of 12.

At Mayo Clinic it was observed that many children with otherwise unexplained attacks of asthma and pneumonia were actually suffering from clogging of their bronchi with spikelets of grass heads (timothy barley). Apparently these were accidentally inhaled when youngsters ran and played while they held the spikelets between their lips.

From Atlanta, Ga., comes a report of grid pattern burns resulting from falls of toddlers across exposed floor-type room heaters. Within a single year, the author of the article observed nine such burns, some of which resulted in permanent scarring with the heater pattern.

And a team of observers from Philadelphia reported on a group of 50 children who, after head injuries, suffered sleep disturbances, bedwetting, disturbances of personality and behavioral changes that seemed directly related to the accident. Happily, most of these disorders responded to reassurance and simple drug therapy.

With all our gadgets, immunizations and instructions in child care, bringing up healthy children is still a full-time job for parents.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A high-powered committee of big business tycoons and college professors, meeting here to advocate more economic education in high schools, told how this deep-dish subject is being taught in the public schools of Elkhart, Ind., from the first grade up. This example was cited:

TEACHER TELLS THE CLASS they're to make a painting. The problem is, they don't have paper or brushes or paints. This illustrates the law of demand. But teacher has the makings, which she then produces, to illustate the law of supply.

Scoffers may raise objections that 6-year-olds can't even make good paintings. But this is in Indiana, remember, where anything can happen. So get on with the lesson.

Teacher then explains that the paper is like the land, which is capital. Brushes and paints are the tools and materials with which the painting is made — or the land is worked. And making the painting is labor — working the land.

End of lesson, with five basic economic principles firmly planted in the busy little minds.

The example wasn't carried far enough to report whether some Johnnie Genius didn't raise his land and demand, "Okay, Boss Teacher—How much do you pay me to make the painting?" This would have illustrated the economic theory of wages.

SERIOUSLY, THIS CASE HISTORY was revealed at a press conference here when the Committee for Economic Development unveiled its latest research project, "Economic Literacy for Americans—A Program for Schools and Citizens."

Reduced to a sentence, what CED is advocating is that the course in social studies now given to most high school seniors should have one semester devoted to economics.

Few people will quarrel with that or any effort to teach high school students and others anything they don't know.

But CED, whose membership is supposed to include the 200 best brains in American business, took two years' study to reach this conclusion. In this process they enlisted the help of leading university professors in a National Task Force on Economic Education, a Materials Evaluation Committee and the Joint Council on Economic Education for special studies. Mountains of intellect labored and brought forth you-know-what.

The Task Force on Economic Education advocates that high school students be given, among other things an understanding of how much this country can produce and how fast the economy shall grow.

THIS JUST HAPPENS TO BE a question on which the President and Congress, Republicans and Democrats, capital and labor and no two practicing graduate economists agree.

The task force itself concludes that, "... many high school students lack the maturity and understanding required to do a good job of reaching their own conclusions on complex economic issues." If that is so, why bother them with it?

The Materials Evaluation Committee surveyed 7,000 pamphlets on economic subjects put out by business, labor and other special interest organizations. It made up kits of 97 of these items which it mailed out to 25,00 high schools to show what teaching materials are now available.

This revives an old battle of the educators against special interest groups furnishing teaching materials for schools because it was felt, so much of it was slanted propaganda.

Even this committee concluded that "the need for basic texts continues" in this field. It called on publishers and writers to produce them, which is one constructive idea.

Independently, CED found that there aren't enough trained teachers to give high school or grade school courses in economics As a first effort to correct this situation, CBS "College of the Air" is launching a series of 160 half-hour broadcast lessons on this subject. But they won't start till fall.

CED is also financing a special study by Joint Council on Education to devise a series of tests which will show when high school students are economically educated.

This won't be ready till spring, 1963. You'll have to wait.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Kennedy has found plenty of time to spend on crusades abroad, but a new opportunity is opening up for him inside the United States. A hint of it came in a recent speech in which he stressed the importance of getting the story of "the democratic way of life" across to students and to the "intellectual group" in this country, just as he endeavored to do on his trip around the world a few weeks ago.

A tape recording of the impromtu comments made in a question and answer period following a speech by Mr. Kennedy before the Advertising Council of America has just become available. He said:

"I think that this has been an area (university students) we've largely ignored in the past —and the intellectual group. I don't think we've made the effort that we should have made and I don't think we've concentrated on the fundamentals about the United States and our democratic way of life, whether it be in this country or in other areas."

Unfortunately, some of the fragmentary quotations from his comments—as reported in the press and picked up by former Vive President Nixon, among others—gave the impression that Mr. Kennedy was minimizing the tactics of the Communists rather than the size of their following inside this country. What he was trying to emphasize was the steady diminution of membership in the Communist party in America. When he was asked how he evaluated the so-called Communist conspiracy in the United States, he replied:

"Well, I would say that I don't think they have any power in the United States. I think that it always poses somewhat of a problem when you have even a small group active within a country who take orders and instructions and are financed by a foreign power, as the Communist party in the United States is at the present time. They have no following. They have been thoroughly discredited throughout the United States, largely through the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and to some extent through Congressional committees and the work of newspapers. So they have really no following."

The Attorney General probably meant that they have no following outside the party membership, because he then added:

"The great problems and difficulties, in my judgment, are external and the effort that has to be made in other countries. It doesn't lie with the Communist party here in the United States, with the exception that I mentioned: the fact that you have 8,000 or 10,000 people in the United States who take their orders and instructions from the Soviet Union. I think that always poses a danger, but I think that's being dealt with by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and I think that what is almost hysteria about the activities of Communists within the United States is misplaced apprehension."

The Attorney General, who first spoke out March 6, now has supplemented his remarks in a press conference held in Los Angeles March 24. He expressed there his belief that the greatest danger is not from the Communist party in America but from espionage by agents of Communist-bloc countries who, of course, operate under instructions from Moscow.

Many persons familiar with the Communist strategy inside America wish the Attorney General had explained more fully on both occasions why the Communists have dropped from 500,000 members before World War II to about 10,000 today. For this has been brought about largely by pitless publicity and by the exposures made by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and by the Senate internal security subcommittee. What the committees bring out into the open can be printed in the press without fair of libel suits that might otherwise be brought by individuals named in the hearings.

The Communist know this, and that's why they are driving so hard to abolish these committees. Unfortunately, too many "intellectuals" in our universities have misguidedly signed petitions to try to hamper the efforts of these committees of Congress. This movement is growing inside our colleges, and the happenings at the San Francisco hearings have been distorted in an attempt to discredit the work of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

If the Attorney General could find time to visit some American universities and talk ernestly to faculty members as well as students about Communist methods, he would be doing a yeoman service in the fight against Communist infiltration. It would be helpful if he only quoted repeatedly this well-informed comment by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI:

"It is vitally important to set the record straight on the extent to which the Communists were responsible for the disgraceful and riotous conditions which prevailed during the hearings in San Francisco of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It is vitally important that not only the students involved in that incident, but also students throughout the nation whom Communists hope to exploit in similar situations, recognize the Communist tactics which resulted in what experienced West Coast observers familiar with Communist strategy and tactics have termed the most successful Communist coup to ocur in the San Francisco area in twenty-five years."

It is clear that even 10,000 members, many of them working with Soviet agents, could do considerable damage to America. It took only one man—Klaus Fuchs, a seemingly harmless research scientist—to steal the secrets of our atomic bomb in a laboratory in New Mexico and give them to the Soviet Union. The menace of Communist activity inside the United States can hardly be minimized.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It has come to my attention that Jules, or Julie, Podell, president of the Copacabana Club in New York, has been put to vexation by the Bureau of Licenses of the Police Department because he admitted to his premises Frank Costello, a retired bootlegger of apparent wealth who also operated slot machines and table games in New Orleans until about 1956. The Copacabana is a fine place to go when you want to go to that kind of place and I volunteer that I have been there many times, twice with Frank Costello and his wife, Bobbie.

We are friends.

The last time I was in the Copa with Frank and Bobbie was a few nights after he came home from Atlanta after serving three years and a bit in a position of trust for the crime of signing his name to a piece of paper. This was a complex affair in which numerous Federal judges of all ranks disagreed ingeniously for years. Mr. Costello estimated that, altogether, nineteen U.S. judges had been required to decide in a photo-finish that he did in truth commit the crime of signing his name to this piece of paper. Altogether, also, more than a hundred U.S. Attorneys, and assistants, all Democrats and thus, necessarily henchmen of Franklin D. Roosevelt and agents of the Internal Revenue and the FBI, had been required at a public cost beyond estimation to prove by a hair-line that Costello did sign that piece of paper, to wit, a tax return. This was really unnecessary because he had admitted his signature all along. However, the signing of the paper was the false move which completed the crime.

Mr. Costello is a Democrat himself, but a conservative Democrat, heartily opposed to Communism which he regards as a menace to our Western Civilization and a festering reptile mocking the sacred heritage of how do you like that? It is true that for some years he had a common interest with Jimmy Roosevelt, the eaglet of the dynasty, in their association with the Mills Novelty Company, which manufactures one-armed bandits, now felonious under certain aspects of Federal law. But Costello's parish of this indomitable force was just the slots. They were his only interest. The Eaglet's see, on the other hand, was the ten-cent slot-machine movie whose entertainment, as viewed specifically in the arcades of Market Street, San Francisco, were rated below passing according to the moral standards of the Legion of Decency. Mr. Costello vehemently disowned interest in these movies. He said: "They keep saying this and saying that, but I never had nothing to do with broads. Booze and slots, that's all. I am married to Bobbie more than 40 years. She would bat my brains out."

The Police Bureau of Licenses asked Julie Podell if he knew that Costello had served a term in Atlanta. Julie said he just read something in the papers. Some of his best friends are newspapermen like publishers and editors.

On my part, let the record show I flew over the Atlanta Schoolyard on my way to some freedom riots in the Deep South last year and looked for Frank, but learned later in New York that he was in the bus bound home on parole at the time. A few days later we had lunch at the Stork and Sherman Billingsley recalled a time when Dutch Schultz stuck some pickets out front and when Frank came in Sherman asken him to clean it up so Frank phoned the Dutchman and the pickets were gone in 15 minutes.

Let the record show further that I knew Franklin D. Roosevelt and his inconsolable spouse and attended some cookouts at their spot and Heywood Brun's and George Bye's, but that I never asked the Roosevelt's to my place. I have to mess with some very undesirable people in my professional practice, but my private life is my own. I have had pleasant relations with the Costellos and Ownie Madden and her; and the Duke and Wallis and Nancy Astor and the Lord when he was around. But I never had no truck with LaGuardia nor neither with Truman except a glancing blow at a poker do in Kansas City.

As far as I know, Costello never did this country any harm. We never knew where it came from, but I drank my share of Probish under the 18th Amendment and it stands to reason that some of it came ashore under Frank's franchise. And I played a lot of slots when Costello was operating, but I never dropped any dimes into any of those Minsky-type Mills Novelty shows.

I think Julie Podell runs a clean spot. I have seen Joe E. Lewis there and Jimmy Durante and Sophie Tucker, always nice clean amusement recommended for drunk or sober.

EDUCATION FOR LIBERTY

Retired Brig. Gen. S.L.A. Marshall, one of the nation's most able writers on military subjects, has placed the recent charges of "softness" among servicemen in better perspective. Taking note of the great hullabaloo over Korean war prisoners "collaborating" with the enemy, Marshall suggested that there is no higher percentage of softness among today's soldiers than there has been in past times of crisis.

The point, made by General Marshall before the Senate subcommittee studying the alleged muzzling of military leaders, should be thoughtfully considered. It is the testimony of one man, certainly not to be taken as gospel, but it is valuable because it tends to reduce the problem from exaggerated proportions to its real size.

There is a problem. It appears to be, however, more a problem in education than in courage. There is reason to believe that American youths are as courageous as those of generations past. There also is reason to believe that, given a proper understanding of our fundamental cause — the preservation and strengthening of human freedom—they will respond as their forefathers responded.

We do ill to say that today's young men do not measure up to those of the past. We would do better to improve our educational system so that youths coming out of high school will understand and be devoted to the values of democratic freedom.

BIG RETRAINING JOB

The job retraining program authorized by Congress is an admirable step toward making the best use of manpower in a changing society, but it will not be a simple undertaking. The obstacles are by no means insurmountable, but neither can they be shugged off.

Fears already have been expressed in some quarters that the program will be training displaced workers for other jobs that do not exist—not, at any rate, in sufficient quantity to meet the need. This danger could be minimized through a careful and continuing survey of the employment field. Heaviest emphasis will have to be placed on training in electronics and other skills for which demand is sure to rise.

Another obstacle is the possibility that present union-employer apprentice training programs may be ignored or at least not given full weight as a contribution to the task. Enlightened cooperation between the government and those now carrying on such activities could give the manpower retraining program a boost, if only in terms of improving community acceptance.

A third obstacle is the simple one of illiteracy. This may appear to be a small problem, but it is not, as operation of the present Area Redevelopment Act has disclosed. Many unemployed workers' inability to understand, in some cases even to read, the course manuals has barred them from retraining. Getting over that hump will take time, and a lot of patient effort.

The retraining program is a promising means of dealing with some of the problems created by technological change. It is eminently worth carrying on. But there is no point in the pretense that the program will be easy sledding.

Apparently these were accidentally inhaled when youngsters ran and played while they held the spikelets between their lips.

From Atlanta, Ga., comes a report of grid pattern burns resulting from falls of toddlers across exposed floor-type room heaters. Within a single year, the author of the article observed nine such burns, some of which resulted in permanent scarring with the heater pattern.

And a team of observers from Philadelphia reported on a group of 50 children who, after head injuries, suffered sleep disturbances, bedwetting, disturbances of personality and behavioral changes that seemed directly related to the accident. Happily, most of these disorders responded to reassurance and simple drug therapy.

With all our gadgets, immunizations and instructions in child care, bringing up healthy children is still a full-time job for parents.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A high-powered committee of big business tycoons and college professors, meeting here to advocate more economic education in high schools, told how this deep-dish subject is being taught in the public schools of Elkhart, Ind., from the first grade up. This example was cited:

TEACHER TELLS THE CLASS they're to make a painting. The problem is, they don't have paper or brushes or paints. This illustrates the law of demand. But teacher has the makings, which she then produces, to illustate the law of supply.

Scoffers may raise objections that 6-year-olds can't even make good paintings. But this is in Indiana, remember, where anything can happen. So get on with the lesson.

Teacher then explains that the paper is like the land, which is capital. Brushes and paints are the tools and materials with which the painting is made — or the land is worked. And making the painting is labor — working the land.

End of lesson, with five basic economic principles firmly planted in the busy little minds.

The example wasn't carried far enough to report whether some Johnnie Genius didn't raise his land and demand, "Okay, Boss Teacher—How much do you pay me to make the painting?" This would have illustrated the economic theory of wages.

SERIOUSLY, THIS CASE HISTORY was revealed at a press conference here when the Committee for Economic Development unveiled its latest research project, "Economic Literacy for Americans—A Program for Schools and Citizens."

Reduced to a sentence, what CED is advocating is that the course in social studies now given to most high school seniors should have one semester devoted to economics.

Few people will quarrel with that or any effort to teach high school students and others anything they don't know.

But CED, whose membership is supposed to include the 200 best brains in American business, took two years' study to reach this conclusion. In this process they enlisted the help of leading university professors in a National Task Force on Economic Education, a Materials Evaluation Committee and the Joint Council on Economic Education for special studies. Mountains of intellect labored and brought forth you-know-what.

The Task Force on Economic Education advocates that high school students be given, among other things an understanding of how much this country can produce and how fast the economy shall grow.

THIS JUST HAPPENS TO BE a question on which the President and Congress, Republicans and Democrats, capital and labor and no two practicing graduate economists agree.

The task force itself concludes that, "... many high school students lack the maturity and understanding required to do a good job of reaching their own conclusions on complex economic issues." If that is so, why bother them with it?

The Materials Evaluation Committee surveyed 7,000 pamphlets on economic subjects put out by business, labor and other special interest organizations. It made up kits of 97 of these items which it mailed out to 25,00 high schools to show what teaching materials are now available.

This revives an old battle of the educators against special interest groups furnishing teaching materials for schools because it was felt, so much of it was slanted propaganda.

Even this committee concluded that "the need for basic texts continues" in this field. It called on publishers and writers to produce them, which is one constructive idea.

Independently, CED found that there aren't enough trained teachers to give high school or grade school courses in economics As a first effort to correct this situation, CBS "College of the Air" is launching a series of 160 half-hour broadcast lessons on this subject. But they won't start till fall.

CED is also financing a special study by Joint Council on Education to devise a series of tests which will show when high school students are economically educated.

This won't' be ready till spring, 1963. You'll have to wait.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Kennedy has found plenty of time to spend on crusades abroad, but a new opportunity is opening up for him inside the United States. A hint of it came in a recent speech in which he stressed the importance of getting the story of "the democratic way of life" across to students and to the "intellectual group" in this country, just as he endeavored to do on his trip around the world a few weeks ago.

A tape recording of the impromtu comments made in a question and answer period following a speech by Mr. Kennedy before the Advertising Council of America has just become available. He said:

"I think that this has been an area (university students) we've largely ignored in the past —and the intellectual group. I don't think we've made the effort that we should have made and I don't think we've concentrated on the fundamentals about the United States and our democratic way of life, whether it be in this country or in other areas."

Unfortunately, some of the fragmentary quotations from his comments—as reported in the press and picked up by former Vice President Nixon, among others—gave the impression that Mr. Kennedy was minimizing the tactics of the Communists rather than the size of their following inside this country. What he was trying to emphasize was the steady diminution of membership in the Communist party in America. When he was asked how he evaluated the so-called Communist conspiracy in the United States, he replied:

"Well, I would say that I don't think they have any power in the United States. I think that it always poses somewhat of a problem when you have even a small group active within a country who take orders and instructions and are financed by a foreign power, as the Communist party in the United States is at the present time. They have no following. They have been thoroughly discredited throughout the United States, largely through the work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and to some extent through Congressional committees and the work of newspapers. So they have really no following."

The Attorney General probably meant that they have no following outside the party membership, because he then added:

"The great problems and difficulties, in my judgment, are external and the effort that has to be made in other countries. It doesn't lie with the Communist party here in the United States, with the exception that I mentioned: the fact that you have 8,000 or 10,000 people in the United States who take their orders and instructions from the Soviet Union. I think that always poses a danger, but I think that's being dealt with by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and I think that what is almost hysteria about the activities of Communists within the United States is misplaced apprehension."

The Attorney General, who first spoke out March 6, now has supplemented his remarks in a press conference held in Los Angeles March 24. He expressed there his belief that the greatest danger is not from the Communist party in America but from espionage by agents of Communist-bloc countries who, of course, operate under instructions from Moscow.

Many persons familiar with the Communist strategy inside America wish the Attorney General had explained more fully on both occasions why the Communists have dropped from 500,000 members before World War II to about 10,000 today. For this has been brought about largely by pitless publicity and by the exposures made by the House Committee on Un-American Activities and by the Senate internal security subcommittee. What the committees bring out into the open can be printed in the press without fair of libel suits that might otherwise be brought by individuals named in the hearings.

The Communist know this, and that's why they are driving so hard to abolish these committees. Unfortunately, too many "intellectuals" in our universities have misguidedly signed petitions to try to hamper the efforts of these committees of Congress. This movement is growing inside our colleges, and the happenings at the San Francisco hearings have been distorted in an attempt to discredit the work of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

If the Attorney General could find time to visit some American universities and talk ernestly to faculty members as well as students about Communist methods, he would be doing a yeoman service in the fight against Communist infiltration. It would be helpful if he only quoted repeatedly this well-informed comment by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI:

"It is vitally important to set the record straight on the extent to which the Communists were responsible for the disgraceful and riotous conditions which prevailed during the hearings in San Francisco of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It is vitally important that not only the students involved in that incident, but also students throughout the nation whom Communists hope to exploit in similar situations, recognize the Communist tactics which resulted in what experienced West Coast observers familiar with Communist strategy and tactics have termed the most successful Communist coup to ocur in the San Francisco area in twenty-five years."

It is clear that even 10,000 members, many of them working with Soviet agents, could do considerable damage to America. It took only one man—Klaus Fuchs, a seemingly harmless research scientist—to steal the secrets of our atomic bomb in a laboratory in New Mexico and give them to the Soviet Union. The menace of Communist activity inside the United States can hardly be minimized.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It has come to my attention that Jules, or Julie, Podell, president of the Copacabana Club in New York, has been put to vexation by the Bureau of Licenses of the Police Department because he admitted to his premises Frank Costello, a retired bootlegger of apparent wealth who also operated slot machines and table games in New Orleans until about 1956. The Copacabana is a fine place to go when you want to go to that kind of place and I volunteer that I have been there many times, twice with Frank Costello and his wife, Bobbie.

We are friends.

The last time I was in the Copa with Frank and Bobbie was a few nights after he came home from Atlanta after serving three years and a bit in a position of trust for the crime of signing his name to a piece of paper. This was a complex affair in which numerous Federal judges of all ranks disagreed ingeniously for years. Mr. Costello estimated that, altogether, nineteen U.S. judges had been required to decide in a photo-finish that he did in truth commit the crime of signing his name to this piece of paper. Altogether, also, more than a hundred U.S. Attorneys, and assistants, all Democrats and thus, necessarily henchmen of Franklin D. Roosevelt and agents of the Internal Revenue and the FBI, had been required at a public cost beyond estimation to prove by a hair-line that Costello did sign that piece of paper, to wit, a tax return. This was really unnecessary because he had admitted his signature all along. However, the signing of the paper was the false move which completed the crime.

Mr. Costello is a Democrat himself, but a conservative Democrat, heartily opposed to Communism which he regards as a menace to our Western Civilization and a festering reptile mocking the sacred heritage of how do you like that? It is true that for some years he had a common interest with Jimmy Roosevelt, the eaglet of the dynasty, in their association with the Mills Novelty Company, which manufactures one-armed bandits, now felonious under certain aspects of Federal law. But Costello's parish of this indomitable force was just the slots. They were his only interest. The Eaglet's see, on the other hand, was the ten-cent slot-machine movie whose entertainment, as viewed specifically in the arcades of Market Street, San Francisco, were rated below passing according to the moral standards of the Legion of Decency. Mr. Costello vehemently disowned interest in these movies. He said: "They keep saying this and saying that, but I never had nothing to do with broads. Booze and slots, that's all. I am married to Bobbie more than 40 years. She would bat my brains out."

The Police Bureau of Licenses asked Julie Podell if he knew that Costello had served a term in Atlanta. Julie said he just read something in the papers. Some of his best friends are newspapermen like publishers and editors.

On my part, let the record show I flew over the Atlanta Schoolyard on my way to some freedom riots in the Deep South last year and looked for Frank, but learned later in New York that he was in the bus bound home on parole at the time. A few days later we had lunch at the Stork and Sherman Billingsley recalled a time when Dutch Schultz stuck some pickets out front and when Frank came in Sherman asken him to clean it up so Frank phoned the Dutchman and the pickets were gone in 15 minutes.

Let the record show further that I knew Franklin D. Roosevelt and his inconsolable spouse and attended some cookouts at their spot and Heywood Brun's and George Bye's, but that I never asked the Roosevelt's to my place. I have to mess with some very undesirable people in my professional practice, but my private life is my own. I have had pleasant relations with the Costellos and Ownie Madden and her; and the Duke and Wallis and Nancy Astor and the Lord when he was around. But I never had no truck with LaGuardia nor neither with Truman except a glancing blow at a poker do in Kansas City.

As far as I know, Costello never did this country any harm. We never knew where it came from, but I drank my share of Probish under the 18th Amendment and it stands to reason that some of it came ashore under Frank's franchise. And I played a lot of slots when Costello was operating, but I never dropped any dimes into any of those Minsky-type Mills Novelty shows.

I think Julie Podell runs a clean spot. I have seen Joe E. Lewis there and Jimmy Durante and Sophie Tucker, always nice clean amusement recommended for drunk or sober.

Plattekill 923

It was reported, that about 300 attended the fish 'n chips supper at the local grange hall, March 17.

This was followed by game night among the subordinate granges of the county.

The Community Service Committee of the grange will hold a rummage sale at the former Reformed Church parsonage, corner of Third and Grand Streets, Newburgh, Friday, March 30 from 1 until 9 p. m. and Saturday, March 31 from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

The next regular meeting will be held on Saturday, April 14 at which time the third and Fourth Degrees will be conferred on a large class of candidates. The degree work will be performed by a degree team, composed of members of Plattekill Grange.

Legislation at Albany

A New York State Grange sponsored bill seeking an amendment to the Motor Vehicle law to clarify usage of a farm tractor with snow blade attached has been passed by the Legislature and awaits Governor Rockefeller's action.

The grange measure would relieve any question as to the legality of the use of a farm tractor in plowing the driveway of a non-farmer neighbor, the church drive, etc., provided the farmer does not do such work for hire.

This farmer exemption bill is an important part of the State Grange Legislative Program.

The grange has also reaffirmed its position urging that the minimum drinking age in the state be raised from 18 to 21 years. The State Grange Executive Committee, declaring there is "doubt, misunderstanding and not enough knowledge about details" of the Federal Supply Management plan, is calling for legislation to maintain 83 per cent of parity supports for class 3 (manufacturing) milk until April 1, 1963. It is also urging the milk producers in the state to support the American Dairy Association and the Dairy Council program in the promotion of milk.

Highland 888

Members of Highland Grange are in the process of redecorating and making necessary repairs to the grange hall and in conjunction with this activity a work night was sponsored Wednesday evening.

At this time members gathered to continue the work project. It was reported that Mrs. Mabel Schoonmaker, Robert Sacrider and Mr. and Mrs. David Decker were among those who received the First and Second Degrees of the grange at Plattekill Grange Hall.

A special social will be held at the grange hall Friday, April 12, in charge of Mrs. Georgianna Bowman. Reported on the sick list is Lee Mc Crory. A cheer card was sent to Mrs. Hudson Covert. The next regular meeting will be held at grange hall on April 3. The refreshment committee selected to serve at this meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schreiber, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Olree, Mrs. Mary Diorio, Jack O'Hara and William L. Stewart. Ulster Grange dartball team were guests of the local grange for a regular scheduled dartball game Friday.

Pomona Meeting

Lake Katrine, Highland, Clintondale, Ulster and Plattekill Granges were represented at the Pomona Recreational Committee meeing held at the Highland Grange Hall March 18. A recreational program for the 14 subordinate granges of Ulster County was discussed. After considerable discussion it was decided to have each grange in the county sponsor a game night which will be open to all grange members and families.

It was also decided to split the county into two sections in order to save traveling. The southern part of the county will comprise the following granges, Milton 884, Highland 888, Plattekill 923, Huguenot 1028 of New Paltz, Clintondale 957, Rosendale 1501 and Ulster 969, Ulster Park.

The northern half of the county will comprise the following: Homowack 956 of Spring Glen, Patroon 1519 of Accord, Stone Ridge 931, Hurley 963, Mt. Tremper 1468, Asbury 1408 and Lake Katrine 1065.

To start the program the following dates were set: Clintondale Grange on Saturday April 7; Ulster Park Saturday, May 19, and Highland Saturday, June 16.

It was also decided to have each one attending bring games and their own refreshments, beverages to be furnished by the host grange. It has been suggested that dominoes, checkers, Chinese checkers, pinochle and dartball will be played. It is expected that those granges who have not set a date participate in this Pomona project.

Ulster 969

It was voted to start the necessary renovations to the grange hall by replacing the doors in the basement to conform to the fire regulations of the Town of Esopus.

This action was taken at the last meeting of the grange at the grange hall in Ulster Park on Wednesday evening.

It was also suggested that a letter be sent to the superintendent of Ulster County Highway Department, protesting the deplorable condition of the Union Central Highway.

Special emphasis was placed on the numerous guard rails down on the ground, several culverts which have been clogged up over a long period of time and of the bad holes in the road in spots which have not had any attention also over a long period of time.

The officers and members of Ulster Grange, most of whom reside in the area mentioned above, are of the opinion, that this dangerous and deplorable conditiond has existed over a very long period of time and that it is about time something was done about it.

A thank you card was received and read from Mrs. George Villielm Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. George Villielm Jr., for the flowers sent to Brother George Villielm Sr.

It was also decided to start painting the interior of the grange building in the very near future. Ulster Grange was the guest of Highland Grange on Friday for a regular league dartball game. They will also be the guests of the Lake Katrine Grange Tuesday for another in the series of dartball games. A card party will be held at the grange hall Saturday, April 7 at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be served. The next regular meeting will be held at the grange hall in Ulster Park Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p. m.

The refreshment committee for April will be Mr. and Mrs. George Villielm Jr., chairman; Mrs. Margaret Viglielmo, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Katatsky and Mrs. Reta Gaudette.

An appeal was made by the Red Cross for canvassers to cover the Ulster Park area in their drive for funds and it was suggested that this project be turned over to the older members of the newly formed Juvenile Grange.

Asbury 1408

The next regular meeting of Asbury Grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m. presided over by Worthy Master Ralph Westphal.

This meeting will be the annual Visitation Night of the grange, Lake Katrine 1065 and Milton 8844 will be the guests of the local grange.

Stone Ridge 931

A. J. Anderson of Kerhonkson National Bank gave a very interesting talk on the subject of "Income Taxes" to an open meeting held at the grange hall March 19.

Stone Ridge Grange will be the guest of Homowack Grange of Spring Glen for their annual Visitation Night Monday, April 9 at 8 p. m. The visiting grange will furnish sandwiches and the host grange will furnish beverages. The next regular meeting of Stone Ridge Grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m.

Clintondale 957

Clintondale Grange will entertain the County Grange Conference Saturday evening, March 31 at the grange hall. A covered dish supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. Rolls, dessert and coffee will be furnished by the host grange.

State Lecturer Mrs. Harriet Francisco of Otisville, will offer valuable information for lecturers and all departments of grange work.

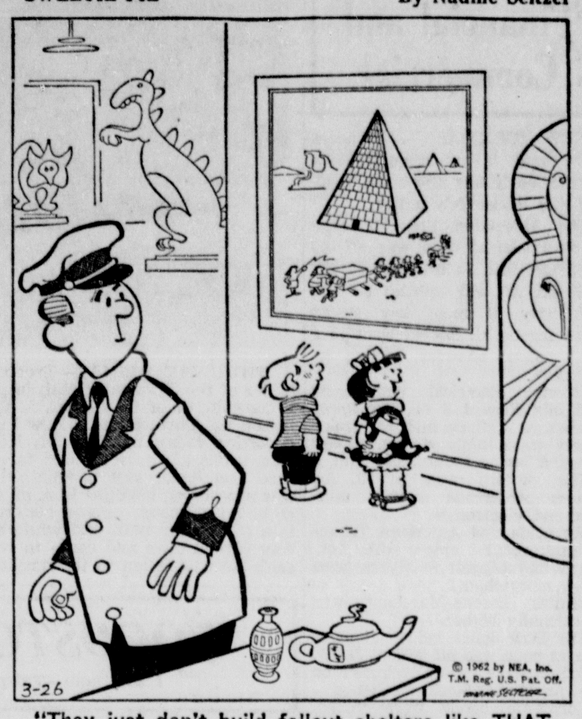

Clintondale Grange will be host to the members of subordinate granges in one of a series of game nights sponsored by the County Pomona Grange Saturday, April 7.

All members attending will furnish sandwiches, beverages will be furnished by the host grange. The next regular meeting of the grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m. with Worthy Master George Ronk presiding.

30 Are Appointed ToRecommendfor New Court Seats

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-member committee has been named by Gov. Rockefeller to recommend appointees for 38 proposed new seats on the State Supreme Court and County Court benches.

Prospects that all 38 seats would be created by the Legislature were uncertain, however. Bills affecting Long Island and Western New York courts are expected to win approval, but bills to create new judicial posts in New York City are apt to become bogged down in political wrangling.

Republican legislative leaders are said to be refusing to agree on New York city judgeships without a guarantee from Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner that some Republicans will get jobs.

Under the proposed legislation, 17 state supreme court judgeships and 6 county court judgeships would be created in New York City.

Eleven supreme court seats would be created in Nassau and Suffolk counties and three in Western New York. A new county court seat would be created in Nassau County.

Highland 888

Members of Highland Grange are in the process of redecorating and making necessary repairs to the grange hall and in conjunction with this activity a work night was sponsored Wednesday evening.

At this time members gathered to continue the work project. It was reported that Mrs. Mabel Schoonmaker, Robert Sacrider and Mr. and Mrs. David Decker were among those who received the First and Second Degrees of the grange at Plattekill Grange Hall.

A special social will be held at the grange hall Friday, April 12, in charge of Mrs. Georgianna Bowman. Reported on the sick list is Lee Mc Crory. A cheer card was sent to Mrs. Hudson Covert. The next regular meeting will be held at grange hall on April 3. The refreshment committee selected to serve at this meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schreiber, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Olree, Mrs. Mary Diorio, Jack O'Hara and William L. Stewart. Ulster Grange dartball team were guests of the local grange for a regular scheduled dartball game Friday.

Pomona Meeting

Lake Katrine, Highland, Clintondale, Ulster and Plattekill Granges were represented at the Pomona Recreational Committee meeing held at the Highland Grange Hall March 18. A recreational program for the 14 subordinate granges of Ulster County was discussed. After considerable discussion it was decided to have each grange in the county sponsor a game night which will be open to all grange members and families.

It was also decided to split the county into two sections in order to save traveling. The southern part of the county will comprise the following granges, Milton 884, Highland 888, Plattekill 923, Huguenot 1028 of New Paltz, Clintondale 957, Rosendale 1501 and Ulster 969, Ulster Park.

The northern half of the county will comprise the following: Homowack 956 of Spring Glen, Patroon 1519 of Accord, Stone Ridge 931, Hurley 963, Mt. Tremper 1468, Asbury 1408 and Lake Katrine 1065.

To start the program the following dates were set: Clintondale Grange on Saturday April 7; Ulster Park Saturday, May 19, and Highland Saturday, June 16.

It was also decided to have each one attending bring games and their own refreshments, beverages to be furnished by the host grange. It has been suggested that dominoes, checkers, Chinese checkers, pinochle and dartball will be played. It is expected that those granges who have not set a date participate in this Pomona project.

Ulster 969

It was voted to start the necessary renovations to the grange hall by replacing the doors in the basement to conform to the fire regulations of the Town of Esopus.

This action was taken at the last meeting of the grange at the grange hall in Ulster Park on Wednesday evening.

It was also suggested that a letter be sent to the superintendent of Ulster County Highway Department, protesting the deplorable condition of the Union Central Highway.

Special emphasis was placed on the numerous guard rails down on the ground, several culverts which have clogged up over a long period of time and of the bad holes in the road in spots which have not had any attention also over a long period of time.

The officers and members of Ulster Grange, most of whom reside in the area mentioned above, are of the opinion, that this dangerous and deplorable conditiond has existed over a very long period of time and that it is about time something was done about it.

A thank you card was received and read from Mrs. George Villielm Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. George Villielm Jr., for the flowers sent to Brother George Villielm Sr.

It was also decided to start painting the interior of the grange building in the very near future. Ulster Grange was the guest of Highland Grange on Friday for a regular league dartball game. They will also be the guests of the Lake Katrine Grange Tuesday for another in the series of dartball games. A card party will be held at the grange hall Saturday, April 7 at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be served. The next regular meeting will be held at the grange hall in Ulster Park Wednesday, April 4 at 8 p. m.

The refreshment committee for April will be Mr. and Mrs. George Villielm Jr., chairman; Mrs. Margaret Viglielmo, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Katatsky and Mrs. Reta Gaudette.

An appeal was made by the Red Cross for canvassers to cover the Ulster Park area in their drive for funds and it was suggested that this project be turned over to the older members of the newly formed Juvenile Grange.

Asbury 1408

The next regular meeting of Asbury Grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m. presided over by Worthy Master Ralph Westphal.

This meeting will be the annual Visitation Night of the grange, Lake Katrine 1065 and Milton 8844 will be the guests of the local grange.

Stone Ridge 931

A. J. Anderson of Kerhonkson National Bank gave a very interesting talk on the subject of "Income Taxes" to an open meeting held at the grange hall March 19.

Stone Ridge Grange will be the guest of Homowack Grange of Spring Glen for their annual Visitation Night Monday, April 9 at 8 p. m. The visiting grange will furnish sandwiches and the host grange will furnish beverages. The next regular meeting of Stone Ridge Grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m.

Clintondale 957

Clintondale Grange will entertain the County Grange Conference Saturday evening, March 31 at the grange hall. A covered dish supper will be served at 6:30 p. m. Rolls, dessert and coffee will be furnished by the host grange.

State Lecturer Mrs. Harriet Francisco of Otisville, will offer valuable information for lecturers and all departments of grange work.

Clintondale Grange will be host to the members of subordinate granges in one of a series of game nights sponsored by the County Pomona Grange Saturday, April 7.

All members attending will furnish sandwiches, beverages will be furnished by the host grange. The next regular meeting of the grange will be held at the grange hall Monday, April 2 at 8 p. m. with Worthy Master George Ronk presiding.

30 Are Appointed ToRecommendfor New Court Seats

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-member committee has been named by Gov. Rockefeller to recommend appointees for 38 proposed new seats on the State Supreme Court and County Court benches.

Prospects that all 38 seats would be created by the Legislature were uncertain, however. Bills affecting Long Island and Western New York courts are expected to win approval, but bills to create new judicial posts in New York City are apt to become bogged down in political wrangling.

Republican legislative leaders are said to be refusing to agree on New York city judgeships without a guarantee from Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner that some Republicans will get jobs.

Under the proposed legislation, 17 state supreme court judgeships and 6 county court judgeships would be created in New York City.

Eleven supreme court seats would be created in Nassau and Suffolk counties and three in Western New York. A new county court seat would be created in Nassau County.

4 Persons Killed In Road Mishaps; 2 Youths Drown

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Only four persons were killed in traffic accidents in New York State over the weekend, despite sunny skies and spring temperatures that lured thousands to the highways.

Two boys drowned when they fell through thaw-weakened ice on a lake in Blue Mountain Reservation near Montrose.

In Brooklyn, a 7-month-old girl died in a fire that police said apparently was started by her brother as he played with a cigarette lighter.

Temperatures ranged up to the 40s and 50s across the state during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night, and skies were generally clear.

The New York State Thruway reported that traffic on the cross-state superhighway rose at its normal seasonal rate.

The two youths who drowned, William McGowan, and Andrew Bondra, both 14 and of Peekskill, fell through the ice Saturday.

The reservation is a Westchester County park.

The victim of the Brooklyn fire Sunday was Tonia Keene. Her brother, Terance, 4, was reported in poor condition at a Brooklyn hospital.

Other fatal accidents, by community:

West Winfield—Harold H. Coy, 25, of West Winfield, auto struck a curb on Route 20 Saturday.

Brushton—Lester Hourihan, 46, of Brasher Falls, auto plunged down an embankment and into a creek Saturday.

Buffalo—Emil Gajewski, 47, of Cheektowaga, two-car crash on Route 2 Sunday.

Police Checking Tavern Burglary, Auto Parts Theft

Unknown sums were reported taken from a juke box, cigarette machine, and a game machine in Gene's Bar & Grill, 119 North Front Street, early Sunday. Entrance was gained through a rear door.

William Reis, of 57 Fairmont Avenue, notified police Saturday that motor parts had been taken from a cellar at that address. Value of one of the several parts reported missing was reported at $100 and another was valued at $52. The parts were taken, the report said, while Reis was "away on active naval duty."

Four Motorists

at 10 a. m. Trooper Wallace Mahan made the charge.

Hearing Adjourned

Troopers said Elmer R. Sollenberger, 32, of Marlboro, submitted to a blood test Sunday after he was arrested by Trooper William Brown of Highland on a charge of drunken driving. Justice of the Peace Schunk, Town of Lloyd, fixed bail at $250 and adjourned hearing until Thursday, March 29.

Fireman Injured

Highland Fire Chief Eugene Noe, 50, of Highland, was treated at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Sunday afternoon for a whiplash of the neck. The chief was responding to an alarm for a brush fire and stopped to pick up a passenger on Route 44-55 at Ransom Road, when his car was hit in the rear by a car operated by another volunteer fireman identified by Trooper Foster as William Van Voorhis, 43, of Highland.

Robert Lee Armstrong, 27, of Highland, suffered a ruptured spleen and possible other injuries at 3:10 a. m. Sunday when the car in which he was riding overturned on Route 9W at the Highland traffic circle. Armstrong was taken to Vassar Hospital.

Trooper Foster said Armstrong was a passenger in a car driven by John Kracht, 48, of 85 Grove Street, Newburgh. The vehicle was traveling north when the driver failed to negotiate a curve and the vehicle struck a guard post and overturned.

New Sponsors For Woodstock And Ulster SANE

Several new sponsors have been announced for the National and Ulster county chapters of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy.

Local sponsors who will serve as an Advisory Board include; Father Dudley Bennett of New Paltz; Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, Kingston; Mrs. Manuel Bromberg, Woodstock; Norman Kellar, New Paltz; Mrs. Bohumir Larys, Woodstock; Dr. Eugene P. Link, New Paltz; Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, Kingston; Rev. H. Chase Page, Phoenicia; Dr. Louis P. Salkever, New Paltz; Keith Smiley, Lake Mohonk; Dr. James T. Shotwell, Woodstock; Theodore Sturgeon, Woodstock; and the Rev. G. J. Wullschleger, New Paltz.

The national committee, known as SANE, bases its activities on the simple proposition that war, especially nuclear war, is incompatible with individual, national, and species survival and is, therefore, an insane course to follow, a spokesman said.

SANE advocates the cessation of nuclear testing with adequate inspections and safeguards. SANE is non-political and non-sectarian, denies membership to any who owe allegiance to a totalitarian group, and does not promote civil disobedience. SANE sends reporting observers to conferences all over the world supplies information to legislators and the public, and supports rational moves toward peace and sanity at every level everywhere.

Ulster County SANE, greatly expanded from the original Woodstock group, will schedule regular workshop sessions and a new and enlarged program of public meetings. Its address is Box 962, Woodstock.

Sturgeon Letter Draws Reply From Mansfield

The following letter has been submitted by Howard Mansfield II, in reply to an earlier statement on the "beatnik poem" incident at Onteora Central School:

"In reference to the statement of Mr. Theodore Sturgeon, in your column of last Monday, I for one am wondering what he is trying to prove.

(1) He seems to object to the theological implications to the subject. It has been my impression that matters theological deal with the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures for the spiritual and moral benefit of mankind, that he may be drawn closer to his God. The current subjects is not one of theological interpretation, but rather the abuse of it, with a captive audience of children as the innocent victims of it.

(2) Mr. Sturgeon hypothesizes that if theological pressures against the public schools are involved, it constitutes "an act so patently unconstitutional, illegal and un-American.

(a) The constitution, on matters religious, prohibits the creation of a state religion, nothing more. Any other interpretation is wrong, but when such may be edited by the U. S. Supreme Court, it will stand until the citizens of the nation want it corrected bad enough to provide constitutional restraint upon this court.

(b) The illegality of the protest against blasphemy in our schools would be a matter for our courts, not Mr. Sturgeon. Upon the outcome of such decision might well rest the question of whether the nation's youth are still the God-given charges of their parents or "wards of the state." Moreover, since when has it become "illegal" for parents to protest against the indoctrination of their children by public servants, as opposed to the 'legality' of those who protest the teaching of a simple prayer in the schools?

(c) Our founding fathers expressed a deep and profound faith in Divine Providence. This is now "un-American?"

(3) Here, at least, Mr. Sturgeon can be commended for his reasonably accurate word picture of Calvary. We recognize that there was a mob of rabble present, for the Scriptures are very clear on this. (Matt. 26:67-68; Mark 15:17-20; Luke 23:35-37).

"Are we to understand that these facts of long ago give license to repeat the evil today? There are those who will do it, but it has no place in any institution charged with the responsibility of educating, I repeat, educating our youth.

"I appreciate Mr. Sturgeon's efforts to settle 'a great deal of dust and debris in the air', but let us recognize truth for what it is. Let's not hide behind Pontius Pilate who, in a vain effort to avoid the consequences of his evil, piteously whimpered 'What is truth?'" . . HOWARD MANSFIELD II.

Physical Education Dance Class Held

Climaxing the dance unit of instruction in Physical education the sixth grade class of the Woodstock Elementary School played host to the fourth and fifth graders at a very successful square dance in the school gymnasium on March 16, 1962.

Many parents who brought their children stayed the entire evening to view the array of dances learned by the youngsters.

Highlighting the evening was a "circle twist" and "limbo" with all participating.

French Capture

sentenced to death in absentia.

Jouhaud, 56, was a 1962 graduate of the St. Cyr Military Academy, France's West Point.

A short, stocky, taciturn man, he played a backstage role in the May 13, 1958, uprising in Algiers which brought Gen. de Gaulle back to power.

At that time Jouhaud was deputy to Gen. Salan, the French commander in Algeria. In July 1958, Jouhaud was moved out of Algeria and made air force chief of staff.

He retired in 1960 at his own request and slipped back into Algeria a few weeks before the generals' uprising last year.

In Oran, meanwhile, angry European settlers and French troops eyed each other warily over makeshift barricades in the heart of the city.

Troops in tanks and halftracks waited word from their commanders whether to clear the roadblocks in a frontal assault or to seal off the area as other French troops have done with the rebellious Bab el Oued district of Algiers.

Battle Until Midnight

Diehard settlers, spearheaded by commandos of the secret army, blocked off the center of Oran, Algeria's second city, and battled French forces until almost midnight Sunday.

Sunday's death toll throughout Algeria, resulting mostly from murderous attacks on Moslems by members of the secret army, was 20 with 68 wounded.

Although casualties were low, fighting was spectacular. Infuriated settlers from behind their barricades fought French military police with rifles, pistols and submachine guns.

The French air force sent two planes swooping low over the area in late afternoon to strafe it with bursts from heavy machine guns.

Tracer bullets lit up the sky as French troops moved in for a systematic search of European apartment buildings, seeking leaders of the secret army and a clandestine radio transmitter.

Belief grew that settlers in Oran and Algiers were taking matters in their own hands and attacking against the wishes of the secret army command. Secret army pamphlets pledged not to fire on the troops except in legitimate defense.

Warning Given

Christian Fouchet, new French high commissioner in Algeria, warned European settlers of Algeria that if they kept fighting to sabotage the cease-fire agreement between France and the Moslem rebels, they would be "the first and main victims."

In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle's government called home Maurice Dejean, its ambassador to Moscow, to show displeasure with the Soviet Union's formal recognition of the Algerian rebel provisional government. Under terms of the cease-fire, France remains sovereign in Algeria until independence is voted in a self-determination referendum.

Widow Needing Income Should Buy an Annuity

Q) "I am badly in need of your advice. Suddenly I find myself alone and a widow of 60, with no Social Security because my husband had none. We lived well on our savings. All I have left is $20,000 in Series H. bonds and $50,000 from insurance. I would be grateful to you if you would tell me how to invest the insurance money for income. I will do so without fear since I fell that I can trust you."—E. P.

A) I am profoundly grateful for your trust and will do all in my power to assist you.

It is no easy task for someone in your position to tackle, without help, the investment of money. This is a very difficult period in which to invest safely for good income.

If you are truly alone—and have no heirs to consider—I think you should put $30,000 of your insurance money right back with the same company in a life annuity contract. This would pay you about $63.50 per thousand, or annual income of around $1,900, which is a far bigger return than you can get from any other thoroughly safe source. The reason is that in this type of policy your principal reverts to the insurance company after your death.

To provide yourself with some protection against rising living costs, I would invest the remaining $20,000 in equal amounts of General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Pacific, and Ludlow Corp. These would bring you in currently around $900 a year.

Combined with your return from the Series H bonds, your total income, if you follow my suggestions, should be around $3,600, which would enable you to live comfortably and without worry.

Q) "I was shocked to read in your column that Chesapeake & Ohio failed to cover its $4 dividend last year. Just what did they earn?"—P. K.

A) Chessy's earnings for 1961 came to $3.60 per common share.

Israel Prosecutor Lashes Out at Eichmann Appeal

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's state prosecutor mounted a slashing attack today on Adolf Eichmann's appeal against the death sentence.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner, who prosecuted the former Gestapo official convicted of complicity in the Nazi slaughter of the Jews, called arguments advanced by Eichmann's defense "only designs to delay the judgments and execution of sentence."

Spreading his arms, the prosecutor pleaded with the five justices of the Israeli Supreme Court to reject the defense claim that Israel had no right to try Eichmann.

"Adolf Eichmann did not persecute the Jews in Germany, Austria, Holland, France and so on as nationals of those countries," Hausner declared.

"He persecuted them as Jews and no other state has a right to try Eichmann superior to that of Israel."

Eichmann looked unmoved as he listened to Hausner rip into each defense plea for mitigation of his death sentence.

Hausner cited legal precedents for his contention that the kidnaping of Eichmann from Argentina in 1960 did not provide grounds for mitigation.

After the hearing concludes, probably late this week, the court will retire for perhaps a month to rule on the appeal.

Crime, Business,

could threaten the leaders' plans for an orderly closing.

The traditional adjournment session is a marathon meeting, running without a break from one day into the next. In the closing hours, exhausted lawmakers pass, often without debate or question, a flood of bills presented by the powerful Rules Committees, which are dominated by legislative leaders.

This common development has been a frequent cause of criticism of the Legislature, particularly last year, when the Legislature increased the pay of its members.

Legislative leaders apparently are counting on a more orderly adjournment this year to eliminate at least one of the complaints about the law-making process.

Supreme Court Direct Memphis Segregation Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court directed today an immediate ban on racial segregation in a restaurant in the Memphis, Tenn., Municipal Airport building.

Lower federal courts were ordered to issue the ban.

The Supreme Court overturned a ruling by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Memphis that said Tennessee state courts should interpret state laws, regulations and city ordnances involved in a segregation case before any federal court action is taken.

The Supreme Court's vote was 8-0. Justice Whittaker took no part.

The highest tribunal in an unsigned opinion said there was no reason for federal courts to put off action in the case, saying "on the merits, no issue remains to be resolved."

4 Persons Killed In Road Mishaps; 2 Youths Drown

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Only four persons were killed in traffic accidents in New York State over the weekend, despite sunny skies and spring temperatures that lured thousands to the highways.

Two boys drowned when they fell through thaw-weakened ice on a lake in Blue Mountain Reservation near Montrose.

In Brooklyn, a 7-month-old girl died in a fire that police said apparently was started by her brother as he played with a cigarette lighter.

Temperatures ranged up to the 40s and 50s across the state during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday night, and skies were generally clear.

The New York State Thruway reported that traffic on the cross-state superhighway rose at its normal seasonal rate.

The two youths who drowned, William McGowan, and Andrew Bondra, both 14 and of Peekskill, fell through the ice Saturday.

The reservation is a Westchester County park.

The victim of the Brooklyn fire Sunday was Tonia Keene. Her brother, Terance, 4, was reported in poor condition at a Brooklyn hospital.

Other fatal accidents, by community:

West Winfield—Harold H. Coy, 25, of West Winfield, auto struck a curb on Route 20 Saturday.

Brushton—Lester Hourihan, 46, of Brasher Falls, auto plunged down an embankment and into a creek Saturday.

Buffalo—Emil Gajewski, 47, of Cheektowaga, two-car crash on Route 2 Sunday.

Police Checking Tavern Burglary, Auto Parts Theft

Unknown sums were reported taken from a juke box, cigarette machine, and a game machine in Gene's Bar & Grill, 119 North Front Street, early Sunday. Entrance was gained through a rear door.

William Reis, of 57 Fairmont Avenue, notified police Saturday that motor parts had been taken from a cellar at that address. Value of one of the several parts reported missing was reported at $100 and another was valued at $52. The parts were taken, the report said, while Reis was "away on active naval duty."

Four Motorists

at 10 a. m. Trooper Wallace Mahan made the charge.

Hearing Adjourned

Troopers said Elmer R. Sollenberger, 32, of Marlboro, submitted to a blood test Sunday after he was arrested by Trooper William Brown of Highland on a charge of drunken driving. Justice of the Peace Schunk, Town of Lloyd, fixed bail at $250 and adjourned hearing until Thursday, March 29.

Fireman Injured

Highland Fire Chief Eugene Noe, 50, of Highland, was treated at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, Sunday afternoon for a whiplash of the neck. The chief was responding to an alarm for a brush fire and stopped to pick up a passenger on Route 44-55 at Ransom Road, when his car was hit in the rear by a car operated by another volunteer fireman identified by Trooper Foster as William Van Voorhis, 43, of Highland.

Robert Lee Armstrong, 27, of Highland, suffered a ruptured spleen and possible other injuries at 3:10 a. m. Sunday when the car in which he was riding overturned on Route 9W at the Highland traffic circle. Armstrong was taken to Vassar Hospital.

Trooper Foster said Armstrong was a passenger in a car driven by John Kracht, 48, of 85 Grove Street, Newburgh. The vehicle was traveling north when the driver failed to negotiate a curve and the vehicle struck a guard post and overturned.

SANE advocates the cessation of nuclear testing with adequate inspections and safeguards. SANE is non-political and non-sectarian, denies membership to any who owe allegiance to a totalitarian group, and does not promote civil disobedience. Sturgeon Letter Draws Reply From Mansfield

The following letter has been submitted by Howard Mansfield II, in reply to an earlier statement on the "beatnik poem" incident at Onteora Central School:

"In reference to the statement of Mr. Theodore Sturgeon, in your column of last Monday, I for one am wondering what he is trying to prove.

(1) He seems to object to the theological implications to the subject. It has been my impression that matters theological deal with the interpretation of the Holy Scriptures for the spiritual and moral benefit of mankind, that he may be drawn closer to his God. The current subjects is not one of theological interpretation, but rather the abuse of it, with a captive audience of children as the innocent victims of it.

(2) Mr. Sturgeon hypothesizes that if theological pressures against the public schools are involved, it constitutes "an act so patently unconstitutional, illegal and un-American.

(a) The constitution, on matters religious, prohibits the creation of a state religion, nothing more. Any other interpretation is wrong, but when such may be edited by the U. S. Supreme Court, it will stand until the citizens of the nation want it corrected bad enough to provide constitutional restraint upon this court.

(b) The illegality of the protest against blasphemy in our schools would be a matter for our courts, not Mr. Sturgeon. Upon the outcome of such decision might well rest the question of whether the nation's youth are still the God-given charges of their parents or "wards of the state." Moreover, since when has it become "illegal" for parents to protest against the indoctrination of their children by public servants, as opposed to the 'legality' of those who protest the teaching of a simple prayer in the schools?

(c) Our founding fathers expressed a deep and profound faith in Divine Providence. This is now "un-American?"

(3) Here, at least, Mr. Sturgeon can be commended for his reasonably accurate word picture of Calvary. We recognize that there was a mob of rabble present, for the Scriptures are very clear on this. (Matt. 26:67-68; Mark 15:17-20; Luke 23:35-37).

"Are we to understand that these facts of long ago give license to repeat the evil today? There are those who will do it, but it has no place in any institution charged with the responsibility of educating, I repeat, educating our youth.

"I appreciate Mr. Sturgeon's efforts to settle 'a great deal of dust and debris in the air', but let us recognize truth for what it is. Let's not hide behind Pontius Pilate who, in a vain effort to avoid the consequences of his evil, piteously whimpered 'What is truth?'" . . HOWARD MANSFIELD II.

Physical Education Dance Class Held

Climaxing the dance unit of instruction in Physical education the sixth grade class of the Woodstock Elementary School played host to the fourth and fifth graders at a very successful square dance in the school gymnasium on March 16, 1962.

Many parents who brought their children stayed the entire evening to view the array of dances learned by the youngsters.

Highlighting the evening was a "circle twist" and "limbo" with all participating.

Hygiene Class Set at School

French Capture

sentenced to death in absentia.

Jouhaud, 56, was a 1962 graduate of the St. Cyr Military Academy, France's West Point.

A short, stocky, taciturn man, he played a backstage role in the May 13, 1958, uprising in Algiers which brought Gen. de Gaulle back to power.

At that time Jouhaud was deputy to Gen. Salan, the French commander in Algeria. In July 1958, Jouhaud was moved out of Algeria and made air force chief of staff.

He retired in 1960 at his own request and slipped back into Algeria a few weeks before the generals' uprising last year.

In Oran, meanwhile, angry European settlers and French troops eyed each other warily over makeshift barricades in the heart of the city.

Troops in tanks and halftracks waited word from their commanders whether to clear the roadblocks in a frontal assault or to seal off the area as other French troops have done with the rebellious Bab el Oued district of Algiers.

Battle Until Midnight

Diehard settlers, spearheaded by commandos of the secret army, blocked off the center of Oran, Algeria's second city, and battled French forces until almost midnight Sunday.

Sunday's death toll throughout Algeria, resulting mostly from murderous attacks on Moslems by members of the secret army, was 20 with 68 wounded.

Although casualties were low, fighting was spectacular. Infuriated settlers from behind their barricades fought French military police with rifles, pistols and submachine guns.

The French air force sent two planes swooping low over the area in late afternoon to strafe it with bursts from heavy machine guns.

Tracer bullets lit up the sky as French troops moved in for a systematic search of European apartment buildings, seeking leaders of the secret army and a clandestine radio transmitter.

Belief grew that settlers in Oran and Algiers were taking matters in their own hands and attacking against the wishes of the secret army command. Secret army pamphlets pledged not to fire on the troops except in legitimate defense.

Warning Given

Christian Fouchet, new French high commissioner in Algeria, warned European settlers of Algeria that if they kept fighting to sabotage the cease-fire agreement between France and the Moslem rebels, they would be "the first and main victims."

In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle's government called home Maurice Dejean, its ambassador to Moscow, to show displeasure with the Soviet Union's formal recognition of the Algerian rebel provisional government. Under terms of the cease-fire, France remains sovereign in Algeria until independence is voted in a self-determination referendum.

All I have left is $20,000 in Series H. bonds and $50,000 from insurance. I would be grateful to you if you would tell me how to invest the insurance money for income. I will do so without fear since I fell that I can trust you."—E. P.

A) I am profoundly grateful for your trust and will do all in my power to assist you.

It is no easy task for someone in your position to tackle, without help, the investment of money. This is a very difficult period in which to invest safely for good income.

If you are truly alone—and have no heirs to consider—I think you should put $30,000 of your insurance money right back with the same company in a life annuity contract. This would pay you about $63.50 per thousand, or annual income of around $1,900, which is a far bigger return than you can get from any other thoroughly safe source. The reason is that in this type of policy your principal reverts to the insurance company after your death.

To provide yourself with some protection against rising living costs, I would invest the remaining $20,000 in equal amounts of General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Union Pacific, and Ludlow Corp. These would bring you in currently around $900 a year.

Combined with your return from the Series H bonds, your total income, if you follow my suggestions, should be around $3,600, which would enable you to live comfortably and without worry.

Q) "I was shocked to read in your column that Chesapeake & Ohio failed to cover its $4 dividend last year. Just what did they earn?"—P. K.

A) Chessy's earnings for 1961 came to $3.60 per common share.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Israel Prosecutor Lashes Out at Eichmann Appeal

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's state prosecutor mounted a slashing attack today on Adolf Eichmann's appeal against the death sentence.

Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner, who prosecuted the former Gestapo official convicted of complicity in the Nazi slaughter of the Jews, called arguments advanced by Eichmann's defense "only designs to delay the judgments and execution of sentence."

Spreading his arms, the prosecutor pleaded with the five justices of the Israeli Supreme Court to reject the defense claim that Israel had no right to try Eichmann.

"Adolf Eichmann did not persecute the Jews in Germany, Austria, Holland, France and so on as nationals of those countries," Hausner declared.

"He persecuted them as Jews and no other state has a right to try Eichmann superior to that of Israel."

Eichmann looked unmoved as he listened to Hausner rip into each defense plea for mitigation of his death sentence.

Hausner cited legal precedents for his contention that the kidnaping of Eichmann from Argentina in 1960 did not provide grounds for mitigation.

After the hearing concludes, probably late this week, the court will retire for perhaps a month to rule on the appeal.

Crime, Business,

could threaten the leaders' plans for an orderly closing.

The traditional adjournment session is a marathon meeting, running without a break from one day into the next. In the closing hours, exhausted lawmakers pass, often without debate or question, a flood of bills presented by the powerful Rules Committees, which are dominated by legislative leaders.

This common development has been a frequent cause of criticism of the Legislature, particularly last year, when the Legislature increased the pay of its members.

Legislative leaders apparently are counting on a more orderly adjournment this year to eliminate at least one of the complaints about the law-making process.

First night baseball game played was at Fort Wayne, Ind., on June 3, 1883.

Supreme Court Direct Memphis Segregation Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court directed today an immediate ban on racial segregation in a restaurant in the Memphis, Tenn., Municipal Airport building.

Lower federal courts were ordered to issue the ban.

The Supreme Court overturned a ruling by a special three-judge U.S. District Court in Memphis that said Tennessee state courts should interpret state laws, regulations and city ordnances involved in a segregation case before any federal court action is taken.

The Supreme Court's vote was 8-0. Justice Whittaker took no part.

The highest tribunal in an unsigned opinion said there was no reason for federal courts to put off action in the case, saying "on the merits, no issue remains to be resolved."

District Board Awards Contract For Bus Service

At the recent meeting of the New Paltz Central School Board, Frank Van Gonsic, owner of the Wallkill Valley Motor Service, was awarded a two-year contract for the bus transportation at an annual cost of $66,853.93. The contract provides that the school district will furnish the gasoline. The school has their own gas tanks and the average cost of the gasoline will be about 52.4 cents per mile. The contract was awarded Wallkill Valley Motor Service subject to the approval of the voters at the annual meeting held on May 1st.

The Board also approved the purchase of an A. B. Dick copying machine at a cost of $925. This machine can make transparencies from books and other printed material and can make metal plates for the offset press. The transparencies used on an overhead projector, which the school already has, will make it possible for the teacher to face the class instead of the blackboard, and can be used in a lighted classroom.

The board also approved an increase in salary for John Wyman, the high school principal.

A letter was read from the Chamber of Commerce suggesting the following activities to replace the Halloween football game which can not be held this year—A gokart race on the athletic field, a masquerade party in the gymnasium, or a football game between two semi-professional teams.

Three members of the school board whose terms expire this year are Joseph Foley, John Ashton Jr., and Mrs. John Jacobson. Election of new board members will be held on May 2nd and the board will ask the town's permission to use its voting machines. It will also ask the League of Women Voters to act as election inspectors.

The Board approved the calendar for the coming year which was presented by the Supervising Principal Frederick Dippel. The calendar calls for 186 days of school, with a late sppring vacation in April, so that it may coincide with other area schools that send students to the vocational school. The board instructed Dippel to contact Dr. George Bond of the Campus School, and Dr. William Hagerty and Dr. Robert Pyle of the State University, to work out the Spring vacation period so that they may coincide.

Dippel reported that he and Wyman and Thomas Benenati, guidance director, had met with the local clergy to ask their aid in helping to lower the school's drop-out rate. Although New Paltz's rate averages only about 12 per cent, against the state and national average of 24 per cent, the board feels that it would like to in some way, cut the drop-out rate to a smaller degree.

Several parents living on the North Elting Corners Road appeared before the board requesting that their children be picked up at their homes by the school bus as the traffic on this road makes it dangerous traveling for the children. The board policy is to transport children who have to walk more than a mile.These children have to travel seven-tenths of a mile, but the board agreed to investigate the situation and thought it possible to change the bus route to accomodate them.

Mrs. John Jacobson, board member, reported on the visits she and several language teachers had made to Washingtonville and Highland schools to study the language laboratories. The board has under consideration the installation of a language laboratory, and that if one of the rooms is remodeled for this purpose, the cost would be taken care of by about 50 per cent with federal aid.

Mr. Hamilton, business manager, reported that the payment of the payroll by data processing through the Board of Cooperative Services, is not saving the board the time and money that had been expected. However, he reported he will make a final report and a recommendation at a later date.

A discussion was held on the survey recently conducted by the Independent Citizens Committee on Education, and it was suggested that the board meet during the day some time soon to survey the land adjoining the school. The Site Committee was commissioned by the board president, Gerald DuBois to look for possible satisfactory sites to the north and south of the village.

John Wyman, high school principal, outlined the proposed schedule in preparation for the evaluation by the Middle States Association which is scheduled to take place in April 1963. He reported that the new curriculum guides will be prepared for each subject. Several committees organized to which he appointed members of the board and will also appoint members from the community.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

You find some interesting items in old newspapers. Have the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Feb. 6, 1925. No doubt, some old timers remember when sleighs and automobiles used to run over the Hudson River on the ice to take passengers to the trains on the Rhinebeck side. Morris Miller ran an auto taxi on the ice, and he told me once how his car fell through the ice.

The accident was described in part in the 1925, February local press when Burton Cline of West Union Street and a force of men were trying to raise the touring car of Morris Miller from the bottom of the Hudson River. It seems that on Wednesday night, the car was raised to the top with the aid of grappling hooks and a derrick, but Thursday the hooks gave way and down went the car to the bottom again, into some 39 feet of water. It seems Mr. Miller's car sank several weeks before that when he was conveying several passengers across the ice to Rhinecliff. While in the middle of the Hudson, the ice snapped and began to give way and those in the car leaped to safety. Maybe readers can remember more about this incident and other such cases. I would say, it took a brave man to drive a taxi back and forth across the Hudson River even on thick ice.

There are some other interesting items in this 1925 semi-weekly Freeman. Although the bridge was finished in 1921, there was a trial going on, on the payment for the land taken for the approaches of the bridge. There is mention of an award of $12,750 for land needed for the Esopus approach of the bridge, and $58,000 damage to other property, and for Skillyput.

In the Feb. 6, 1925 issue, the death of Jennie R. wife of Myron Teller, is recorded. She died at her home at 203 Fair Street after a brief illness. Mrs. Teller was a daughter of the late William F. Romer, who with the late Jacob H. Tremper founded the Romer and Tremper Steamboat Co. with passenger and freight boats plying between Rondout and New York, and between Newburgh and Albany, which business they conducted for many years.

Besides her husband, who was the senior member of the firm of Teller and Tappen, dealing in lumber and coal, she was survived by a son, W. Romer Teller, who was in business in Boise, Idaho. Two daughters survived, Mrs. Charles B. Ibbotson of Utica, and Mrs. Charles D. Bruyn, of Englewood, N. J. These were the days, when Elmer Palen was advertising that he had 25 head of "good second hand horses," also some household furniture, at his Tuesday sale, which then started at one o'clock sharp. He had private sales every day at 606 Broadway. It was not only a sale, but a show, once or twice in later years I walked over to watch, as they trotted the horses around and sold other merchandise.

Rose - Gorman - Rose was known then as "Kingston's leading store" and had a two page advertisement. They were in their building where the Montgomery Ward store is today on North Front Street. Cane chairs in 1925 were selling for $3.45. Carpet sweepers were $2.39. Ruffled curtains were $1. a pair. Windsor chairs and rockers, mahogany finish could be had for $5.98 and rocker with arms for $9.98. Bamboo book racks were $2.95. They had a club plan for those who bought sets of furniture. Those were the days of tea carts which could be had for $15.75

Frank S. Meyer, an editor of the "Naational Review" and author of many articles and books, will speak on Communism at the next meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club Thursday, April 5 at 8 p. m. in Deanie's upstairs dining room.

Meyer, whose book, The Moulding of Communists, has received wide critical acclaim, will speak on "The Reality of Communism: The Illusion of Coexistence." He maintains that Communism is a movement that has the single objective of the conquest of the world. He will analyze its strategy and tactics over the years and today. He believes that only counter-attack all down the line can preserve our freedom and independence.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has said of Meyer that he, "Adds a needed source of information to the American people who are anxious to know more about the treachery of Communism."

Meyer was born in New Jersey in 1909. He is an alumnus of Princeton University and Balliol College, Oxford. He has also done graduate work at the University of London and the University of Chicago. He served in the army during World War II. He has been a resident of Woodstock for the past 16 years.

Woodstock Republican Club invites all residents of the community to attend this meeting. Robert Nelson, president of the club, says, "This is an unusual opportunity for everyone to learn at first hand from an expert and serious student of Communism about the menace of Marxism-Leninism and what each of us, as individuals, can do to fight it."

Louis Leitermann Jr., quartermaster second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leitermann Sr. of Malden-on-Hudson, is serving aboard the fleet oiler USS Chikaskia, operating as a unit of our Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean area.

IQ What's your child's physical IQ?

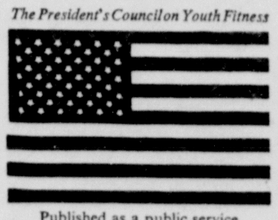

Chances are it doesn't measure up. The fact is that almost half of our youngsters today lack the strength and agility to pass a simple physical achievement test.

The remedy? More emphasis on vigorous physical activity. At least 15 minutes of every daily physical education period devoted to vigorous body-building exercise.

What to do? At your next PTA meeting, urge the adoption of a program that will give all youngsters a chance to develop their bodies.

It could be the program of The President's Council on Youth Fitness—or a similar one—easy to administer at little cost to your school. Act!

Frank S. Meyer, an editor of the "Naational Review" and author of many articles and books, will speak on Communism at the next meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club Thursday, April 5 at 8 p. m. in Deanie's upstairs dining room.

Meyer, whose book, The Moulding of Communists, has received wide critical acclaim, will speak on "The Reality of Communism: The Illusion of Coexistence." He maintains that Communism is a movement that has the single objective of the conquest of the world. He will analyze its strategy and tactics over the years and today. He believes that only counter-attack all down the line can preserve our freedom and independence.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has said of Meyer that he, "Adds a needed source of information to the American people who are anxious to know more about the treachery of Communism."

Meyer was born in New Jersey in 1909. He is an alumnus of Princeton University and Balliol College, Oxford. He has also done graduate work at the University of London and the University of Chicago. He served in the army during World War II. He has been a resident of Woodstock for the past 16 years.

Woodstock Republican Club invites all residents of the community to attend this meeting. Robert Nelson, president of the club, says, "This is an unusual opportunity for everyone to learn at first hand from an expert and serious student of Communism about the menace of Marxism-Leninism and what each of us, as individuals, can do to fight it."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

You find some interesting items in old newspapers. Have the Kingston Freeman and Journal of Friday, Feb. 6, 1925. No doubt, some old timers remember when sleighs and automobiles used to run over the Hudson River on the ice to take passengers to the trains on the Rhinebeck side. Morris Miller ran an auto taxi on the ice, and he told me once how his car fell through the ice.

The accident was described in part in the 1925, February local press when Burton Cline of West Union Street and a force of men were trying to raise the touring car of Morris Miller from the bottom of the Hudson River. It seems that on Wednesday night, the car was raised to the top with the aid of grappling hooks and a derrick, but Thursday the hooks gave way and down went the car to the bottom again, into some 39 feet of water. It seems Mr. Miller's car sank several weeks before that when he was conveying several passengers across the ice to Rhinecliff. While in the middle of the Hudson, the ice snapped and began to give way and those in the car leaped to safety. Maybe readers can remember more about this incident and other such cases. I would say, it took a brave man to drive a taxi back and forth across the Hudson River even on thick ice.

There are some other interesting items in this 1925 semi-weekly Freeman. Although the bridge was finished in 1921, there was a trial going on, on the payment for the land taken for the approaches of the bridge. There is mention of an award of $12,750 for land needed for the Esopus approach of the bridge, and $58,000 damage to other property, and for Skillyput.

In the Feb. 6, 1925 issue, the death of Jennie R. wife of Myron Teller, is recorded. She died at her home at 203 Fair Street after a brief illness. Mrs. Teller was a daughter of the late William F. Romer, who with the late Jacob H. Tremper founded the Romer and Tremper Steamboat Co. with passenger and freight boats plying between Rondout and New York, and between Newburgh and Albany, which business they conducted for many years.

Besides her husband, who was the senior member of the firm of Teller and Tappen, dealing in lumber and coal, she was survived by a son, W. Romer Teller, who was in business in Boise, Idaho. Two daughters survived, Mrs. Charles B. Ibbotson of Utica, and Mrs. Charles D. Bruyn, of Englewood, N. J. These were the days, when Elmer Palen was advertising that he had 25 head of "good second hand horses," also some household furniture, at his Tuesday sale, which then started at one o'clock sharp. He had private sales every day at 606 Broadway. It was not only a sale, but a show, once or twice in later years I walked over to watch, as they trotted the horses around and sold other merchandise.

Rose - Gorman - Rose was known then as "Kingston's leading store" and had a two page advertisement. They were in their building where the Montgomery Ward store is today on North Front Street. Cane chairs in 1925 were selling for $3.45. Carpet sweepers were $2.39. Ruffled curtains were $1. a pair. Windsor chairs and rockers, mahogany finish could be had for $5.98 and rocker with arms for $9.98. Bamboo book racks were $2.95. They had a club plan for those who bought sets of furniture. Those were the days of tea carts which could be had for $15.75

IQ

What's your child's physical IQ?

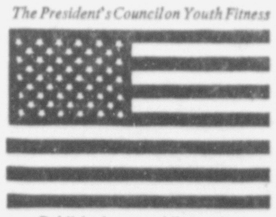

Chances are it doesn't measure up. The fact is that almost half of our youngsters today lack the strength and agility to pass a simple physical achievement test.

The remedy? More emphasis on vigorous physical activity. At least 15 minutes of every daily physical education period devoted to vigorous body-building exercise.

What to do? At your next PTA meeting, urge the adoption of a program that will give all youngsters a chance to develop their bodies.

It could be the program of The President's Council on Youth Fitness—or a similar one—easy to administer at little cost to your school. Act!

U.S., Russia Are Expected To Resume Nuclear Testing

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a certain social benefit in nuclear testing. It enables people to get together afterward with fresh conversation about not testing.

These talks, technical as they may be, are never dull, even though they last for years, for everyone knows they will be interrupted by more testing which then provides more talk about not testing.

This is what just happened at Geneva where the United States, Britain, Russia and 14 other nations got together March 14 to discuss a ban on nuclear tests.

Test Talks Fail

Probably very few people, except those who have no appreciation for conversation for its own sake, thought this Geneva discussion would wind up differently from any of those which preceded it.

This one didn't.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the other 16 foreign ministers are about ready to head for home 12 days after the opening of the Geneva session.

The United States is expected to resume tests next month, as President Kennedy said it would unless Geneva produced results.

The Russians, judging by the way they behaved at Geneva, will probably resume tests, too. In fact, Rusk suggested that's what they must have in mind in refusing to do business at all.

Expect Excitement

They had previously agreed to the principle of international inspection, to prevent cheating if there ever was an agreement, but they switched at Geneva and wanted no part of it.

If the two big powers now resume tests, it should provide excitement, even in the remote regions, and make a post-testing summit meeting in May between Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev seem more appropriate than it might otherwise be.

There have been enough meetings now of all kinds to persuade the non-gamblers not to risk a bet on the outcome of a summit, either, since the long-established odds are against them.

Khrush Eyes Summit

But Khrushchev, an entertaining conversationalist, has his heart set on a summit.

Nevertheless, this has been a challenging century for those who find it a great consolation to believe that man, through his many discussions about it, has shown an increasing consciousness of the need to disarm and eliminate war.

If the discussions did not result in war's elimination, this can be attributed to such hidden and chilly factors as true motives and intentions, which unfortunately do not usually appear in conversation.

The Hague peace conferences of 1899 and 1907 were followed by World War I. The League of Nations' world disarmament conference of 1932 and the talks of naval disarmament by the maritime powers after World War I were followed by World War II.

But the multitude of discusions since then on disarmament of all kinds has dwarfed the combined conversations of all our ancestors on this subject.

There has been no World War III yet. It is even possible—if not in 1962 then sometime—the nations will actually talk themselves out of a new conflict.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "White Paper" Sunday night was a current events show in search of a point of view.

It started with some interesting, if overlong, pictures inside a missile base in the West. Then it described the effect of a missile plant in a community. Then it moved along to the effect of a shutdown of a defense plant in a community.

Finally the program showed some of our modern weapons in action and wound up with statements by a lot of people, mostly Washington officials, about the defense effort.

Obviously, it was trying to cover too much ground. The result was a dull, rambling report, shedding no new light on an important subject.

When Johnny Carson comes marching over to NBC in October to take over the "Tonight" show, just about the only reminder of Jack Paar will be the program's time spot.

Departing with Jack next week will be his old buddy, Jose Melis, who presumably will do the musical chores on Jack's weekly variety hour next fall. During the summer interim of guest hosts—and probably after that, too—the music will be provided by Skitch Henderson and a group of musicians. When the program originates from Hollywood, as it will for a month, Woody Herman and his orchestra will be heard.

Paar's current producer, Paul Orr, also leaves with the king of the stay-up-late crowd, to be replaced by Perry Cross. He was the original producer of the Paar show, but left when he and Paar failed to see eye to eye.

Although Hugh Downs will remain during the summer, it is expected that he, too, will be among the missing when the permanent replacement, Carson, comes on.

Jacqueline Ends Pakistan Visit; Leaves for Home

By EUGENE LEVIN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—America's First Lady—a queen to millions of Indians and Pakistanis—today headed home from what she called "the most magic two weeks in my life."

Carrying memories of elephants and horses, maharajas and tribal chieftains, Jacqueline Kennedy ended her first Asian tour and said she hoped to come back again soon.

"It is terribly sad to be leaving today," she said as she boarded a Pakistani jet airliner for London.

En route to London, Mrs. Kennedy's plane made an hour's stop at Tehran, Iran, where she was greeted by Princess Fatima, the shah's sister, Premier Ali Amini and U.S. Ambassador Julius Holmes.

Mrs. Kennedy will spend three days in the British capital at the home of her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and will lunch on Wednesday at Buckingham palace with Queen Elizabeth II.

Behind her was a weekend in Rome and an audience with Pope John XXIII, and 14 days in India and Pakistan packed with elephants, camels, pandas, snakes, horses, band concerts, fashion shows, hospital tours and exotic foods.

Annually, about 200,000 U. S. Army personnel come back from overseas and are replaced by 200,000 others.

Senator Spurns D.A.'s Proposal To Examine Book

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—"I am not an expert on dirty books," a state senator exploded when a district attorney sent him a copy of the controversial novel, "Tropic of Cancer."

Sen. Lawrence M. Rulison said he intended to throw the book away without reading it.

Delivered with the book was a letter from Asst. Onondaga County Dist. Atty. J. Richard Sardino, which said in part:

"Enclosed herewith you will find a copy of the novel "Tropic of Cancer' for your inspection. Please be advised you will be called as an expert witness for the people. . ."

Trials on Thursday

Three bookstore employes were arrested in Syracuse earlier this month for selling the novel. Their trials on charges of selling obscene literature are set for Thursday.

Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan commented that he found it "a little difficult to understand the righteous indignation of Sen. Rulison when asked to perform a simple duty in conformance with his legislative office."

Rulison is not a member of the joint legislative committee on obscene literature, but Ryan said Rulison last fall took an active part in a hearing in Syracuse on obscene literature.

Rulison said the wrapped, paperback copy of the book was handed to his wife Saturday by a uniformed patrolman, who asked her to sign for it.

Charges Politics

Rulison, father of eight, said: "I try my best to keep these books out of my house and the district attorney is sending them in.

"This is a cheap, lowdown political trick for Sardino to send this book to my house for my wife and children to see."

Ryan said he had discussed with Police Chief Harold F. Kelly using Rulison as an expert witness and added:

"I assumed Chief Kelly followed through. . .and so I had the book sent to Rulison.

"I expected Sen. Rulison had already read the book and formed an opinion on it."

The district's attorney's office declined to say whether copies of the novel had been sent to other persons.

The novel, by Henry Miller, was first published in France. Barred from the United States for many years, it was published for the first time in this country last summer.

$63 Million Is Paid to 60,000 For Medical Care

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A total of $63 million was paid to nearly 60,000 elderly residents of New York State last year under a new program of medical care for the aged.

The state's outlay was 54 per cent of all the funds spent for the purpose in the nation during the period.

Gov. Rockefeller reported on New York State developments and announced he had signed a bill Saturday adding eyeglasses, dentures, and some other services to the program.

The 1961 Legislature approved participation by the state. The federal government pays half the cost and the state and local governments share the balance.

Eligible are persons 65 and over who cannot afford their medical services but are self-supporting otherwise.

The new services available are those of dentists, optometrists, and podiatrists. Also provided are rehabilitative, laboratory and X-Ray service.

Benefits that have been available are hospital, physician, nursing - home and nursing - clinic services and drugs and sick room supplies.

U.S., Russia Are Expected To Resume Nuclear Testing

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a certain social benefit in nuclear testing. It enables people to get together afterward with fresh conversation about not testing.

These talks, technical as they may be, are never dull, even though they last for years, for everyone knows they will be interrupted by more testing which then provides more talk about not testing.

This is what just happened at Geneva where the United States, Britain, Russia and 14 other nations got together March 14 to discuss a ban on nuclear tests.

Test Talks Fail

Probably very few people, except those who have no appreciation for conversation for its own sake, thought this Geneva discussion would wind up differently from any of those which preceded it.

This one didn't.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the other 16 foreign ministers are about ready to head for home 12 days after the opening of the Geneva session.

The United States is expected to resume tests next month, as President Kennedy said it would unless Geneva produced results.

The Russians, judging by the way they behaved at Geneva, will probably resume tests, too. In fact, Rusk suggested that's what they must have in mind in refusing to do business at all.

Expect Excitement

They had previously agreed to the principle of international inspection, to prevent cheating if there ever was an agreement, but they switched at Geneva and wanted no part of it.

If the two big powers now resume tests, it should provide excitement, even in the remote regions, and make a post-testing summit meeting in May between Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev seem more appropriate than it might otherwise be.

There have been enough meetings now of all kinds to persuade the non-gamblers not to risk a bet on the outcome of a summit, either, since the long-established odds are against them.

Khrush Eyes Summit

But Khrushchev, an entertaining conversationalist, has his heart set on a summit.

Nevertheless, this has been a challenging century for those who find it a great consolation to believe that man, through his many discussions about it, has shown an increasing consciousness of the need to disarm and eliminate war.

If the discussions did not result in war's elimination, this can be attributed to such hidden and chilly factors as true motives and intentions, which unfortunately do not usually appear in conversation.

The Hague peace conferences of 1899 and 1907 were followed by World War I. The League of Nations' world disarmament conference of 1932 and the talks of naval disarmament by the maritime powers after World War I were followed by World War II.

But the multitude of discusions since then on disarmament of all kinds has dwarfed the combined conversations of all our ancestors on this subject.

There has been no World War III yet. It is even possible—if not in 1962 then sometime—the nations will actually talk themselves out of a new conflict.

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "White Paper" Sunday night was a current events show in search of a point of view.

It started with some interesting, if overlong, pictures inside a missile base in the West. Then it described the effect of a missile plant in a community. Then it moved along to the effect of a shutdown of a defense plant in a community.

Finally the program showed some of our modern weapons in action and wound up with statements by a lot of people, mostly Washington officials, about the defense effort.

Obviously, it was trying to cover too much ground. The result was a dull, rambling report, shedding no new light on an important subject.

When Johnny Carson comes marching over to NBC in October to take over the "Tonight" show, just about the only reminder of Jack Paar will be the program's time spot.

Departing with Jack next week will be his old buddy, Jose Melis, who presumably will do the musical chores on Jack's weekly variety hour next fall. During the summer interim of guest hosts—and probably after that, too—the music will be provided by Skitch Henderson and a group of musicians. When the program originates from Hollywood, as it will for a month, Woody Herman and his orchestra will be heard.

Paar's current producer, Paul Orr, also leaves with the king of the stay-up-late crowd, to be replaced by Perry Cross. He was the original producer of the Paar show, but left when he and Paar failed to see eye to eye.

Although Hugh Downs will remain during the summer, it is expected that he, too, will be among the missing when the permanent replacement, Carson, comes on.

Jacqueline Ends Pakistan Visit; Leaves for Home

By EUGENE LEVIN

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—America's First Lady—a queen to millions of Indians and Pakistanis—today headed home from what she called "the most magic two weeks in my life."

Carrying memories of elephants and horses, maharajas and tribal chieftains, Jacqueline Kennedy ended her first Asian tour and said she hoped to come back again soon.

"It is terribly sad to be leaving today," she said as she boarded a Pakistani jet airliner for London.

En route to London, Mrs. Kennedy's plane made an hour's stop at Tehran, Iran, where she was greeted by Princess Fatima, the shah's sister, Premier Ali Amini and U.S. Ambassador Julius Holmes.

Mrs. Kennedy will spend three days in the British capital at the home of her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, and will lunch on Wednesday at Buckingham palace with Queen Elizabeth II.

Behind her was a weekend in Rome and an audience with Pope John XXIII, and 14 days in India and Pakistan packed with elephants, camels, pandas, snakes, horses, band concerts, fashion shows, hospital tours and exotic foods.

Annually, about 200,000 U. S. Army personnel come back from overseas and are replaced by 200,000 others.

Senator Spurns D.A.'s Proposal To Examine Book

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—"I am not an expert on dirty books," a state senator exploded when a district attorney sent him a copy of the controversial novel, "Tropic of Cancer."

Sen. Lawrence M. Rulison said he intended to throw the book away without reading it.

Delivered with the book was a letter from Asst. Onondaga County Dist. Atty. J. Richard Sardino, which said in part:

"Enclosed herewith you will find a copy of the novel "Tropic of Cancer" for your inspection. Please be advised you will be called as an expert witness for the people. . ."

Trials on Thursday

Three bookstore employes were arrested in Syracuse earlier this month for selling the novel. Their trials on charges of selling obscene literature are set for Thursday.

Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan commented that he found it "a little difficult to understand the righteous indignation of Sen. Rulison when asked to perform a simple duty in conformance with his legislative office."

Rulison is not a member of the joint legislative committee on obscene literature, but Ryan said Rulison last fall took an active part in a hearing in Syracuse on obscene literature.

Rulison said the wrapped, paperback copy of the book was handed to his wife Saturday by a uniformed patrolman, who asked her to sign for it.

Charges Politics

Rulison, father of eight, said: "I try my best to keep these books out of my house and the district attorney is sending them in.

"This is a cheap, lowdown political trick for Sardino to send this book to my house for my wife and children to see."

Ryan said he had discussed with Police Chief Harold F. Kelly using Rulison as an expert witness and added:

"I assumed Chief Kelly followed through. . .and so I had the book sent to Rulison.

"I expected Sen. Rulison had already read the book and formed an opinion on it."

The district's attorney's office declined to say whether copies of the novel had been sent to other persons.

The novel, by Henry Miller, was first published in France. Barred from the United States for many years, it was published for the first time in this country last summer.

$63 Million Is Paid to 60,000 For Medical Care

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A total of $63 million was paid to nearly 60,000 elderly residents of New York State last year under a new program of medical care for the aged.

The state's outlay was 54 per cent of all the funds spent for the purpose in the nation during the period.

Gov. Rockefeller reported on New York State developments and announced he had signed a bill Saturday adding eyeglasses, dentures, and some other services to the program.

The 1961 Legislature approved participation by the state. The federal government pays half the cost and the state and local governments share the balance.

Eligible are persons 65 and over who cannot afford their medical services but are self-supporting otherwise.

The new services available are those of dentists, optometrists, and podiatrists. Also provided are rehabilitative, laboratory and X-Ray service.

Benefits that have been available are hospital, physician, nursing - home and nursing - clinic services and drugs and sick room supplies.

Secret Army Failure Is Blow But Back Is Not Broken Yet

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS (AP)—The failure of the uprising in the Algiers suburb of Bab el Oued is a heavy blow to the European Secret Army Organization but it has not broken its back.

The right-wing underground — with its arms depots, accomplices in the French administration of the territory and its organization intact—continues a threat to the application of the cease-fire in Algeria.

After the street fighting ended in Bab el Oued and troops moved in to clean up the defiant suburb, it appeared that this was not the kind of uprising that the secret army's command wanted at this time. Tracts issued Sunday night in Algiers and Oran said as much in condemning fratricidal combat.

The creation of an isolated resistance point appeared contrary to all directives issued by the terrorist group in the past few months. All spoke of "progressive mobilization" that would lead to an eventual "generalized war of liberation."

The Bab el Oued rising most likely was launched as an action by hotheads swept up in the heady atmosphere of the explosive suburb. Informants say the instigator of the fighting was Dr. Jean-Claude Perez, a popular physician who has had personal quarrels with secret army leaders.

The secret army now has two courses of action:

1. Make an effort to survive the blow and continue underground resistance to block installation of the new provisional government for Algeria and the self-determination referendum.

2. Speed up the mobilization of its supporters and try to inflame Algeria's cities to all-out general resistance.

The next few days should show what decision has been taken by fugitive ex-Gen. Raoul Salan and his advisers.

The bloody street fighting in Bab el Oued destroyed the myth that French soldiers would not fire on Europeans shouting "Algeria is French!"

It shocked young draftees from France who saw 15 of their colleagues killed and 91 wounded in the fighting.

The battle and its aftermath also shook the belief of some European settlers in the usefulness of resistance. Yet the majority of settlers appear to cling stubbornly to the idea of fighting until the bitter end.

The settlers reject the promise of guarantees for their rights in an independent Algeria. No one pays any attention to speeches of French officials pleading for understanding and reason.

This lack of faith and this despair is the secret army's greatest ally.

Probe of Rutland Quitting Service Moves to Malone

MALONE, N.Y. (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission moved its investigation here today into efforts of the strike-bound Rutland Railway to abandon service on its 331-mile system in Vermont and New York.

Representatives of business, labor and government in Northern New York were called to testify. They contend abandonment of the line would be a serious blow to the area.

The Rutland has been idle since Sept. 25, when about 400 workers struck in a contract dispute.

Today's witnesses, all opponents of the railroad's abandonment plan, included Donald Foster, executive vice president of the St. Lawrence Valley Association of Chambers of Commerce; Joel M. Howard, representing the Ogdensburg Port Authority; Mayor Edward Keenan of Ogdensburg; Mayor Clifford LePlante of Champlain, and Donald Fisher of Toledo, Ohio, representing the Railway Labor Executives Association.

The hearing opened last week in Rutland, Vt.

Gov. F. Ray Keyser of Vermont said his state would not oppose abandonment of the troubled line by the present management, but he added the state would make efforts to restore at least partial service.

Sydney Rodgers, a consulting engineer testified that a survey indicated the Rutland Railway was "a very marginal operation." He said the most feasible solution for maintaining service would be to have other railroads provide service over some sections.

In New York State the line runs from Ogdensburg, through Malone to Lake Champlain.

New System Will Stop Ticket Fix

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — State Police Supt. Col. Joseph Rutter says a new system will be adopted aimed at preventing ticket-fixing by the State Police.

Rutter said Saturday night it would provide a two-way check for uncovering possible ticket changes. He outlined the plan as follows:

New summons books will be issued, with troopers being required to sign a receipt for the tickets. The number of the summonses and books will be recorded by division headquarters and state commanders.

When a ticket is issued, the trooper will file the violation on the record book in numerical fashion. Tickets, at present are not filed numerically.

Curtis Will Cut Issues to Lower Production Cost

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Saturday Evening Post, a weekly which has claimed unbroken descent from Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette of 1728, is being switched to 45 issues a year as part of multimillion-dollar cost reduction program by the Curtis Publishing Co.

To halt heavy losses the firm also announced Sunday night that the Ladies' Home Journal, born in 1883, and American Home are being switched from monthly magazines to 10 issues a year.

Will Boost Income

Robert E. MacNeal, Curtis president, said in a policy statement to personnel that the program would boost earnings and restore confidence sapped by "rumors which cast doubt upon the survival of the company, or its magazines, or both." Management has been under heavy fire recently from minority stockholders.

At the same time MacNeal announced that Robert E. Fuoss, who recently redesigned the Post and succeeded Ben Hibbs Jan. 1 as editor, has resigned "because of completely friendly but irreconcilable differences of opinion with management on matters of policy."

Robert Lee Sherrod, 53, the managing editor, replaces Fuoss.

MacNeal said each of the firm's five national magazines, including Holiday and Jack and Jill, henceforth "must pay its own way to justify continuance."

The Post now will be issued five times during a 10-week period in August and July. There will be one issue for the last two weeks in December and one issue for the first two weeks in January.

The Journal and American Home will combine January and February in a winter issue and July and August in a summer issue.

There will be no changes in subscription prices for the magazines. A spokesman said current subscribers would get all the issues they have paid for.

N. J. Roadblocks Slow Youths Who Seek N. Y. Drinks

WEST MILFORD, N.J. (AP)—At least 2,400 cars were halted by police patrols and roadblocks in northern New Jersey near the New York State line during the weekend in a drive against teenagers who cross the border to drink in New York.

Ramapo Township police reported 20 youthful drivers were cited for a variety of violations, including at least one for drunken driving.

Police said, however, the roadblocks appeared to have cut down the flow of weekend traffic to New York, where 18-year-olds may buy alcoholic beverage legally. The minimum legal age for New Jersey drinkers is 21.

A car carrying four teen-agers overturned Saturday night on Route 23 near here and injured two 16-year-old passengers. Police said a case of beer in the car had been purchased in Greenwood Lake, N.Y.

Investigators Say Money on Paper Not Used for Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigators for the House Foreign Affairs Committee say they have uncovered millions of dollars in U.S. foreign aid funds which have been obligated on paper but never spent.

A report released Sunday by the committee said that in Korea alone investigators had uncovered $17 million in uncommitted funds. Based on spot checks in Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey, the investigators said, it is possible that there are "substantial hidden reserves available in all countries" receiving American aid.

Officials of the Agency for International Development, which handles U.S. foreign aid, had no comment on the report.

Curtis Will Cut Issues to Lower Production Cost

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Saturday Evening Post, a weekly which has claimed unbroken descent from Benjamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette of 1728, is being switched to 45 issues a year as part of multimillion-dollar cost reduction program by the Curtis Publishing Co.

To halt heavy losses the firm also announced Sunday night that the Ladies' Home Journal, born in 1883, and American Home are being switched from monthly magazines to 10 issues a year.

Will Boost Income

Robert E. MacNeal, Curtis president, said in a policy statement to personnel that the program would boost earnings and restore confidence sapped by "rumors which cast doubt upon the survival of the company, or its magazines, or both." Management has been under heavy fire recently from minority stockholders.

At the same time MacNeal announced that Robert E. Fuoss, who recently redesigned the Post and succeeded Ben Hibbs Jan. 1 as editor, has resigned "because of completely friendly but irreconcilable differences of opinion with management on matters of policy."

Robert Lee Sherrod, 53, the managing editor, replaces Fuoss.

MacNeal said each of the firm's five national magazines, including Holiday and Jack and Jill, henceforth "must pay its own way to justify continuance."

The Post now will be issued five times during a 10-week period in August and July. There will be one issue for the last two weeks in December and one issue for the first two weeks in January.

The Journal and American Home will combine January and February in a winter issue and July and August in a summer issue.

There will be no changes in subscription prices for the magazines. A spokesman said current subscribers would get all the issues they have paid for.

Assets Increase

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The University of Rochester lists a record assets of $184,219,044, according to a treasurer's report covering the 1960-61 fiscal year.

N. J. Roadblocks Slow Youths Who Seek N. Y. Drinks

WEST MILFORD, N.J. (AP)—At least 2,400 cars were halted by police patrols and roadblocks in northern New Jersey near the New York State line during the weekend in a drive against teenagers who cross the border to drink in New York.

Ramapo Township police reported 20 youthful drivers were cited for a variety of violations, including at least one for drunken driving.

Police said, however, the roadblocks appeared to have cut down the flow of weekend traffic to New York, where 18-year-olds may buy alcoholic beverage legally. The minimum legal age for New Jersey drinkers is 21.

A car carrying four teen-agers overturned Saturday night on Route 23 near here and injured two 16-year-old passengers. Police said a case of beer in the car had been purchased in Greenwood Lake, N.Y.

Investigators Say Money on Paper Not Used for Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigators for the House Foreign Affairs Committee say they have uncovered millions of dollars in U.S. foreign aid funds which have been obligated on paper but never spent.

A report released Sunday by the committee said that in Korea alone investigators had uncovered $17 million in uncommitted funds. Based on spot checks in Korea, South Viet Nam and Turkey, the investigators said, it is possible that there are "substantial hidden reserves available in all countries" receiving American aid.

Officials of the Agency for International Development, which handles U.S. foreign aid, had no comment on the report.

Women and Rheumatoid Arthritis

Although arthritis has plagued human beings since the beginning of history, it still has no known cause and no known cure according to information received from the Women's Health Information Service of New York.

Its worst form, rheumatoid arthritis, attacks three women for every man who gets it. Women in the prime of life in the age range from 20 to 45 are its chief victims, although persons of any age have been known to get it, including infants.

Just why women are the main targets for the disease is not yet understood by medical science. Researchers do know that rheumatoid arthritis is a general disorder of the entire body metabolism and not just an inflammation of the joints where it shows itself. Since the female body undergoes far more natural metabolic changes than the male it appears that these changes make a woman more susceptible to the disease. This clue has opened the door a little wider for medical science to explore and led to the development of cortisone and the related hormones to relieve arthritic pain and swelling.

Arthritis has earned for itself the dubious distinction of being the nation's number one crippler. One member of every five families, more than 12 million Americans are its victims.

While rheumatoid arthritis is not usually fatal itself, it weakens the body and makes it susceptible to other diseases. As wage earners, arthritics lose a staggering total of 115 million work days a year.

The process of learning about arthritis was accelerated rapidly when the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation was launched in 1948. More has been learned about arthritis in the last 10 years than was discovered in the last 10 centuries put together.

A part of the Foundation's educational program is a list of the early symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis. With an early diagnosis, treatment prescribed by your doctor prevents the severely crippling effects in 70% of the cases.

If certain danger signals appear, lose no time in getting to your doctor or to a clinic. Here are the warning "red lights":

1. Persistent pain and stiffness when you get up in the morning.
2. Pain or tenderness in at least one joint.
3. Swelling in at least one joint.
4. Recurrence of these symptoms.

Are there any measures women can take to lessen their chances of getting rheumatoid arthritis? Basically, the way to lessen your chance is the same as the pathway to all general good health and well being.

Although there's no way of avoiding rheumatoid arthritis, the Foundation recommends housewives and mothers apply the "preventive medicine" of sufficient rest and relaxation. Here are some hints:

1. Don't be such a perfectionist; it won't hurt to relax your housekeeping standards a bit.
2. Do your major household cleaning chores on the installment plan, and rest a day between such strenuous activities as waxing floors or cleaning windows or washing down walls.
3. Take it easier with the children, be more relaxed with them and don't feel you will only be considered a good sport if you join in a game of touch football with them.
4. Keep rested, relaxed and well nourished, but not overweight.
5. Whenever possible get sunshine and protect yourself against cold and dampness.
6. Keep in the right frame of mind. Avoid strain, fatigue and worry. In other words, don't take yourself too seriously.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Try Burlap for Unique, Smart Decorative Touch

Burlap is a good buy these days and a good bet for smart decorative effects. Burlap long ago ceased to be just something used for bags. This durable, rough-textured fabric is available in a rainbow assortment of colors as well as some stripes. And its homespunlike quality is amiable to both traditional and contemporary surroundings.

Applied to the walls like wallpaper, it camouflages plaster cracks and "loses" nail holes when pictures are moved from place to place. For a different look, use straight hanging, floor-length curtains made of burlap in the same color as that which covers the walls. Deep-knotted cotton fringe or fringed ends of the fabric will add a decorative finish. Also, consider its possibilities for tailored lamp shades. (Burlap looks very well with wood, copper, brass or pewter bases). It can also be used to cover panel screens.

Dear Polly: Please help me decide what kind of slip covers to get for my couch and two chairs. Living room is painted turquoise with white woodwork. Curtains are white with a turquoise, blue, black and gold design. Would it be best to have slip covers custom made?
—Mrs. P. A. C.

Dear Mrs. P. A. C.: Indeed, it would be wise to have your new slip covers made to fit those particular pieces. The sofa could be a plain gold and the two chairs covered with narrow blue, black and white stripes.

Dear Polly: We have an older house with white woodwork throughout. Our living room has a red wire cut brick fireplace. The question is: would oak wood paneling on the wall go with white woodwork and the brick fireplace?—Mrs. S. M.

Dear Mrs. S. M.: Natural oak paneling with white woodwork would look just like what it would be.—.an. after-thought. White painted wood paneling would be much prettier with both the woodwork and the red fireplace.

Dear Polly: I live in a fairly large colonial house. My dining room set and most of the living room furniture are mahogany. I love French Provincial and am about to buy a piano that comes only in fruitwood cherry in that style. Would it be correct to put this color piano with my other furniture?—R. M. S.

Dear R. M. S.: Yes, it's quite correct to combine different woods in the same room. Everything matching can be very dull and unimaginative looking. The mahogany and cherry should look very well together, particularly if they lean toward the brown tones.

George Washington School

At a meeting of the George Washington School P-TA held in the music room last week, Dr. A. Monem El-Meligi, associate professor of psychology at State University College, New Paltz, spoke on "Characteristics of Children in the First Years of Their School Days." Dr. Meligi, a native of Egypt, received his Doctorate of Philosophy degree at London University. In his speech, he compared children of his country with those in America.

Dr. El-Meligi also explained the role of a psychologist, the various stages of development in a pre-school child, the youngster in school and factors which figure in formal learning. He also said it was an injustice to have all children conform to the same standards or molds.

Refreshments were later served in the school cafeteria by Mrs. William Darling, Mrs. Herbert Gade and Mrs. Thomas Maines.

The next meeting of the George Washington School P-TA will be held on May 22. A program of children's music and art is scheduled. Election of officers will also be held.

Women and Rheumatoid Arthritis

Although arthritis has plagued human beings since the beginning of history, it still has no known cause and no known cure according to information received from the Women's Health Information Service of New York.

Its worst form, rheumatoid arthritis, attacks three women for every man who gets it. Women in the prime of life in the age range from 20 to 45 are its chief victims, although persons of any age have been known to get it, including infants.

Just why women are the main targets for the disease is not yet understood by medical science. Researchers do know that rheumatoid arthritis is a general disorder of the entire body metabolism and not just an inflammation of the joints where it shows itself. Since the female body undergoes far more natural metabolic changes than the male it appears that these changes make a woman more susceptible to the disease. This clue has opened the door a little wider for medical science to explore and led to the development of cortisone and the related hormones to relieve arthritic pain and swelling.

Arthritis has earned for itself the dubious distinction of being the nation's number one crippler. One member of every five families, more than 12 million Americans are its victims.

While rheumatoid arthritis is not usually fatal itself, it weakens the body and makes it susceptible to other diseases. As wage earners, arthritics lose a staggering total of 115 million work days a year.

The process of learning about arthritis was accelerated rapidly when the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation was launched in 1948. More has been learned about arthritis in the last 10 years than was discovered in the last 10 centuries put together.

A part of the Foundation's educational program is a list of the early symptoms of rheumatoid arthritis. With an early diagnosis, treatment prescribed by your doctor prevents the severely crippling effects in 70% of the cases.

If certain danger signals appear, lose no time in getting to your doctor or to a clinic. Here are the warning "red lights":

1. Persistent pain and stiffness when you get up in the morning.
2. Pain or tenderness in at least one joint.
3. Swelling in at least one joint.
4. Recurrence of these symptoms.

Are there any measures women can take to lessen their chances of getting rheumatoid arthritis? Basically, the way to lessen your chance is the same as the pathway to all general good health and well being.

Although there's no way of avoiding rheumatoid arthritis, the Foundation recommends housewives and mothers apply the "preventive medicine" of sufficient rest and relaxation. Here are some hints:

1. Don't be such a perfectionist; it won't hurt to relax your housekeeping standards a bit.
2. Do your major household cleaning chores on the installment plan, and rest a day between such strenuous activities as waxing floors or cleaning windows or washing down walls.
3. Take it easier with the children, be more relaxed with them and don't feel you will only be considered a good sport if you join in a game of touch football with them.
4. Keep rested, relaxed and well nourished, but not overweight.
5. Whenever possible get sunshine and protect yourself against cold and dampness.
6. Keep in the right frame of mind. Avoid strain, fatigue and worry. In other words, don't take yourself too seriously.

POLLY'S QUIZ

Try Burlap for Unique, Smart Decorative Touch

Burlap is a good buy these days and a good bet for smart decorative effects. Burlap long ago ceased to be just something used for bags. This durable, rough-textured fabric is available in a rainbow assortment of colors as well as some stripes. And its homespunlike quality is amiable to both traditional and contemporary surroundings.

Applied to the walls like wallpaper, it camouflages plaster cracks and "loses" nail holes when pictures are moved from place to place. For a different look, use straight hanging, floor-length curtains made of burlap in the same color as that which covers the walls. Deep-knotted cotton fringe or fringed ends of the fabric will add a decorative finish. Also, consider its possibilities for tailored lamp shades. (Burlap looks very well with wood, copper, brass or pewter bases). It can also be used to cover panel screens.

Dear Polly: Please help me decide what kind of slip covers to get for my couch and two chairs. Living room is painted turquoise with white woodwork. Curtains are white with a turquoise, blue, black and gold design. Would it be best to have slip covers custom made?
—Mrs. P. A. C.

Dear Mrs. P. A. C.: Indeed, it would be wise to have your new slip covers made to fit those particular pieces. The sofa could be a plain gold and the two chairs covered with narrow blue, black and white stripes.

Dear Polly: We have an older house with white woodwork throughout. Our living room has a red wire cut brick fireplace. The question is: would oak wood paneling on the wall go with white woodwork and the brick fireplace?—Mrs. S. M.

Dear Mrs. S. M.: Natural oak paneling with white woodwork would look just like what it would be.—an after-thought. White painted wood paneling would be much prettier with both the woodwork and the red fireplace.

Dear Polly: I live in a fairly large colonial house. My dining room set and most of the living room furniture are mahogany. I love French Provincial and am about to buy a piano that comes only in fruitwood cherry in that style. Would it be correct to put this color piano with my other furniture?—R. M. S.

Dear R. M. S.: Yes, it's quite correct to combine different woods in the same room. Everything matching can be very dull and unimaginative looking. The mahogany and cherry should look very well together, particularly if they lean toward the brown tones.

George Washington School

At a meeting of the George Washington School P-TA held in the music room last week, Dr. A. Monem El-Meligi, associate professor of psychology at State University College, New Paltz, spoke on "Characteristics of Children in the First Years of Their School Days." Dr. Meligi, a native of Egypt, received his Doctorate of Philosophy degree at London University. In his speech, he compared children of his country with those in America.

Dr. El-Meligi also explained the role of a psychologist, the various stages of development in a pre-school child, the youngster in school and factors which figure in formal learning. He also said it was an injustice to have all children conform to the same standards or molds.

Refreshments were later served in the school cafeteria by Mrs. William Darling, Mrs. Herbert Gade and Mrs. Thomas Maines.

Health for All

The Bitter With the Sweet

Thirty-five children out of 36 recently poisoned by aspirin thought the aspirin was candy. During the same month, a magazine ad told about children "taste-testing" drugs. They were helping drug manufacturers decide whether to flavor medicine with custard or with chocolate mint.

Is it wrong to make medicine taste like candy?

No. There is nothing wrong with making medicine easy to take. And there is no question that sweet-tasting medicine is easier for a child to swallow.

What is wrong is permitting a child to think that medicine is candy.

Make sure your children don't. Teach them that those sweet pink pills are medicine and why they have to take them.

Calling medicine candy is not only dangerous. It is also a way of concealing the fact that life can be unpleasant. Don't prevent your child from learning how to take life's medicine—if necessary, without sugar coating.

One mother complained to her baby's doctor that she couldn't get her four-year-old to swallow a large pill. No matter how hard she coaxed. The doctor told her firmly that the child would either take his medicine or go to the hospital.

Mother tried again. This time, the pill went down.

What made the difference? Candy-coating? Not at all. The child had learned that his mother meant business. That this was something he had to swallow.

Children need to learn there is a time for medicine and a time for candy. Just as much as they need love and parents they can trust to tell them the truth.

The wise parent will try to judge when sugar coating is right and when it is wrong. That way he will be helping his child prepare for life. Helping him get ready to take the bitter with the sweet.

Health for All

The Bitter With the Sweet

Thirty-five children out of 36 recently poisoned by aspirin thought the aspirin was candy. During the same month, a magazine ad told about children "taste-testing" drugs. They were helping drug manufacturers decide whether to flavor medicine with custard or with chocolate mint.

Is it wrong to make medicine taste like candy?

No. There is nothing wrong with making medicine easy to take. And there is no question that sweet-tasting medicine is easier for a child to swallow.

What is wrong is permitting a child to think that medicine is candy.

Make sure your children don't. Teach them that those sweet pink pills are medicine and why they have to take them.

Calling medicine candy is not only dangerous. It is also a way of concealing the fact that life can be unpleasant. Don't prevent your child from learning how to take life's medicine—if necessary, without sugar coating.

One mother complained to her baby's doctor that she couldn't get her four-year-old to swallow a large pill. No matter how hard she coaxed. The doctor told her firmly that the child would either take his medicine or go to the hospital.

Mother tried again. This time, the pill went down.

What made the difference? Candy-coating? Not at all. The child had learned that his mother meant business. That this was something he had to swallow.

Children need to learn there is a time for medicine and a time for candy. Just as much as they need love and parents they can trust to tell them the truth.

The wise parent will try to judge when sugar coating is right and when it is wrong. That way he will be helping his child prepare for life. Helping him get ready to take the bitter with the sweet.

Kennedy Returns From West Coast

The President, accompanied by his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, alighted from the big jet and quickly boarded a helicopter for the short hop into Washington.

Sunday the President lounged under the desert sun at the Palm Springs ranch of singer Bing Crosby. Although the temperature was 85, Crosby's pool was heated several degrees higher before Kennedy went swimming in it.

The President attended services at Sacred Heart Church and heard the Rev. A. G. Edwards preach on the theme that no one can be neutral in the service of God.

VA Agency Will Modernize, Add To Data System

The Veterans Administration is about to enter the second generation of automation.

One of the first Federal agencies to shift to large-scale data processing, the VA will modernize the two-year-old computer operation in its insurance department with new high-speed equipment and a more efficient system.

John S. Gleason, Jr., administrator of Veterans Affairs, said the new plan would improve service to veterans and their beneficiaries. He said it would also lower the cost of administering the insurance program by $3 million a year in the near future.

"By keeping up to the minute in this rapidly developing field, we will produce net savings five years sooner than we would have by standing pat with our present ADP set up," he said.

Gleason aded that the move will have no impact on employment in the VA for about two years.

With almost $4 billion of insurance in force, the VA ranks as the third largest life insurance operation in the country. It administers more than six million policies for veterans of World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict.

Gleason approved the new system and equipment only after a careful evaluation of overall agency needs and a study of recent technological advances in automation, he said.

Index on Schools Is Now Available

ALBANY — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced publication of the latest edition of the "Index to the Public Schools in New York State."

The 64 page booklet indicates how the 1264 districts in the state can be located, and lists the names and addresses of the superintendents of schools. One section, containing an alphabetical listing of popular local names of school districts indicates their respective official designation. A supplement presents the annexations, centralizations and consolidations that have been reported between October 1, 1960 and October 1, 1961.

Comptroller Levitt states, "The index continues to reflect the progress of school district reorganization in our state. The total number of districts has been reduced by nearly ninety per cent, in a period of about three decades. On October 1, 1961, the total number of school districts was 23 less than the previous year."

Copies of the booklet are available upon request by writing to the Department of Audit and Control, Albany.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The new and functional office buildings springing up across the land have been increasingly the target for critical brickbats. But numbered among their champions are the cleaners.

Critics complain the new buildings are monotonously alike, often more functional than pleasing to the eye, and by their size and huddling together tend to multiply the evils of overcrowding in cities.

Among the champions understandably are the architects who say they are, too, beautiful. The interior designers say the new buildings offer the maximum in flexibility. Contractors say they are cheaper to build.

And the cleaners, whether on the building's own staff, or in the growing industry of contract janitorial services, praise them as much easier to clean and keep clean.

"You must clean more thoroughly because the lighting in the new buildings is better, the colors lighter and the layout functional in squares and rectangles," says William J. Frankel, president of National Cleaning Contractors Inc. "There's no gingerbread to get as dirty as in the old buildings, but now the dirt is out in plain sight."

Air conditioning has helped a lot in keeping out soot-laden air, the professional cleaners say. Some new buildings have windows that only the cleaners can open with special keys. In New York that's an item, since the city fathers say 68.4 tons of soot fell on each square mile last year.

Of more than two billion square feet of office space available in private and government buildings 55 per cent is now air conditioned, compared with 30 per cent in 1955, according to Russell Gray, president of Carrier Air Conditioning Company. He predicts $2 billion will be spent in the next five years for air conditioning of new and existing buildings and for replacements.

Frankel notes other aids to the janitorial chores: better cleaning materials, easily cleaned composition flooring, washable paint, and extensive use of tile, porcelain enamel, stainless steel or aluminum trim and scuff plates.

Other big, publicly owned janitorial companies include: American Building Maintenance Industries, with most of its contracts in the Far West and some in New York and Detroit, and Allied Maintenance Corporation, a big operator in New York, with contracts in many cities in the United States and Canada.

Helicopters are credited with nearly 10,000 evacuations and rescues of Allied troops during the Korean conflict.

VA Agency Will Modernize, Add To Data System

The Veterans Administration is about to enter the second generation of automation.

One of the first Federal agencies to shift to large-scale data processing, the VA will modernize the two-year-old computer operation in its insurance department with new high-speed equipment and a more efficient system.

John S. Gleason, Jr., administrator of Veterans Affairs, said the new plan would improve service to veterans and their beneficiaries. He said it would also lower the cost of administering the insurance program by $3 million a year in the near future.

"By keeping up to the minute in this rapidly developing field, we will produce net savings five years sooner than we would have by standing pat with our present ADP set up," he said.

Gleason aded that the move will have no impact on employment in the VA for about two years.

With almost $4 billion of insurance in force, the VA ranks as the third largest life insurance operation in the country. It administers more than six million policies for veterans of World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict.

Gleason approved the new system and equipment only after a careful evaluation of overall agency needs and a study of recent technological advances in automation, he said.

Index on Schools Is Now Available

ALBANY — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today announced publication of the latest edition of the "Index to the Public Schools in New York State."

The 64 page booklet indicates how the 1264 districts in the state can be located, and lists the names and addresses of the superintendents of schools. One section, containing an alphabetical listing of popular local names of school districts indicates their respective official designation. A supplement presents the annexations, centralizations and consolidations that have been reported between October 1, 1960 and October 1, 1961.

Comptroller Levitt states, "The index continues to reflect the progress of school district reorganization in our state. The total number of districts has been reduced by nearly ninety per cent, in a period of about three decades. On October 1, 1961, the total number of school districts was 23 less than the previous year."

Copies of the booklet are available upon request by writing to the Department of Audit and Control, Albany.

NEW YORK (AP) — The new and functional office buildings springing up across the land have been increasingly the target for critical brickbats. But numbered among their champions are the cleaners.

Critics complain the new buildings are monotonously alike, often more functional than pleasing to the eye, and by their size and huddling together tend to multiply the evils of overcrowding in cities.

Among the champions understandably are the architects who say they are, too, beautiful. The interior designers say the new buildings offer the maximum in flexibility. Contractors say they are cheaper to build.

And the cleaners, whether on the building's own staff, or in the growing industry of contract janitorial services, praise them as much easier to clean and keep clean.

"You must clean more thoroughly because the lighting in the new buildings is better, the colors lighter and the layout functional in squares and rectangles," says William J. Frankel, president of National Cleaning Contractors Inc. "There's no gingerbread to get as dirty as in the old buildings, but now the dirt is out in plain sight."

Air conditioning has helped a lot in keeping out soot-laden air, the professional cleaners say. Some new buildings have windows that only the cleaners can open with special keys. In New York that's an item, since the city fathers say 68.4 tons of soot fell on each square mile last year.

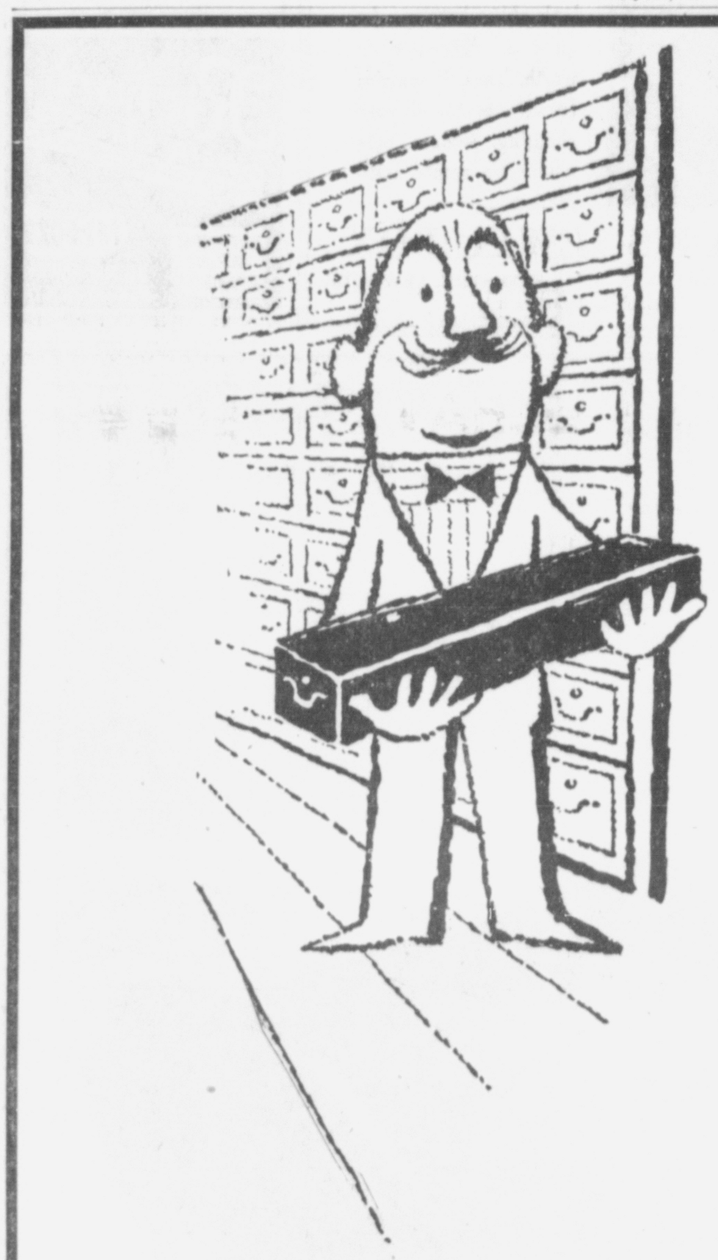

Of more than two billion square feet of office space available in private and government buildings 55 per cent is now air conditioned, compared with 30 per cent in 1955, according to Russell Gray, president of Carrier Air Conditioning Company. He predicts $2 billion will be spent in the next five years for air conditioning of new and existing buildings and for replacements.

Frankel notes other aids to the janitorial chores: better cleaning materials, easily cleaned composition flooring, washable paint, and extensive use of tile, porcelain enamel, stainless steel or aluminum trim and scuff plates.

Other big, publicly owned janitorial companies include: American Building Maintenance Industries, with most of its contracts in the Far West and some in New York and Detroit, and Allied Maintenance Corporation, a big operator in New York, with contracts in many cities in the United States and Canada.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

At least he thinks so. We'll hear from the South later.

Pretty Brave Thing

After years of looking at Tennessee Williams' version of the South, audiences might not recognize this view of Dixie. The Harper Lee novel was closer to Twain than Williams, yet includes modern problems as well.

The story, seen through the eyes of two sub-teen children, concerns a small-town Alabama lawyer who defends a Negro against a charge of raping a white girl.

"This happens in the early 1930s, when it was pretty brave of a lawyer to defend a Negro against the word of a white girl," Peck said on the movie set.

"I think this picture will have a good effect in Europe, Asia and Africa, where people too often think that the Negro is without rights and friendless in the South. They will see that there were Southerners who fought for justice, even in the '30s.

"Actually, the South is changing faster than most people realize. I spent some time around Savannah, Ga., last year when I was making 'Cap Fear.' I was down in Alabama six weeks ago, too. It is amazing what progress has been made in race relations.

Lynchers Dissuaded

Peck was enacting a scene in which he stands off a lynch mob at the county jail. The lynchers are dissuaded by the appearance of the lawyers' two children. They are played by Mary Badham, 9, and Phillip Alford, 11, both of Birmingham, Ala.

The film is being shot entirely in University City, Calif., rather than a small Southern town.

Peck explained: "It's impossible to find a town that would look like the '30s; They've all got chain stores and TV aerials now. The logical place to shoot it would be Monroeville, Ala., Miss Lee's home town. But the streets are paved now, and we needed dirt streets, the way it used to be. So we built our own town here at the studio."

Soldier Is Injured

WRIGHTSTOWN, N.J. (AP)—A Ft. Dix soldier, Pvt. Harry D. Monroe, 23, of North Creek, N.Y., suffered head injuries in an auto accident near here Sunday night.

He was admitted to Walson Army Hospital, Ft. Dix., where his condition was listed as good.

HST Calls Birch Unit Klan Branch

Truman made the crack to reporters Sunday night on his arrival by plane for a series of appearances at Canisius College.

The 77-year-old former chief executive refused to comment, however, on former Vice President Nixon's "carpetbagger" remark last week as President Kennedy visited California.

"It's none of my business," Truman said.

Truman addresses the Canisius student body today and will deliver tonight the first lecture of a new series inaugurated by the college's William H. Fitzpatrick Chair of Political Science.

He is scheduled to leave Buffalo Tuesday.

Man Is Accused In Death of Kin

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—James Kearse, 44, has been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting of his 19-yearold stepson during a family argument.

Police said Kearse and Louis Bennett, the son, both unemployed, had argued Satuday over the youth's refusal to work.

Two of Kearse's brothers, Homer, 33, and LeRoy, 29, were held as material witnesses. Bail was set at $1,000.

Police said the brothers were in the apartment when Bennett was killed by a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun.

Lawyers Oppose Jury Reports On No Findings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A committee of the New York State Bar Association, differing with Gov. Rockefeller, says "the filing of reports or presentments is not a proper function of the grand jury."

The committee opposed Rockefeller's proposals that grand juries be allowed to issue reports on investigations in which they found no grounds for criminal indictments.

Bar association committees generally speak for the full membership.

Grand juries traditionally had issued reports and presentments on a wide range of subjects and frequently criticized official conduct. But the Court of Appeals last year ruled the juries had no right to issue such reports.

After the decision, it was argued that grand jury presentments were a valuable weapon against official misconduct. Most newspapers supported this view.

Other persons contended that a grand jury presentment often involved allegations against individuals who did not have a legal procedure available to answer the charges.

The Bar Association's committee on penal law said yesterday it opposed pending legislation that would authorize presentments.

"The laws of our state have ample mechanisms for both legislative and executive fact-finding where corrective action is needed to remedy undesirable conditions," the committee said.

Rockefeller had recommended, as part of an anti-crime program, returning limited presentment powers to grand juries.

Parents to Face Charges in Death Of Infant Child

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An unmarried couple were held in Albany County Jail today in the beating death of their 2-year-old son.

They were charged with first-degree manslaughter in the death of the boy, Henry. Police said the parents beat the boy to discipline him.

Henry C. Mallory, 21, and Sarah Leigh, 20, both Negroes, pleaded innocent Saturday when arraigned in city Police Court.

Mallory called police for help Friday because the boy was unconcious in a bed. The boy was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Shaded Bid Reaches Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In case you have watched Walter Schwimmer's championship bridge on TV you may have wondered about some of the bids and plays I made when I appeared on it.

In the second hand of the match against Gerber and Hodge I opened a slightly shaded one diamond bid, but we had just lost a game and I wanted to get first bid just in case the second hand belonged to them also. Sally Johnson, my partner, handled her big hand very well and did not get us past three no-trump.

Paul Hodge, sitting South, opened the eight of hearts and I decided to play the hand as safely as possible. I could afford to lose two heart tricks. I might not be able to afford cross leads of hearts and diamonds so I played dummy's ace of hearts at trick one and led a low club toward my queen. This method of play produced an easy ten tricks and squared the match for us.

While I do not recommend my hand as an opening bid it certainly worked out well this time. Had I passed originally Mrs. Johnson would have opened one club in third seat. John Gerber would have over-called with one heart and while we might still have reached three no-trump or five clubs, we also might have quit at a part score.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

At least he thinks so. We'll hear from the South later.

Pretty Brave Thing

After years of looking at Tennessee Williams' version of the South, audiences might not recognize this view of Dixie. The Harper Lee novel was closer to Twain than Williams, yet includes modern problems as well.

The story, seen through the eyes of two sub-teen children, concerns a small-town Alabama lawyer who defends a Negro against a charge of raping a white girl.

"This happens in the early 1930s, when it was pretty brave of a lawyer to defend a Negro against the word of a white girl," Peck said on the movie set.

"I think this picture will have a good effect in Europe, Asia and Africa, where people too often think that the Negro is without rights and friendless in the South. They will see that there were Southerners who fought for justice, even in the '30s.

"Actually, the South is changing faster than most people realize. I spent some time around Savannah, Ga., last year when I was making 'Cap Fear.' I was down in Alabama six weeks ago, too. It is amazing what progress has been made in race relations.

Lynchers Dissuaded

Peck was enacting a scene in which he stands off a lynch mob at the county jail. The lynchers are dissuaded by the appearance of the lawyers' two children. They are played by Mary Badham, 9, and Phillip Alford, 11, both of Birmingham, Ala.

The film is being shot entirely in University City, Calif., rather than a small Southern town.

Peck explained: "It's impossible to find a town that would look like the '30s; They've all got chain stores and TV aerials now. The logical place to shoot it would be Monroeville, Ala., Miss Lee's home town. But the streets are paved now, and we needed dirt streets, the way it used to be. So we built our own town here at the studio."

Soldier Is Injured

WRIGHTSTOWN, N.J. (AP)—A Ft. Dix soldier, Pvt. Harry D. Monroe, 23, of North Creek, N.Y., suffered head injuries in an auto accident near here Sunday night.

He was admitted to Walson Army Hospital, Ft. Dix., where his condition was listed as good.

Lawyers Oppose Jury Reports On No Findings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A committee of the New York State Bar Association, differing with Gov. Rockefeller, says "the filing of reports or presentments is not a proper function of the grand jury."

The committee opposed Rockefeller's proposals that grand juries be allowed to issue reports on investigations in which they found no grounds for criminal indictments.

Bar association committees generally speak for the full membership.

Grand juries traditionally had issued reports and presentments on a wide range of subjects and frequently criticized official conduct. But the Court of Appeals last year ruled the juries had no right to issue such reports.

After the decision, it was argued that grand jury presentments were a valuable weapon against official misconduct. Most newspapers supported this view.

Other persons contended that a grand jury presentment often involved allegations against individuals who did not have a legal procedure available to answer the charges.

The Bar Association's committee on penal law said yesterday it opposed pending legislation that would authorize presentments.

"The laws of our state have ample mechanisms for both legislative and executive fact-finding where corrective action is needed to remedy undesirable conditions," the committee said.

Rockefeller had recommended, as part of an anti-crime program, returning limited presentment powers to grand juries.

Charles Ramsey Earns 2nd Place Tie in HVBL

Charles Ramsey clinched no worse than a tie for second place in the Hudson Valley Bowling league by winning a pair of games at Newburgh against the Rhoda Arms club Saturday night.

Ellenville Channel Masters were beaten a game by Three Brothers Egg Farms of Kingston, knocking the Ellenville five out of a chance for second.

Miron Lumber can tie Charles Ramsey for second if it wins three games from Jones Dairy in the final scheduled match of the season. The teams tried to get together last night but Ken Joseph, captain of the Lumbermen, said he couldn't bowl because he was working. The matter will now be brought before the president and secretary of the league.

Three Brothers shot 1015 in their final effort at Ellenville, winning the game by eight pins. Bob Shelightner was high for the locals with 208-203-202-613 and Bill Lawrence made 183-203-224-610. Tim Bilyeu led the high scoring home side with 202-236-225-663. Myron Goldberg had 627, Sam Fisher 621 and Disk Exner 611. The Channel Masters bombed 3058 against a good 2913 for the Kingston team.

Dairymen Get 9155 Total to Lead All Teams

Local Keglers Have Total Prize Money Of More Than $4,000

Larry Petersen and Buster Ferraro of Jones Dairy moved into fourth place in the regular doubles division of the American Bowling Congress tournament at Des Moines on Saturday with a smashing 1315 series.

The Dairy keglers climaxed a smashing weekend of bowling with a robust 9155 in the coveted all-events, putting the local quintet right at the top of the field in that category. If the margin holds, the Dairymen will receive a huge trophy. Though there's no cash money involved, the all-events title by a team carries much prestige. In fact, it's such a rare accomplishment that many of the well-known teams from the St. Louis and Chicago and Detroit areas have never won the award.

It was simply a great show for the local stars, who on Friday night rolled an 1177 game, the third highest in the history of the tournament and finished with a 3076 triple, good for fourth place in the classic division.

Petersen and Buster Ferraro missed first place in the doubles division by only 19 pins. Larry set the pace with 244, 214 and 201 for 659. Buster threw games of 199, 214 and 243 for 656.

At the present time, the Jones boys have won prize money totaling $4,145. With five weeks of the tournament still remaining, there will be some changes, but it's fairly certain that the locals won't fall too far short of that total. It was a good weekend.

$1400 for Fourth

The team prize for fourth place is $1400. The 3076 rolled by the Dairymen missed by only 23 pins of taking first spot in the regular division.

Buster Ferraro and Petersen will pick up $800 if their fourth place total in the doubles remains intact. Jack Ferraro and Chris Gallo, who fired 1246 in the Classic division doubles, will win about $75. Kildy Corrado and Angelo Fondino, who combined for 1140 in the regular division, will make about $15 for their feat.

Chris Gallo, a 269 hitter in the first game of the team event, expects to earn about $15 for that accomplishment. In the singles, Buster Ferraro threw a 662 series, good for 15th place at present and worth $250. Corrado fired a nifty 660, putting him in 20th place and worth $225. Petersen had 555 and though it's well down on the list, there is $10 in prize money.

Jack Ferraro and Gallo rolled in the classic division because Jack is a registered professional bowler. Jack hit 579 and Chris scored 559 and they expect to pick up some small change. Fondino rolled in the regular division and his 600 series is worth about $50.

Though there is no prize money for winning the team all-events, individual all-events leaders receive money. Buster Ferraro is 12th and it's worth $250. Peterson's 1810 could earn him $100 and Fondino's 1760 is worth about $50. Gallo had 1968 in the classic division and Jack Ferraro shot 1830 in the same division. Chris could earn as high as $75 while Jack can make about $50.

Individual Trophies

In addition to winning a huge team trophy, the Jones keglers would receive individual trophies if their 1955 all-events total holds up. In the past three years, the all-events title was won by teams with lower scores.

There was much activity held in conjunction with the tournament and the localites did some good bowling. In the Bowler's Journal, in which a kegler rolls five games across 10 alleys, Petersen fired 1040, good for 20th place and it pays $400.

In the B-J scratch doubles, a tourney started for the first time this year, Gallo and Buster Ferraro bombed 1236, good for fourth place and a $500 cash award. Petersen and Jack Ferraro were sixth in that tournament with a 1223 total and that also pays $500.

In the National Bowling Illustrated action, another new tournament held in conjunction with the ABC, Jack Ferraro shot 853 in four games across eight alleys for fifth place and a possible $800.

In the 59 years of rolling in the ABC tournament, the feat by Jones Dairy keglers has to rank among the best. Four of the five regular keglers were over 200 in average for the nine games and Fondino missed by only 40 pins. The team average was a neat 203 in the toughest competition in the country.

Dayton Finally Wins NIT

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After a succession of disappointing near-misses, Dayton today is at the pinnacle of its basketball history —lifted there by a stronghearted team confident of triumph.

Dayton reached its height Saturday afternoon capturing the National Invitation Tournament championship with a convincing 73-67 victory over St. John's of New York.

For Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn and the Flyers, it marked the end of a long, frustration-filled road. Blackburn had entered Dayton squads in nine previous NITs, starting in 1951, and had seen five of them turned back in the title game. This time he had the one to go all the way—a team stamped with the poise, gameness and skills of a champion.

The 1962 Flyers from Ohio first exhibited their title potential when they defeated Wichita 79-71 in the opening game of the tournament at Madison Square Garden. Then came sweeping victories over three seeded entries, Houston (94-77), Loyola of Chicago (98-82) and favored St. John's, a three-time NIT champion.

In the high-pressure atmosphere of tournament competition at the famed Garden, Dayton's key men in its drive to the championship were two remarkable sophomores, Bill Chmielewski and Gordy Hatton.

Chmielewski, a smooth-moving 6-foot-10 giant, decisively outplayed St. John's towering star Leroy Ellis virtually all the way. The Dayton center was the pacesetter as the flyers took command, finished the game with 24 points and was high scorer in the tourney with 107. His superb all-around showing earned him Most Valuable Player honors and unanimous selection to The Associated Press All-NIT team.

Hatton, who combined with his brother Tom to give Dayton a whirlwind backcourt pair, lifted the tiring Flyers' offense as St. John's was making a late-game threat. He pumped in 11 of Dayton's last 13 points, had 18 for the day and 94 for four games. He was an overwhelming pick for the all-tourney squad.

Ellis, although overshadowed by Chmielewski in the final, made the All-NIT team by a wide margin. The St. John's senior netted only 5 of 19 field goal attempts against Dayton but totaled 22 for the game and 80 for three tournament starts. Others named to the team, chosen by 25 sports writers at courtside, were sophomore guard Willie Somerset of Duquesne and Holy Cross' senior sharpshooter, Jack Foley.

Cincinnati Repeats As NCAA Champions

By KELSO STURGEON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Paul Hogue, who throughout his collegiate career at Cincinnati walked in the footsteps of Oscar Robertson but remained hidden in the shadow of Jerry Lucas, reigned today as the nation's crown prince of basketball.

Behind the powerful play of Hogue, a 6-foot-9, 240-pound giant from Knoxville, Tenn., Cincinnati bowled over top-ranked Ohio State 71-59 Saturday night to win its second straight National Collegiate basketball championship.

The victory gave the Bearcats their second straight NCAA title and their second consecutive triumph over arch-rival Ohio State in the finals of the annual classic. Last year Cincinnati edged the Buckeyes 70-65 in overtime.

Hogue, overlooked when All-America honors were passed out, scored 22 points, hauled down 19 rebounds and played rings around Lucas, Ohio State's three time All-America. Lucas, playing with an injured left knee, was held by Hogue to only 11 points, far below his season average.

Asked if he was out to prove to the world his great ability, Hogue replied: "I wasn't out to prove anything.

"We just wanted to show the folks that our victory last year wasn't a fluke."

But midway through his junior year, Hogue had smoothed off the edges and led Cincinnati to the 1961 NCAA title. He closed out his collegiate career as one of the most sought after pro prospects in the nation.

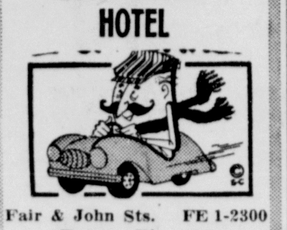

Bearcat Coach Ed Jucker was asked if he thought Hogue's tournament performance had anything to do with his being the forgotten man in Ohio basketball circles.

"I'm sure this had much to do with Hogue's great performance. I know Paul feels deeply about this. He played a great tournament and did a great job on Lucas."

Hogue received 75 of a possible 78 votes to win the Most Valuable Player award in the tournament.

Cincinnati kept the pressure on the Buckeyes, who were unable to run their usual fast break against the speedy Bearcats, and soon melted Ohio State's attack. Cincinnati jumped to a 37-29 halftime edge and the Bucks could never make up the ground.

It was evident Lucas' knee bothered him. He couldn't rebound, defend or shoot like he usually does. He hit only five of 16 shots against the Bearcats. His over-all shooting average is nearly 63 per cent.

Petersen, Buster 4th in Doubles; Jones Leads All-Events

All-Events Totals

Here's how Jones Dairy keglers fared in their 9155 all-events total, which places them first in the 59th American Bowling Congress tournament, being held in Des Moines, Iowa.

Dairymen Get 9155 Total to Lead All Teams

Local Keglers Have Total Prize Money Of More Than $4,000

Larry Petersen and Buster Ferraro of Jones Dairy moved into fourth place in the regular doubles division of the American Bowling Congress tournament at Des Moines on Saturday with a smashing 1315 series.

The Dairy keglers climaxed a smashing weekend of bowling with a robust 9155 in the coveted all-events, putting the local quintet right at the top of the field in that category. If the margin holds, the Dairymen will receive a huge trophy. Though there's no cash money involved, the all-events title by a team carries much prestige. In fact, it's such a rare accomplishment that many of the well-known teams from the St. Louis and Chicago and Detroit areas have never won the award.

It was simply a great show for the local stars, who on Friday night rolled an 1177 game, the third highest in the history of the tournament and finished with a 3076 triple, good for fourth place in the classic division.

Petersen and Buster Ferraro missed first place in the doubles division by only 19 pins. Larry set the pace with 244, 214 and 201 for 659. Buster threw games of 199, 214 and 243 for 656.

At the present time, the Jones boys have won prize money totaling $4,145. With five weeks of the tournament still remaining, there will be some changes, but it's fairly certain that the locals won't fall too far short of that total. It was a good weekend.

$1400 for Fourth

The team prize for fourth place is $1400. The 3076 rolled by the Dairymen missed by only 23 pins of taking first spot in the regular division.

Buster Ferraro and Petersen will pick up $800 if their fourth place total in the doubles remains intact. Jack Ferraro and Chris Gallo, who fired 1246 in the Classic division doubles, will win about $75. Kildy Corrado and Angelo Fondino, who combined for 1140 in the regular division, will make about $15 for their feat.

Chris Gallo, a 269 hitter in the first game of the team event, expects to earn about $15 for that accomplishment. In the singles, Buster Ferraro threw a 662 series, good for 15th place at present and worth $250. Corrado fired a nifty 660, putting him in 20th place and worth $225. Petersen had 555 and though it's well down on the list, there is $10 in prize money.

Jack Ferraro and Gallo rolled in the classic division because Jack is a registered professional bowler. Jack hit 579 and Chris scored 559 and they expect to pick up some small change. Fondino rolled in the regular division and his 600 series is worth about $50.

Though there is no prize money for winning the team all-events, individual all-events leaders receive money. Buster Ferraro is 12th and it's worth $250. Peterson's 1810 could earn him $100 and Fondino's 1760 is worth about $50. Gallo had 1968 in the classic division and Jack Ferraro shot 1830 in the same division. Chris could earn as high as $75 while Jack can make about $50.

Individual Trophies

In addition to winning a huge team trophy, the Jones keglers would receive individual trophies if their 1955 all-events total holds up. In the past three years, the all-events title was won by teams with lower scores.

There was much activity held in conjunction with the tournament and the localites did some good bowling. In the Bowler's Journal, in which a kegler rolls five games across 10 alleys, Petersen fired 1040, good for 20th place and it pays $400.

In the B-J scratch doubles, a tourney started for the first time this year, Gallo and Buster Ferraro bombed 1236, good for fourth place and a $500 cash award. Petersen and Jack Ferraro were sixth in that tournament with a 1223 total and that also pays $500.

In the National Bowling Illustrated action, another new tournament held in conjunction with the ABC, Jack Ferraro shot 853 in four games across eight alleys for fifth place and a possible $800.

In the 59 years of rolling in the ABC tournament, the feat by Jones Dairy keglers has to rank among the best. Four of the five regular keglers were over 200 in average for the nine games and Fondino missed by only 40 pins. The team average was a neat 203 in the toughest competition in the country.

Charles Ramsey clinched no worse than a tie for second place in the Hudson Valley Bowling league by winning a pair of games at Newburgh against the Rhoda Arms club Saturday night.

Ellenville Channel Masters were beaten a game by Three Brothers Egg Farms of Kingston, knocking the Ellenville five out of a chance for second.

Miron Lumber can tie Charles Ramsey for second if it wins three games from Jones Dairy in the final scheduled match of the season. The teams tried to get together last night but Ken Joseph, captain of the Lumbermen, said he couldn't bowl because he was working. The matter will now be brought before the president and secretary of the league.

Three Brothers shot 1015 in their final effort at Ellenville, winning the game by eight pins. Bob Shelightner was high for the locals with 208-203-202-613 and Bill Lawrence made 183-203-224-610. Tim Bilyeu led the high scoring home side with 202-236-225-663. Myron Goldberg had 627, Sam Fisher 621 and Disk Exner 611. The Channel Masters bombed 3058 against a good 2913 for the Kingston team.

Dayton Finally Wins NIT

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After a succession of disappointing near-misses, Dayton today is at the pinnacle of its basketball history —lifted there by a stronghearted team confident of triumph.

Dayton reached its height Saturday afternoon capturing the National Invitation Tournament championship with a convincing 73-67 victory over St. John's of New York.

For Dayton Coach Tom Blackburn and the Flyers, it marked the end of a long, frustration-filled road. Blackburn had entered Dayton squads in nine previous NITs, starting in 1951, and had seen five of them turned back in the title game. This time he had the one to go all the way—a team stamped with the poise, gameness and skills of a champion.

The 1962 Flyers from Ohio first exhibited their title potential when they defeated Wichita 79-71 in the opening game of the tournament at Madison Square Garden. Then came sweeping victories over three seeded entries, Houston (94-77), Loyola of Chicago (98-82) and favored St. John's, a three-time NIT champion.

In the high-pressure atmosphere of tournament competition at the famed Garden, Dayton's key men in its drive to the championship were two remarkable sophomores, Bill Chmielewski and Gordy Hatton.

Chmielewski, a smooth-moving 6-foot-10 giant, decisively outplayed St. John's towering star Leroy Ellis virtually all the way. The Dayton center was the pacesetter as the flyers took command, finished the game with 24 points and was high scorer in the tourney with 107. His superb all-around showing earned him Most Valuable Player honors and unanimous selection to The Associated Press All-NIT team.

Hatton, who combined with his brother Tom to give Dayton a whirlwind backcourt pair, lifted the tiring Flyers' offense as St. John's was making a late-game threat. He pumped in 11 of Dayton's last 13 points, had 18 for the day and 94 for four games. He was an overwhelming pick for the all-tourney squad.

Ellis, although overshadowed by Chmielewski in the final, made the All-NIT team by a wide margin. The St. John's senior netted only 5 of 19 field goal attempts against Dayton but totaled 22 for the game and 80 for three tournament starts. Others named to the team, chosen by 25 sports writers at courtside, were sophomore guard Willie Somerset of Duquesne and Holy Cross' senior sharpshooter, Jack Foley.

By KELSO STURGEON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Paul Hogue, who throughout his collegiate career at Cincinnati walked in the footsteps of Oscar Robertson but remained hidden in the shadow of Jerry Lucas, reigned today as the nation's crown prince of basketball.

Behind the powerful play of Hogue, a 6-foot-9, 240-pound giant from Knoxville, Tenn., Cincinnati bowled over top-ranked Ohio State 71-59 Saturday night to win its second straight National Collegiate basketball championship.

The victory gave the Bearcats their second straight NCAA title and their second consecutive triumph over arch-rival Ohio State in the finals of the annual classic. Last year Cincinnati edged the Buckeyes 70-65 in overtime.

Hogue, overlooked when All-America honors were passed out, scored 22 points, hauled down 19 rebounds and played rings around Lucas, Ohio State's three time All-America. Lucas, playing with an injured left knee, was held by Hogue to only 11 points, far below his season average.

Asked if he was out to prove to the world his great ability, Hogue replied: "I wasn't out to prove anything.

"We just wanted to show the folks that our victory last year wasn't a fluke."

But midway through his junior year, Hogue had smoothed off the edges and led Cincinnati to the 1961 NCAA title. He closed out his collegiate career as one of the most sought after pro prospects in the nation.

Bearcat Coach Ed Jucker was asked if he thought Hogue's tournament performance had anything to do with his being the forgotten man in Ohio basketball circles.

"I'm sure this had much to do with Hogue's great performance. I know Paul feels deeply about this. He played a great tournament and did a great job on Lucas."

Hogue received 75 of a possible 78 votes to win the Most Valuable Player award in the tournament.

Cincinnati kept the pressure on the Buckeyes, who were unable to run their usual fast break against the speedy Bearcats, and soon melted Ohio State's attack. Cincinnati jumped to a 37-29 halftime edge and the Bucks could never make up the ground.

It was evident Lucas' knee bothered him. He couldn't rebound, defend or shoot like he usually does. He hit only five of 16 shots against the Bearcats. His over-all shooting average is nearly 63 per cent.

Buffalo Bowlers Leading in Three Class A Divisions

Phyllis Notaro, a three-time New York state all-events champion, put in a early bid for a fourth title with a 1670 nine-game series to pace Buffalo keglers in a domination of the Class A scoreboard in the first weekend of the 29th annual New York State Woman's Bowling Championships in Kingston.

Miss Notaro, the 1961 National All Star queen, fashioned 569 in the team events; 544 doubles and 547 singles, as Buffalo bowlers took over the first five spots in that division.

The diminutive Brant keglerettes also shared the doubles lead with Jean Caliendo with 1118. She rolled 554 and Caliendo furnished 564.

Molly Ruocco of Staten Island rolled 620 to lead the Class A singles. Her games were 217, 137 and 225.

The Pepsi Five of Buffalo took over the Class A team lead with 2612 on team slams of 959, 862 and 791, as Elouise Kennedy led with 563. Miss Notaro's Simon Pure Ale was second with 2594 and the high powered Squirts sixth at 2493.

First Timers of New York City linked games of 788, 763 and 826 for 2327 to pace Class B. The Class C leaders are Ball 'N' Chains of Cairo with 2257. IBM Busy Bees of Kingston is second with 2174.

Newark State School of Newark rolled 2064 for first place in the Class D team competition, with the Larks of the IBM Feather League of Kingston second at 2056.

Two Woodstock teams placed in the first five in the Class D division. Safeway School System had 1985 and Alley Cats, 1955.

Lois Runge Stars

The defending Class A doubles champions — Elouise Kennedy and Judy Edel of the Pepsi Five of Buffalo—were able to roll only 961.

Patricia Abrams (498) and Helen Guido (491) of Syracuse held the Class B doubles lead at 989. The Class C leaders are Barbara Thomas (419) and Marie Moore (463) of Bolivar.

Trailing Miss Notaro in the all-events division were four Buffalo area shooters: Helen Kaminski, 1657; Rose Colletti, 1652; Carol Shevlin, 1648; and Alouise Kennedy, 1612.

State Tenpin Topics

As was expected, Phyllis Notro and the Buffalo gals attracted the largest galleries. Miss Notaro was well off her National All Star form but demonstrated the classic fundamentals — fine footwork, consistent speed and temperament. She doesn't throw a flashy strike ball, but is alway around the pocket and rarely .crosses .the .headpin.. Alley No. 14 at the Bowlero gave her plenty of trouble Saturday night. Her strike ball was missing over the weekend. Her 1670 is not likely to hold up.

Best of the first weekend possibilities was the 620 Class A singled rolled by Molly Ruocco of Staten Island. None of the other Class A scores is likely to survive.

The Squirts, Buffalo's top woman combine, failed to come up to expectation. One of the team's stars —Carol Shevlin — set a world's record for women for 8 games of qualifying in the National All Star last fall.

Area keglerettes figure to scramble the Class B and C standing board next weekend.

More than 500 delegates will move into town for the annual NYSWBA convention next Saturday at the Kingston High School auditorium. Five cities will be bidding for the 1964 championships, including Jamestown, Troy, Poughkeepsie, Binghamton - Johnson City - Endicott and Westchester. The 1963 tourney is scheduled at Syracuse.

Mesdames Banker and Bayely have a "kitty" going in the tournament headquarters. It costs you a dime everytime you commit the unpardonable sin of saying "alley" instead of lane. Cost this observer 30 cents and there are still eight weekends left.

However, the state officials have not answered our inquiry: How come two different teams call themselves Alley Cats instead of Lane Cats??

Benny Kid Paret Near Death; Rocky Orders Investigation

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret, battered senseless in losing the world welterweight championship to Emile Griffith Saturday night was in a coma and reported near death today.

His manager, Manuel Alfaro, said Dr. Howard Dunbar, a neurological specialist, told him that Paret's chances of recovering from brain damage were "one in 10,000."

Alfaro said at Roosevelt Hospital at 5:45 a.m. that Paret's condition had not changed during the night. This was about four hours after he had told newsmen that Paret appeared to be slightly improved because his muscles were relaxed instead of rigid and he was able to move his eyebrows. Paret had just been given blood transfusions.

In his later talk with newsmen, Alfaro said that as far as he knew, medical specialists did not plan to see Paret again. He said one specialist told him that everything possible had already been done and "it is a matter of time."

Alfaro said he had been told by doctors that the first 48 hours after the brain surgery performed on Paret would be the most critical period.

Alfaro made the dawn statement after visiting Paret's room. The manager woke at 4:30 a.m. after a short sleep on a couch in the hospital office.

It was his first rest since Paret was carried out of the ring at Madison Square Garden.

Boxer Jose Torres, a friend of Paret who spent hours at the hospital, said Paret's wife, Lucy, wept most of the time she was in her husband's room.

Torres said she frequently patted her husband's face, pleading: "Benny, Benny, listen to me."

Mrs. Paret, 23, is expecting a second child in seven months. She brought the couple's son, Benny Jr., 2, with her.

Stretcher Used

When Paret went down in the 12th round of the nationally televised fight, oxygen was administered in the ring. Then the unconscious fighter was taken to his dressing room on a stretcher.

Less than two hours after the knockout, Paret was on an operating table at the hospital. Surgeons drilled four holes in his skull to relieve the pressure of blood clots on both sides of his brain.

The New York State Athletic Commission was rushing to complete a report on the fight ordered by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. In a tersely worded telegram to Gen. Melvin L. Krulewitch, chairman of the commission, the governor demanded the report be in his hands today.

Paret took a severe beating from Griffith before referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the bout in 2:09 of the 12th round. Ringsiders counted between 20 and 26 punches that connected while Griffith had Paret in a neutral corner.

As Paret, his head caught between the ropes, slid slowly to the floor, Griffith—striving to regain the championship he had lost to Paret last Sept. 30—blazed away with uppercut after uppercut.

Goldstein rushed in to stop it, and had to pull Griffith away from the bleeding, unconscious Paret.

Alfaro criticized Goldstein for permitting the fight to go on as long as it did.

"When Paret's head got caught between the ropes, I screamed for Goldstein to stop it," said Alfaro. "But apparently he didn't hear me."

"I felt I did the right thing in the fight and I still think so," he said. "Sometimes things don't turn out right afterwards. I knew Paret as a tough fellow. Sometimes in the first part of a round, he doesn't go well.

"Then he comes out of it and starts fighting. I thought he might roll away from the ropes in the 12th round. A lot of fighters do that. Also remember that this was a world championship fight and the champion should be given every opportunity to keep his title."

Paret scored the only knockdown of the fight in the sixth round when he caught Griffith with a combination. Goldstein counted eight before Griffith came out of it.

"Paret entered the ring in top physical shape," said Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission. "Otherwise the commission never would have permitted him to fight."

Paret is one of eight children. He never had any formal education. He boxed 3½ years in Cuba, then came here. His first bout was a draw against Bobby Shell in St. Nicholas Arena, May 19, 1958. Two years later he won the welterweight title from Don Jordan. He defended his crown successfully once before Griffith knocked him out in the 13th round of their first fight.

He won it back last year in a disputed decision.

Tackle Shop Triumphs, 100-78 Over Trailways

Scoring 36 points in the fourth period, Ray's Tackle Shop outdistanced Trailways Cafeteria, 100-78, in the feature game of a YMCA Basketball league doubleheader Saturday at the local gym.

In the other attraction, Hub Delicatessen defeated Van's Esso, 73-64.

The Tackle Shop survived another good performance by Joe Uhl to record the win. Jumpin' Joe had 14 deuces and three foul shots for 31 markers. Marty Kaye aided with 22 and Gary Barnes had 16 markers.

Don Kamosa had 26 points for the Hub, which led by slim margins all the way. Tony Causa had 23 for the Esso five.

Moore and Tiger Face Key Bouts

Winner of six straight and rated second among the 160-pound class contenders, the 32-year-old Tiger takes on power-punching Henry Hank of Detroit in a television (ABC TV 10 p.m.) 10-rounder at New York's Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Hank, ranked No. 4 contender, is no man to trifle with. The Detroiter has flattened 32 of his 67 foes. If Tiger loses, he can kiss his title chances goodbye. Gene Fullmer, the NBA middleweight champion, has said he will give Tiger a title fight when he clears up the middleweight muddle. Terry Downes, the other claimant of the world title, defends his piece of the crown against Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., at Boston April 7.

Moore, at 45, faces an authentic heavyweight in towering Alehandro Lavorante of Argentina, at Los Angeles' Sports Arena Friday night. The 25-year-old Argentine has youth and a wallop to go with his 6-3 frame. He is ranked fourth among the heavyweight contenders.

Archie, recognized only by California as light heavyweight champion, now is ranked ninth among the heavies by the NBA. A good victory could propel Moore to the upper level among the heavyweight contenders.

Houk Backs His Slugger

Maris Slugs First Two Homers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Home run king Roger Maris, bolstered by the backing of Manager Ralph Houk in the controversy provoked by his off-the-field blasts, has fired his first on-the-field salvo.

Stung by the criticism of his conduct and buoyed by Houk's assertion that "Rog is a team ball player who gives us 100 per cent at all times," Maris responded with two homers Sunday that powered the New York Yankees to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The two shots—doubling his output for the entire 1961 exhibition season when he hammered 61 during the regular campaign — came after Houk felt compelled to step into the dispute over Maris' deportment, and deny reports of dissension among the world champions.

Dale Long took over the home run lead with his sixth of the spring in Washington's 9-8 triumph over the New York Mets at Pompano Beach, and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn became the first pitcher to go nine innings although the Braves lost to Baltimore 7-1 at Miami.

Cleveland Wins

Elsewhere, Cleveland walloped Boston 8-1 at Tucson, Minnesota beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 11 innings at Orlando, Chicago's Cubs defeated San Francisco 8-4 at Phoenix, Kansas City whipped Detroit 6-2 at West Palm Beach and the Los Angeles Angels edged Houston 5-4 at San Diego.

The Pittsburgh-Philadelphia and St. Louis-Chicago White Sox games were canceled due to rain.

Maris's homers gave the Yanks a 3-0 lead before Hector Lopez put it away with a three-run homer in the sixth. Vada Pinson countered with a solo shot for the Reds. Long's homer gave the Senators an early bulge but they needed Harry Bright's bases-loaded single in the last of the ninth to snap the Mets' four-game winning streak.

Spahn gave up 10 hits in going the route, with Jim Gentile pacing the Orioles attack with a two-run homer, double, single and walk. Bill Short hurled five innings of no-hit ball for Baltimore. The Indians climbed over the Red Sox on Chuck Essegian's five RBI performance produced by a three-run homer, triple and single.

A leadoff homer by Sandy Valdespino in the 11th beat the Dodgers for the Twins, who had opened up the scoring on Harmon Killebrew's round tripper. Minnesota's Georges Maranda allowed no hits in his six-inning stint. A grand slam homer by Billy Williams in the fourth inning gave the Cubs an edge they never lost against the Giants.

The A's pounded Tigers' starter Don Mossi for four runs in the second inning and made the most of nine hits and four Detroit errors for an easy triumph. The Angels beat the Colts when Eddie Yost scored from third with the deciding run in the seventh on a wild throw by third baseman Bob Aspromonte

Gendebein-Hill Team Dominate Sebring Race

Joakim Bonnier of Sweden and unknown Lucien Bianchi of Belgium scored an upset win in the event and won $300.

But Gendebien, teaming with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., the 1961 driving champion, shared in $3,000 prize money. And the pair earned nine valuable points for the Ferrari factory in the car manufacturer's championship. They drove a Ferrari grand touring model to the important GT title.

The Gendebien-Hill team drove a Ferrari to victory in 1959 and 1961. Gendebien also won in 1960 with Hans Hermann in a Porsche.

Bonnier and Bianchi averaged 89.142 m.p.h. over the 206 laps or 1,030 miles. This was far below the Hill-Gendebien record of 210 laps and 1,092 miles and average speed of 90.7 m.p.h. set in 1961.

Ronny Hisson of Midland, Tex., and Chuck Daigh of Los Angeles turned in the best finish by an American-made car. They were sixth in a Chevrolet-powered Chaparral.

The index of performance prize went to a Porsche, which finished third in the overall standings. This car was driven by Bruce Jennings of Towson, Md., and Frank Rand and Bill Wuestoff, both of Chicago.

Sidney Kegler Leads State Masonic Pins

Phyllis Notaro, a three-time New York state all-events champion, put in a early bid for a fourth title with a 1670 nine-game series to pace Buffalo keglers in a domination of the Class A scoreboard in the first weekend of the 29th annual New York State Woman's Bowling Championships in Kingston.

Miss Notaro, the 1961 National All Star queen, fashioned 569 in the team events; 544 doubles and 547 singles, as Buffalo bowlers took over the first five spots in that division.

The diminutive Brant keglerettes also shared the doubles lead with Jean Caliendo with 1118. She rolled 554 and Caliendo furnished 564.

Molly Ruocco of Staten Island rolled 620 to lead the Class A singles. Her games were 217, 137 and 225.

The Pepsi Five of Buffalo took over the Class A team lead with 2612 on team slams of 959, 862 and 791, as Elouise Kennedy led with 563. Miss Notaro's Simon Pure Ale was second with 2594 and the high powered Squirts sixth at 2493.

First Timers of New York City linked games of 788, 763 and 826 for 2327 to pace Class B. The Class C leaders are Ball 'N' Chains of Cairo with 2257. IBM Busy Bees of Kingston is second with 2174.

Newark State School of Newark rolled 2064 for first place in the Class D team competition, with the Larks of the IBM Feather League of Kingston second at 2056.

Two Woodstock teams placed in the first five in the Class D division. Safeway School System had 1985 and Alley Cats, 1955.

Lois Runge Stars

Lois Runge of Boiceville placed fourth in Class B singles with 547 on lines of 157, 165 and 225. Dorothy Hoffman, a 129 average bowler, is the Class C singles leader with 523. She opened with 231 and added 122 and 170.

The defending Class A doubles champions — Elouise Kennedy and Judy Edel of the Pepsi Five of Buffalo—were able to roll only 961.

Patricia Abrams (498) and Helen Guido (491) of Syracuse held the Class B doubles lead at 989. The Class C leaders are Barbara Thomas (419) and Marie Moore (463) of Bolivar.

Trailing Miss Notaro in the all-events division were four Buffalo area shooters: Helen Kaminski, 1657; Rose Colletti, 1652; Carol Shevlin, 1648; and Alouise Kennedy, 1612.

State Tenpin Topics

The official tournament headquarters at the Bowlerama is a beehive of organized efficiency, under the able supervision of Clover Bayley, the state secretary-treasurer and Gladys Banker, president.

As was expected, Phyllis Notro and the Buffalo gals attracted the largest galleries. Miss Notaro was well off her National All Star form but demonstrated the classic fundamentals — fine footwork, consistent speed and temperament. She doesn't throw a flashy strike ball, but is alway around the pocket and rarely .crosses .the .headpin.. Alley No. 14 at the Bowlero gave her plenty of trouble Saturday night. Her strike ball was missing over the weekend. Her 1670 is not likely to hold up.

Best of the first weekend possibilities was the 620 Class A singled rolled by Molly Ruocco of Staten Island. None of the other Class A scores is likely to survive.

Lois Runge of Boiceville blasted a 225 solo, behind 157-165, to gain a spot on the Class B singles standing board. The 225 was the top solo of her career.

Another unheralded keglerette, 129-average Dorothy Hoffman of Nassau County rolled 231 solo and 523 high in Class C singles.

The Squirts, Buffalo's top woman combine, failed to come up to expectation. One of the team's stars —Carol Shevlin — set a world's record for women for 8 games of qualifying in the National All Star last fall.

Area keglerettes figure to scramble the Class B and C standing board next weekend.

More than 500 delegates will move into town for the annual NYSWBA convention next Saturday at the Kingston High School auditorium. Five cities will be bidding for the 1964 championships, including Jamestown, Troy, Poughkeepsie, Binghamton - Johnson City - Endicott and Westchester. The 1963 tourney is scheduled at Syracuse.

Mesdames Banker and Bayely have a "kitty" going in the tournament headquarters. It costs you a dime everytime you commit the unpardonable sin of saying "alley" instead of lane. Cost this observer 30 cents and there are still eight weekends left.

However, the state officials have not answered our inquiry: How come two different teams call themselves Alley Cats instead of Lane Cats??

Benny Kid Paret Near Death; Rocky Orders Investigation

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret, battered senseless in losing the world welterweight championship to Emile Griffith Saturday night was in a coma and reported near death today.

His manager, Manuel Alfaro, said Dr. Howard Dunbar, a neurological specialist, told him that Paret's chances of recovering from brain damage were "one in 10,000."

Alfaro said at Roosevelt Hospital at 5:45 a.m. that Paret's condition had not changed during the night. This was about four hours after he had told newsmen that Paret appeared to be slightly improved because his muscles were relaxed instead of rigid and he was able to move his eyebrows. Paret had just been given blood transfusions.

In his later talk with newsmen, Alfaro said that as far as he knew, medical specialists did not plan to see Paret again. He said one specialist told him that everything possible had already been done and "it is a matter of time."

Alfaro said he had been told by doctors that the first 48 hours after the brain surgery performed on Paret would be the most critical period.

Alfaro made the dawn statement after visiting Paret's room. The manager woke at 4:30 a.m. after a short sleep on a couch in the hospital office.

It was his first rest since Paret was carried out of the ring at Madison Square Garden.

Boxer Jose Torres, a friend of Paret who spent hours at the hospital, said Paret's wife, Lucy, wept most of the time she was in her husband's room.

Torres said she frequently patted her husband's face, pleading: "Benny, Benny, listen to me."

Mrs. Paret, 23, is expecting a second child in seven months. She brought the couple's son, Benny Jr., 2, with her.

Paret, 25, who rose from a $2-a-day cutter in the sugar cane fields of Cuba to a world champion, has been in a special-care unit at the hospital.

Stretcher Used

When Paret went down in the 12th round of the nationally televised fight, oxygen was administered in the ring. Then the unconscious fighter was taken to his dressing room on a stretcher.

Less than two hours after the knockout, Paret was on an operating table at the hospital. Surgeons drilled four holes in his skull to relieve the pressure of blood clots on both sides of his brain.

The New York State Athletic Commission was rushing to complete a report on the fight ordered by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. In a tersely worded telegram to Gen. Melvin L. Krulewitch, chairman of the commission, the governor demanded the report be in his hands today.

Paret took a severe beating from Griffith before referee Ruby Goldstein stopped the bout in 2:09 of the 12th round. Ringsiders counted between 20 and 26 punches that connected while Griffith had Paret in a neutral corner.

As Paret; his head caught between the ropes, slid slowly to the floor, Griffith—striving to regain the championship he had lost to Paret last Sept. 30—blazed away with uppercut after uppercut.

Goldstein rushed in to stop it, and had to pull Griffith away from the bleeding, unconscious Paret.

Alfaro criticized Goldstein for permitting the fight to go on as long as it did.

"When Paret's head got caught between the ropes, I screamed for Goldstein to stop it," said Alfaro. "But apparently he didn't hear me."

Goldstein, a former boxer who has refereed many championship fights in New York, defended his actions.

"I felt I did the right thing in the fight and I still think so," he said. "Sometimes things don't turn out right afterwards. I knew Paret as a tough fellow. Sometimes in the first part of a round, he doesn't go well.

"Then he comes out of it and starts fighting. I thought he might roll away from the ropes in the 12th round. A lot of fighters do that. Also remember that this was a world championship fight and the champion should be given every opportunity to keep his title."

Paret scored the only knockdown of the fight in the sixth round when he caught Griffith with a combination. Goldstein counted eight before Griffith came out of it.

"Paret entered the ring in top physical shape," said Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission. "Otherwise the commission never would have permitted him to fight."

Paret is one of eight children. He never had any formal education. He boxed 3½ years in Cuba, then came here. His first bout was a draw against Bobby Shell in St. Nicholas Arena, May 19, 1958. Two years later he won the welterweight title from Don Jordan. He defended his crown successfully once before Griffith knocked him out in the 13th round of their first fight.

He won it back last year in a disputed decision.

Moore and Tiger Face Key Bouts

Dick Tiger, the hottest of the middleweight contenders, and ancient Archie Moore go on the spot this week.

Winner of six straight and rated second among the 160-pound class contenders, the 32-year-old Tiger takes on power-punching Henry Hank of Detroit in a television (ABC TV 10 p.m.) 10-rounder at New York's Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Hank, ranked No. 4 contender, is no man to trifle with. The Detroiter has flattened 32 of his 67 foes. If Tiger loses, he can kiss his title chances goodbye. Gene Fullmer, the NBA middleweight champion, has said he will give Tiger a title fight when he clears up the middleweight muddle. Terry Downes, the other claimant of the world title, defends his piece of the crown against Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., at Boston April 7.

Moore, at 45, faces an authentic heavyweight in towering Alehandro Lavorante of Argentina, at Los Angeles' Sports Arena Friday night. The 25-year-old Argentine has youth and a wallop to go with his 6-3 frame. He is ranked fourth among the heavyweight contenders.

Archie, recognized only by California as light heavyweight champion, now is ranked ninth among the heavies by the NBA. A good victory could propel Moore to the upper level among the heavyweight contenders.

Houk Backs His Slugger

Maris Slugs First Two Homers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Home run king Roger Maris, bolstered by the backing of Manager Ralph Houk in the controversy provoked by his off-the-field blasts, has fired his first on-the-field salvo.

Stung by the criticism of his conduct and buoyed by Houk's assertion that "Rog is a team ball player who gives us 100 per cent at all times," Maris responded with two homers Sunday that powered the New York Yankees to a 6-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The two shots—doubling his output for the entire 1961 exhibition season when he hammered 61 during the regular campaign — came after Houk felt compelled to step into the dispute over Maris' deportment, and deny reports of dissension among the world champions.

Dale Long took over the home run lead with his sixth of the spring in Washington's 9-8 triumph over the New York Mets at Pompano Beach, and Milwaukee's Warren Spahn became the first pitcher to go nine innings although the Braves lost to Baltimore 7-1 at Miami.

Cleveland Wins

Elsewhere, Cleveland walloped Boston 8-1 at Tucson, Minnesota beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 in 11 innings at Orlando, Chicago's Cubs defeated San Francisco 8-4 at Phoenix, Kansas City whipped Detroit 6-2 at West Palm Beach and the Los Angeles Angels edged Houston 5-4 at San Diego.

The Pittsburgh-Philadelphia and St. Louis-Chicago White Sox games were canceled due to rain.

Maris's homers gave the Yanks a 3-0 lead before Hector Lopez put it away with a three-run homer in the sixth. Vada Pinson countered with a solo shot for the Reds. Long's homer gave the Senators an early bulge but they needed Harry Bright's bases-loaded single in the last of the ninth to snap the Mets' four-game winning streak.

Spahn gave up 10 hits in going the route, with Jim Gentile pacing the Orioles attack with a two-run homer, double, single and walk. Bill Short hurled five innings of no-hit ball for Baltimore. The Indians climbed over the Red Sox on Chuck Essegian's five RBI performance produced by a three-run homer, triple and single.

A leadoff homer by Sandy Valdespino in the 11th beat the Dodgers for the Twins, who had opened up the scoring on Harmon Killebrew's round tripper. Minnesota's Georges Maranda allowed no hits in his six-inning stint. A grand slam homer by Billy Williams in the fourth inning gave the Cubs an edge they never lost against the Giants.

The A's pounded Tigers' starter Don Mossi for four runs in the second inning and made the most of nine hits and four Detroit errors for an easy triumph. The Angels beat the Colts when Eddie Yost scored from third with the deciding run in the seventh on a wild throw by third baseman Bob Aspromonte

Gendebein-Hill Team Dominate Sebring Race

Joakim Bonnier of Sweden and unknown Lucien Bianchi of Belgium scored an upset win in the event and won $300.

But Gendebien, teaming with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., the 1961 driving champion, shared in $3,000 prize money. And the pair earned nine valuable points for the Ferrari factory in the car manufacturer's championship. They drove a Ferrari grand touring model to the important GT title.

The Gendebien-Hill team drove a Ferrari to victory in 1959 and 1961. Gendebien also won in 1960 with Hans Hermann in a Porsche.

Bonnier and Bianchi averaged 89.142 m.p.h. over the 206 laps or 1,030 miles. This was far below the Hill-Gendebien record of 210 laps and 1,092 miles and average speed of 90.7 m.p.h. set in 1961.

Ronny Hisson of Midland, Tex., and Chuck Daigh of Los Angeles turned in the best finish by an American-made car. They were sixth in a Chevrolet-powered Chaparral.

The index of performance prize went to a Porsche, which finished third in the overall standings. This car was driven by Bruce Jennings of Towson, Md., and Frank Rand and Bill Wuestoff, both of Chicago.

Sidney Kegler Leads State Masonic Pins

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Reynard of Sidney was the singles division leader today with 744 pins as the New York State Masonic Bowling Tournament completed its second weekend round.

Lodge 276 of Mohawk took the team lead with 3,046. Richard Bock and Adolph Burmeister of Honeoye Falls moved to the front in the doubles with 1,282.

Two Are Accused Of Transporting Women Into State

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—The operator of an Adirondack resort hotel and another man were held today on charges of transporting two women across state lines to engage in prostitution.

Arrested Sunday by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were Henry C. Smith, 35, owner of the Hollywood Hills Hotel at Old Forge, and Charles F. Lawton, 41, of New Berlin, Chenango County. Smith also is president of the Empire Racing Association, composed of go-kart racers.

Wildlife Week Marked by Talk On Conservation

Thursday evening, at the Saugerties Main Street School National Wildlife Week was highlighted by a program on Conservation.

Harry Slobodian, Saugerties Area Chairman for National Wildlife Week opened the program with welcome to those in attendance. Carlton King, a Saugerties resident and long noted for his active participation in promoting Conservation spoke on the theme Conservation Is Everybody's Business. King said that almost from birth conservation becomes part of our daily lives whether we realize it or not. The loving care of a baby is really an attempt at preserving him from harshness and dangers of his surroundings.

He spoke of how instinctively animals pactice conservation and how energy is preserved by many animals. King concluded his talk by saying that when by saving and conserving water resources efficiently, we are at the same time conserving soil, forests, fish and game. He urged the townspeople to look twards the future now and develop a program of water conservation.

Chester Joy, Ulster County Chairman for National Wildlife Week, told some of his experiences and of his record catch of a rainbow trout. A second film entitled The Heritage We Guard was shown. Slobodian introduced Nat Aaron, president of the Chamber of Commerce who told of his recent trip to Spain. Aaron presented the awards to the essay contest winners as follows: William R. Hardick Jr., third, honorable mention certificate; John Mullaney, second, $5; Laurence Lohman, first, $25 Savings Bond. All these boys are Scouts in Troop 32. A portion of Laurence Lohman's essay was read by Slobodian at the conclusion of the program.

The whole troop was on hand to lead in the cheers of welcome to the two new scouts.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Wall Street's Only Resident Started Through Want Ad

Hugh Harley, actually is the only person residing in this famous financial district. He lives in a narrow, 5-story home, built in 1780 at 108 Wall Street. He runs an export-import business among piles of books, plans and ship models he's made for his grandchildren. When the day is over and everyone has gone home, Harley is the only person astir in the financial area outside of police. He started his career as a newspaper copy boy in answer to an ad. Grew a mustache to make him look older and has retained it ever since. His is the only residential home in the entire Wall street area.

Wildlife Week Marked by Talk On Conservation

Thursday evening, at the Saugerties Main Street School National Wildlife Week was highlighted by a program on Conservation.

Harry Slobodian, Saugerties Area Chairman for National Wildlife Week opened the program with welcome to those in attendance. Carlton King, a Saugerties resident and long noted for his active participation in promoting Conservation spoke on the theme Conservation Is Everybody's Business. King said that almost from birth conservation becomes part of our daily lives whether we realize it or not. The loving care of a baby is really an attempt at preserving him from harshness and dangers of his surroundings.

He spoke of how instinctively animals pactice conservation and how energy is preserved by many animals. King concluded his talk by saying that when by saving and conserving water resources efficiently, we are at the same time conserving soil, forests, fish and game. He urged the townspeople to look twards the future now and develop a program of water conservation.

Cubs Induct Two At Pack Meeting

The induction of two new Bobcats and the graduation of two members into Boy Scouts highlighted the monthly meeting of Cub Pack 32 Friday night in the parish hall of the Atonement Lutheran Church. Charles Hudson, assistant cubmaster, conducted the meeting in the absence of Cubmaster Joseph Gaglianello.

Following the opening ceremonies by Mrs. Harold Bauser's Den 4, the theme of the month Islands of the World, was carried out by a Hawaiian skit by Mrs. Burt Hess' Den 3 and a display of paper mache maps of world Islands made by Den 1 with the assistance of Den Mothers Mrs. Charles Hudson and Mrs. Elsie Vanderbeck.

A candlelight ceremony to mark the advancements was conducted by Hudson, assisted by committee chairman Harold Bauser. Eric Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanson and Steven Anders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anders were welcomed into the pack and received Bobcat pins.

Other advancements earned and presented include Wolf badge to Michael Hano; Bear badge to Mark Roberts: Lion badge to William Holden and Mark Lavezzo. Arrow points were awarded as follows: Under Wolf—William Van Voorhis, gold; Michael Staudacher and Joseph Gaglianello, 1 silver. Under Lion—Philip Crank, gold and one silver; Mark Lavezzo, gold.

Service pins were presented as follows: Three year—Gary Liesendahl, Philip Crank; two year Dean Rittie, Michael Staudacher; one year Roger Winchell, Jeffrey Miller.

Graduation ceremonies were held for Gary Liesendahl and Philip Crank who were welcomed into Boy Scout Troop 32 by Scoutmaster Eugene Davis with the assistance of Brian Legg, Eagle Scout, Glen Davis, senior patrol leader and Alan Wolven. The whole troop was on hand to lead in the cheers of welcome to the two new scouts.

Mrs. Millie Rosenberger's Den 2 sang the closing song Farewell Cub Scouts while giving their version of the Hawaiian hula, and decorated with leis which they made for the occasion.

Following the meeting a movie of Hawaii's history, Kingdom to Statehood was shown by Anders, activities chairman. Refreshments were served by the Mmes. Charles Mullaney, Joseph Caglianello, Russell Hardick and Frank Young.

50 Large Firms, JFK Move to End Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities has obtained voluntary agreements from 50 large firms to end job discrimination among about 5 million workers.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who heads the committee, obviously views this as a major accomplishment likely to be reflected by increased support for the Democratic administration among Negro and other minority group voters.

It long has been Johnson's contention that Negroes are more interested in voting rights and equal employment conditions than in some so-called social gains.

Johnson and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who serves as the committee vice chairman, have just completed conferences with nearly 100 of the nation's largest employers. They expect most of them to sign voluntary agreements, although some of the firms involved have few if any government contracts.

These conferences covered all the major industrial and business categories, including American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the nation's largest employer, oil, steel and auto companies, and major retail stores.

Generally, the voluntary agreements promise job promotions on the basis of merit, with no racial discrimination. They specify that as new jobs are created, workers will be hired without regard to color.

In addition, the voluntary agreements call for desegregation of company facilities as well as recruiting and training programs.

Upstate Police Nab 2 Escapees With Mink Coats

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A routine license-plate check led to the arrest Saturday of two men identified as escapees from a Louisiana penal institution. Police said the pair financed their trip north with stolen credit cards.

Two mink coats and three oil paintings were found in their car. Police said the car, the paintings, the coats and the credit cards were apparently part of the haul from burglaries in Dallas, Tex., and Oklahoma City, Okla.

The pair were identified as Richard Raquier, 23, a native of Manville, R.I., and Edgar Harper, 22, of Los Angeles.

Louisiana officials said they escaped from a correctional school at DeQuincy, La., two weeks ago.

Both were charged with illegal possession of a loaded pistol and held for grand jury action.

Says Glenn Orbit Aided Education

Evidence of this was at hand today from a national assembly of grade school heads and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's John Sims.

The teachers, pressing Sims for help, said they have been overrun with demands by their children for answers to space questions since Glenn's flight.

The teachers are here for the annual meeting of the Department of Elementary School Principles of the National Education Association.

Dealing with the inquisitive youngsters is a problem, Sims said. But it's rewarding, too.

"Our youngsters accept space science as a natural course of human events," he said. "We older people—myself and these teachers — are bewildered and have difficulty coping with it."

But he added, "Who can say that another Wernher von Braun isn't in the Ozarks? Today's sixth grader may be landing on the moon in 20 years."

FIVE NON-CALLABLE PREFERREDS

National Biscuit Company, the world's largest baker, wants to retire its 248,045 shares of $7 non-callable, cumulative preferred stock. It has set a price of $175 a share to those holders who will sell.

In 1959 this stock sold as low as $142 a share, and in a 1961 it hit $149 a share. Thus the company is willing to pay considerably higher prices for the shares than they were bringing in 1959 and last year.

Public psychology plays an important part in stock prices. Popular stocks often sell higher than they should because they carry romance. Conversely, unpopular stocks usually sell lower than they should.

Many leading corporations have outstanding non-callable preferred stocks that they, too, would like to retire. But a non-callable stock is a tough one to get away from many holders. The more anxious the corporation is to retire it, the more stubborn the owners are about holding it.

In this setting, I should like to mention five non-callable preferred stocks of leading enterprises that might be bought with the capital coming from the surrender of the National Biscuit $7 preferred.

United States Steel is doubtless the ranking industrial corporation of the world. It has outstanding a non-callable, cumulative $7 preferred stock. As this is written it is selling at $148 a share — $28 a share less than the price National Biscuit will pay for its stock.

Bethlehem Steel also has a $7 cumulative non-callable preferred stock that is non-cumulative. At $160 a share the yield is 5 per cent, compared with a 4 per cent yield on a preferred stock selling at $175 a share and paying $7 a year.

American Smelting and Refining, the world's leading custom smelter of non-ferrous metals, has a small issue of non-callable $7 preferred available to conservative investors. It is selling at about $148 a share to yield 4.7 per cent in perpetuity.

International Harvester, the world's largest producer of agricultural equipment and a giant maker of heavy motor trucks, has outstanding a high-grade, non-callable preferred stock paying $7 a share a year. Presently it is selling at about $156 a share.

A question to ask here is this: what would U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U.S Rubber, American Smelting, and International Harvester have to offer their preferred stockholders if these five leading corporations were to attempt to retire their non-callable preferred stocks? Surely a price considerably higher than they are presently selling for. National Biscuit will pay $175 a share in cash. That, it seems to me, would be in the range where these five prominent companies would have to bid for their preferred shares.

There are always bargains in the stock market for discerning investors.

Thief Repents

TWIN LAKE, Mich. (AP) — A conscience-stricken petty thief who stole a five-cent item from a Twin Lake market 20 years ago has paid his debt — with interest.

Proprietor Gus Oslund said he received a letter containing $1.05 and a note which explained the sender had taken the five-cent item and was ashamed.

"Here's 5 cents—plus 5 cents for every year I let go by," the unsigned note said.

Soldier Facing Trial for Talk About Injustice

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—A Texas soldier, accused of criticizing a crackdown on protests by disgruntled reservists and National Guardsmen, faced a special court-martial today.

He is Pfc. Bernis Owen, 23, of Seadrift, Tex., a pre-law student at the University of Texas before he was summoned to active duty last fall in the big reserve call-up.

Charges were brought against Owen for statements he allegedly made after Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, commanding general at Ft. Polk, banned the protest meetings a week ago.

Maj. James Vance, public information officer of the 49th Armored Division, said Owen described West's order as "a hilarious climax to a chain of injustices.

Owen was charged with disrespect, conduct bringing discredit to the armed forces and conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

If convicted, he could be given six months at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds pay.

West, a National Guardsman recalled to active duty from his civilian life as a Dallas, Tex., insurance executive, said in his order banning the meetings that the first protest meetings were orderly and quiet.

But, he added, "more recently there have been contemptuous words and remarks against the President of the United States and against the Congress and members thereof."

Ft. Polk has 21,000 troops, including about 15,000 Texas National Guardsmen in the 49th Division. The other 6,000—virtually all reservists and Guardsmen—are from 17 other states.

640 Workers Aid Battered Resort

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP) — It was a perfect Sunday for a spring outing, but the 86-vehicle caravan that pulled into this beach resort Sunday wasn't carrying pleasure seekers.

In the "neighborhood spirit of the old days," some 640 Pennsylvanians drove 153 miles from Allentown to spend the day helping battered Ocean City and Strathmere dig out from the March 6 storm.

The police-escorted caravan of buses, trucks and private autos rolled in at 9:15 a.m. The volunteers paused for a welcome from Mayor Nathaniel C. Smith, to whom they presented an old Pennsylvania Dutch dish — fresh tripe and shoo-fly pie.

Then they fanned out around the storm-devastated town.

Thirty carpenters went to work on the shattered boardwalk.

One hundred were sent by bus to Strathmere, about 10 miles south, where storm damage was very heavy.

As night fell, the Pennsylvanians formed up for the ride home after putting in more than 5,400 man hours.

Local Teacher Attends Economics Conference

Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt Kingston High School was among 50 selected high school economics teachers from New York State who attended a two-day conference on economic education at Utica College last week.

Dr. James E. Allen Jr., New York State Commissioner of Education, gave the opening address at the conference which was sponsored jointly by Utica College and the New York State Council on Economic Education.

Dr. Thomas J. Desmond, Utica College's director of continuing education and coordinator of the conference, said the purpose of the conference was to acquaint high school teachers of economics with the Task Force Report on Economic Education, a national report of recent developments and changes in the study and teaching economics.

50 Large Firms, JFK Move to End Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunities has obtained voluntary agreements from 50 large firms to end job discrimination among about 5 million workers.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, who heads the committee, obviously views this as a major accomplishment likely to be reflected by increased support for the Democratic administration among Negro and other minority group voters.

It long has been Johnson's contention that Negroes are more interested in voting rights and equal employment conditions than in some so-called social gains.

Johnson and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who serves as the committee vice chairman, have just completed conferences with nearly 100 of the nation's largest employers. They expect most of them to sign voluntary agreements, although some of the firms involved have few if any government contracts.

These conferences covered all the major industrial and business categories, including American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the nation's largest employer, oil, steel and auto companies, and major retail stores.

Generally, the voluntary agreements promise job promotions on the basis of merit, with no racial discrimination. They specify that as new jobs are created, workers will be hired without regard to color.

In addition, the voluntary agreements call for desegregation of company facilities as well as recruiting and training programs.

Upstate Police Nab 2 Escapees With Mink Coats

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A routine license-plate check led to the arrest Saturday of two men identified as escapees from a Louisiana penal institution. Police said the pair financed their trip north with stolen credit cards.

Two mink coats and three oil paintings were found in their car. Police said the car, the paintings, the coats and the credit cards were apparently part of the haul from burglaries in Dallas, Tex., and Oklahoma City, Okla.

The pair were identified as Richard Raquier, 23, a native of Manville, R.I., and Edgar Harper, 22, of Los Angeles.

Louisiana officials said they escaped from a correctional school at DeQuincy, La., two weeks ago.

Both were charged with illegal possession of a loaded pistol and held for grand jury action.

Says Glenn Orbit Aided Education

Evidence of this was at hand today from a national assembly of grade school heads and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's John Sims.

The teachers, pressing Sims for help, said they have been overrun with demands by their children for answers to space questions since Glenn's flight.

The teachers are here for the annual meeting of the Department of Elementary School Principles of the National Education Association.

Dealing with the inquisitive youngsters is a problem, Sims said. But it's rewarding, too.

"Our youngsters accept space science as a natural course of human events," he said. "We older people—myself and these teachers — are bewildered and have difficulty coping with it."

But he added, "Who can say that another Wernher von Braun isn't in the Ozarks? Today's sixth grader may be landing on the moon in 20 years."

FIVE NON-CALLABLE PREFERREDS

National Biscuit Company, the world's largest baker, wants to retire its 248,045 shares of $7 non-callable, cumulative preferred stock. It has set a price of $175 a share to those holders who will sell.

In 1959 this stock sold as low as $142 a share, and in a 1961 it hit $149 a share. Thus the company is willing to pay considerably higher prices for the shares than they were bringing in 1959 and last year.

Public psychology plays an important part in stock prices. Popular stocks often sell higher than they should because they carry romance. Conversely, unpopular stocks usually sell lower than they should.

Many leading corporations have outstanding non-callable preferred stocks that they, too, would like to retire. But a non-callable stock is a tough one to get away from many holders. The more anxious the corporation is to retire it, the more stubborn the owners are about holding it.

In this setting, I should like to mention five non-callable preferred stocks of leading enterprises that might be bought with the capital coming from the surrender of the National Biscuit $7 preferred.

United States Steel is doubtless the ranking industrial corporation of the world. It has outstanding a non-callable, cumulative $7 preferred stock. As this is written it is selling at $148 a share — $28 a share less than the price National Biscuit will pay for its stock.

Bethlehem Steel also has a $7 cumulative non-callable preferred stock that investors may buy. It is also selling in the $148-149 range.

United States Rubber offers an $8 non-callable preferred stock that is non-cumulative. At $160 a share the yield is 5 per cent, compared with a 4 per cent yield on a preferred stock selling at $175 a share and paying $7 a year.

American Smelting and Refining, the world's leading custom smelter of non-ferrous metals, has a small issue of non-callable $7 preferred available to conservative investors. It is selling at about $148 a share to yield 4.7 per cent in perpetuity.

International Harvester, the world's largest producer of agricultural equipment and a giant maker of heavy motor trucks, has outstanding a high-grade, non-callable preferred stock paying $7 a share a year. Presently it is selling at about $156 a share.

A question to ask here is this: what would U.S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U.S Rubber, American Smelting, and International Harvester have to offer their preferred stockholders if these five leading corporations were to attempt to retire their non-callable preferred stocks? Surely a price considerably higher than they are presently selling for. National Biscuit will pay $175 a share in cash. That, it seems to me, would be in the range where these five prominent companies would have to bid for their preferred shares.

There are always bargains in the stock market for discerning investors.

(Q) (from four readers) "Why doesn't the Government support its own bond prices at par?"

(A) Bond prices reflect money conditions. And interest rates go up and down in the national economy to conform to the times.

Thief Repents

TWIN LAKE, Mich. (AP) — A conscience-stricken petty thief who stole a five-cent item from a Twin Lake market 20 years ago has paid his debt — with interest.

Proprietor Gus Oslund said he received a letter containing $1.05 and a note which explained the sender had taken the five-cent item and was ashamed.

"Here's 5 cents—plus 5 cents for every year I let go by," the unsigned note said.

Benjamin Franklin invented the rocking chair.

Soldier Facing Trial for Talk About Injustice

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—A Texas soldier, accused of criticizing a crackdown on protests by disgruntled reservists and National Guardsmen, faced a special court-martial today.

He is Pfc. Bernis Owen, 23, of Seadrift, Tex., a pre-law student at the University of Texas before he was summoned to active duty last fall in the big reserve call-up.

Charges were brought against Owen for statements he allegedly made after Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, commanding general at Ft. Polk, banned the protest meetings a week ago.

Maj. James Vance, public information officer of the 49th Armored Division, said Owen described West's order as "a hilarious climax to a chain of injustices.

Owen was charged with disrespect, conduct bringing discredit to the armed forces and conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

If convicted, he could be given six months at hard labor and forfeiture of two-thirds pay.

West, a National Guardsman recalled to active duty from his civilian life as a Dallas, Tex., insurance executive, said in his order banning the meetings that the first protest meetings were orderly and quiet.

But, he added, "more recently there have been contemptuous words and remarks against the President of the United States and against the Congress and members thereof."

Ft. Polk has 21,000 troops, including about 15,000 Texas National Guardsmen in the 49th Division. The other 6,000—virtually all reservists and Guardsmen—are from 17 other states.

640 Workers Aid Battered Resort

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP) — It was a perfect Sunday for a spring outing, but the 86-vehicle caravan that pulled into this beach resort Sunday wasn't carrying pleasure seekers.

In the "neighborhood spirit of the old days," some 640 Pennsylvanians drove 153 miles from Allentown to spend the day helping battered Ocean City and Strathmere dig out from the March 6 storm.

The police-escorted caravan of buses, trucks and private autos rolled in at 9:15 a.m. The volunteers paused for a welcome from Mayor Nathaniel C. Smith, to whom they presented an old Pennsylvania Dutch dish — fresh tripe and shoo-fly pie.

Then they fanned out around the storm-devastated town.

Thirty carpenters went to work on the shattered boardwalk.

One hundred were sent by bus to Strathmere, about 10 miles south, where storm damage was very heavy.

As night fell, the Pennsylvanians formed up for the ride home after putting in more than 5,400 man hours.

Local Teacher Attends Economics Conference

Mrs. Mildred G. DeWitt Kingston High School was among 50 selected high school economics teachers from New York State who attended a two-day conference on economic education at Utica College last week.

Dr. James E. Allen Jr., New York State Commissioner of Education, gave the opening address at the conference which was sponsored jointly by Utica College and the New York State Council on Economic Education.

Dr. Thomas J. Desmond, Utica College's director of continuing education and coordinator of the conference, said the purpose of the conference was to acquaint high school teachers of economics with the Task Force Report on Economic Education, a national report of recent developments and changes in the study and teaching economics.
